ROOSEVELT MAY NOT RUN.

Threatens to Play Quits if the Platform Does Not Suit.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The national progressive party must accept Col. Roosevelt's political doctrines if he is to be its standard bearer. He said late today as he started for Chicago that he would insist upon making his "confession of faith" to the delegates before the Platform Committee makes its final report, and that he would not accept the nomination on a platform that he did not approve. According to present arrangements, Col. Roosevelt will deliver his speech Tuesday. This plan, he said, was satisfactory to him, as at that time the Platform Committee will not have completed its work.

Beachey Falls From Aeroplane.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

BATTLE CREEK (Mich.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Hillary Beachy, noted aviator and brother of Lincoln Beachy, also famous airman, is in a critical condition here tonight as the result of a fall from his machine this afternoon. He is suffering from a broken shoulder bone, fractures of his legs and arms, a long, deep gash in his forehead and probable internal injuries. Attending physicians say he has slight chance of recovery.

EXHIBITION FLIGHT.

Beachy came to Battle Creek under engagement of the Chamber of Commerce to give an exhibition flight. This afternoon when about 150 feet in the air, his machine struck an air pocket and turned turtle. The aviator worked desperately to right the aeroplane, but was unsuccessful. He succeeded, however, in getting back of the motor and did not get entangled between the machine and the planes of his craft. A wire, snapping free, was embedded in his head and he struck the ground with terrific force. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and at a late hour tonight was still unconscious.

SERIES OF FLIGHTS.

Beachy came to Battle Creek to make a series of flights on Saturday and Sunday, but owing to motor trouble he was unable to make a flight on Saturday.

Just before going up this afternoon he said to those about him that the weather was ideal for flying, concluding his statement by saying:

"No matter how good the weather, you never know just how long you are going to be a whole man when you go up in a thing like this," and pointed to his machine.

Shortly afterward his assistants started his machine and he started the flight. The machine left the ground easily and gracefully.

CIRCLED ABOUT.

The aviator circled about for a short time when persons watching especially his machine, noticed his engine was not working properly, as if it missed fire occasionally. He continued to fly, however, and after making a circle of a half mile, started on the second half way round, his motor stopped and he headed the machine for the ground. The machine alighted gracefully and rapidly along the ground in the direction of a wire fence and a group of buildings.

A few seconds later spectators saw the machine crash into a small building, wrecking both aeroplane and building. Bystanders pulled Beachy unconscious from under the wreckage and rushed him to the hospital in an automobile. The machine was completely demolished.

CHINESE GENERAL MAKES AIR FLIGHT.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

ALAMEDA, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Gen. Lau Tien Wei of the army of Chung Hwa, the Chinese Republic, is the first martial man of that nation to risk his life in an aerial flight. He went up in a biplane this afternoon at the local aviation field. The flying craft was handled cleverly by Tom Gunn, a fearless young Chinese birdman, who has won renown among the navigators of the atmosphere. The flight lasted ten minutes and in that period Gunn and his passenger circled the field many times. Gen. Wei expressed himself as delighted with the experience.

AVIATION FANS KILLED IN WRECK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TORREON (Mex.) Aug. 4.—Three passengers were killed and thirty-two injured, many of them seriously, in a collision of electric trains near here today. The trains were returning from a suburb, where crowds had witnessed exhibitions of two aeroplanes intended for use in the campaign against the rebels in the north.

NOVELIST WELLS GOES UP IN THE AIR.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—H. G. Wells, author of "The War of the Worlds," "The First Man in the Moon," "The War in the Air," and other thrilling works, was a passenger with Grahame White on a hydro-aeroplane at Eastbourne Friday and gives in today's Daily Mail his impressions as follows:

"I spent ten or fifteen minutes in the air and landed with a conviction that I had only a foretaste of a great store of hitherto unsuspected pleasures. At the first chance I will go up again and will go higher and further.

"I am still in a state of amazement at the smooth steadfastness of the motion. There is nothing on earth to compare with that unless it is an ice yacht traveling on perfect ice. The finest motor car in the world would be a goggling, quivering thing beside it. I went up with the impression that flying was still an uncomfortable experiment. And I came down with the knowledge that it is a thing achieved by everyone. It will get much cheaper and swifter; will be improved in a dozen ways."

EARTH'S NINTH WONDER.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WHITESBURG (Ky.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] What is said to be one of the most wonderful caverns in the world has been discovered in Eastern Kentucky. Unexplored and almost unknown, its grandeur has been viewed by few.

The cave is in the foothills of the Cumberland mountains on the line of the Fork Creek headwaters. Two or three exploring parties have ventured into the maze of vast subterranean passageways, but none has ever reached the end. The searchers reach passageways, rooms and chambers innumerable and transparent stalatic combs of wonderful beauty. One room has a floor as level and as smooth as a dance hall. Others have fathomless pits.

Evidently human beings had visited the cave before, only to lose their lives trying to find their way out, for old kettles, dishes, lanterns and other utensils were discovered. The cave will be penetrated further by exploring parties.

President Taft's Daughter and Son Make the Start for the Glacier Reserve in Colorado from Minneapolis.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft, daughter and son of the President, and Mrs. Taft left tonight for Glacier National Park, after a few days spent here as the guests of President and Mrs. George F. Vincent of the University of Minnesota, and Miss Isobel Vincent, who was a schoolmate of Miss Taft.

Accompanying the party was Miss Martha Bowers, daughter of the former Solicitor-General, and Paul Harder.

Miss Vincent and her mother, as chaperone, joined the party here.

Who was fatally injured yesterday in Battle Creek, Mich., by falling from his aeroplane when it struck an air pocket at an elevation of one hundred and fifty feet. RECALL ELECTION IN OAKLAND TODAY.

I.W.W. Agitators Put the Sovereign Citizens of Bay City to Enormous Expenses Because They Alleged Mayor Prevented Them from Mouthing Their Anarchistic Dictrines in the Streets.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, Aug. 4.—For the half hour between 6 and 6:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, all the factory and waterfront whistles of Oakland will summon the citizens to the polls. During the day they will decide whether Mayor Frank K. Mott, and Commissioners F. C. Turner and W. J. Baccus are to be recalled or retained in office.

The polls open at 6 o'clock a.m. and close at 6 o'clock p.m. From 6 until 6:30 o'clock, continuously; between 7 and 7:30 o'clock for ten minutes; at noon for ten minutes; and again for half an hour continuously between 5 and 5:30 o'clock, the whistles will blare and bellow.

ON THE BALLOT.

The ballot contains printed statements of the reasons on which the recall is based, and the answers thereto of the officers affected. In substance the complaints against the Mayor and his commissioners are identical. They recite that the police unlawfully invaded a public meeting last March, thereby violating the constitutional right to peaceable assembly; that the police have since been used for the suppression of free speech; and that the Mayor and his commissioners evaded the referendum provisions of the new city charter by granting certain leases of waterfront lands and certain municipal franchises before the charter went into effect.

I.W.W. AGITATORS.

The Industrial Workers of the World, who in recent months have been conspicuous in disturbances at San Diego, Cal., Seattle, Wash., and Lawrence, Mass., have been active in circulating recall petitions, and are charged by Commissioner Turner with being behind the whole movement.

In addition to the general charges brought against the Mayor, Commissioner Turner is charged with continuing the third degree, the unsanitary conditions of the City Jail and maintaining the chain gang.

He replied in part: "The City Jail is not unsanitary, although it is an unattractive residence for the lawless.

"As was my duty I ordered the police to enforce the laws and to prevent unlawful obstruction of the public streets by the I.W.W.s who proclaim anarchy and treason, and who utter blasphemy and things unprintable. And I will not be swerved from my duty.

"The issue is: Shall an official be recalled for upholding law and decency?"

MAYOR'S REPLY.

Mayor Mott's reply is that he did not order the police to invade the meeting specified, and that as to the franchises and leases, "all matters therein involved were long since approved by the people in several votes of confidence after months of deliberation and with full understanding."

The women's clubs have been earnest workers for the administration as now constituted.

WHY HUSBANDS LEAVE HOME.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That unpleasant mothers-in-law are one of three chief causes of delinquency of husbands, is the belief of Theodore Puls, chief probation officer, after a year of service with his sole duty to investigate cases in which husbands have fled from home. The other two causes are drunkenness and untidiness on the part of the wives, but in order, he places the mother-in-law as second in importance. When the average man, he says, becomes about 40 years of age he is likely to be led astray and if it is not drink, then Puls begins to investigate the mother-in-law.

RADICALISM RAMPANT.

New Party Frames Its Platform.

Places Made in Instrument for All of Roosevelt's Pet Theories.

Preliminary Draft Ready to Be Submitted at Chicago Convention.

BY GEORGE GRISWOLD HILL.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Some measure of the radicalism of the third-term party's platform may be gained from the summary of that interesting document, which is even more radical than the industrial programme which Lloyd George has prescribed for England.

The pronouncement of the new party begins with a declaration that the time has come to turn from the issues of the past to the industrial problems of the present and future.

It asserts that the wellbeing of the worker is fundamental to the prosperity of the nation; that there can be no industrial efficiency unless the worker is strong, healthy and well cared for, intelligent and skilful, and that this being so it becomes the duty, not of the States alone, but of the Federal government, to take such steps as shall insure these ends.

NATIONAL SUPERVISION.

To achieve these ends the platform declares for an industrial commission which shall assume and exercise supervision over all concerns, whether individuals or corporations, which are or may become engaged in interstate commerce, which shall regulate their affairs in the interest alike of employers and employees and of their communities in all the States.

It is declared there must be provided a form of industrial insurance against accident to the employee, the burden of which shall rest upon the employer, and further, a form of insurance against sickness, disability and old age to the maintenance of which the employer, the government and the employees shall all contribute.

It is getting to be an essential part of the political power of the Federal government to intervene and force such regulations as shall be necessary to insure the maintenance of a decent standard of living in all industries and in all sections of the country.

WAGES TO BE FIXED.

The proposed industrial commission shall be, according to a provision of the platform, empowered to fix a minimum wage scale for employees, to prohibit the employment of child labor and to prescribe the number of hours for which women shall be employed.

The platform argues that the last provisions above named are essential to the welfare of the employer and employee alike, in order that those engaged in a given industry in one State and who shall refrain from employing child labor, shall abstain from working women an undue number of hours and shall pay a just wage, may not be submitted to unfair competition by those in other States who do not observe these fundamental provisions of an industrial prosperity.

A BRIEF FOR TRUSTS.

The platform will contain an emphatic declaration against efforts to disrupt and dissolve the great industrial combinations, commonly called trusts, asserting that to do so is to go back to mid-century conditions and seriously to mitigate against that efficiency for which those combinations make; but asserts that on the contrary such combinations of capital must be left free to promote the general prosperity under such rules and regulations for their control as shall be prescribed by the proposed industrial commission of the Federal government.

The pronouncement will contain a declaration for a tariff board with far broader powers than those enjoyed by the existing board and with power to summon witnesses, take testimony and demand the books of those engaged in the industries it may be called upon to investigate.

RECALL ENDORSED.

The recall of judicial decision as indicated by Col. Roosevelt in his Columbus speech is endorsed in the document.

Provision is made for a "land monopoly tax" which will be a tax on privilege and not on industry.

Equal suffrage without regard to sex is advocated, and extension of democracy.

There is an enthusiastic utterance regarding the advisibility of improving international waterways.

Punishment for contempt of court, except where such contempt is committed in the presence of the court, is denounced, save after a trial by jury, and a declaration for a summary trial by jury for alleged contempt is embodied.

And, finally, provision is made for amending the Constitution of the United States by means of the initiative any proposed amendment to become a part of that instrument when approved by a majority of the states, instead of larger fraction now provided.

CONVENTION LACKS A MIND.

Roosevelt's Puppets Have No Opinions to Voice.

Most They Will Say Is "Wait Until He Arrives."

BY FRANK W. CRONE.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] It has been a fine day for automobiles today. Likewise for baseball games. Some of the delegates to the Bull Moose convention did not ride around town because they found the taxicab rates too high. Others didn't attend the ball game because they got here too late. So far as any convention business was concerned, though, the ball game and all the other local attractions suffered no competition.

This gathering is beginning to have all the outward appearances of a regular machine-made, national convention. It isn't. It was a pink tea or a town meeting or something similar in the way of exchanging ideas. But so far as business of a convention was concerned there was hardly enough to obscure the vision of an infant if Chicago's justly famous lake breeze had blown the aforesaid business out of the window of G. Washington Perkins and sent it flying through the atmosphere.

SAIL IN THE BREEZE.

A good many yachtsmen, taking advantage of that breeze, have had sailing races. Many delegates have envied them, for if they didn't take an automobile ride or visit the baseball park, they had to stand around hotel corridors. Nobody tried much to figure what would happen in the convention.

Which is exactly the state of affairs. This isn't a convention; or if it must be called a convention, it is one with the mainspring out of the machinery and all the wheels making futile little motions because there is no mainspring. It is evident that the party movement needs T. R. as much as he needs it, and nothing is going to be done without his say-so.

There was a meeting of the subcommittee of the provisional National Committee this afternoon and another this evening to discuss the negro contests and the Ohio contests. There were no decisions. There will be none until tomorrow morning, when a vote will be taken in the full committee, after the arrival of the colonel.

Little doubt exists in the minds of the people here what the vote will show, even though a great many of the Bull Moosers think it unfair to the negro and a bad move politically to take such a slap at the black-skinned brother just now. However, it seems to be the T. R. idea to have a white organization for his third party in the South, so white that it will be lily white if necessary. The provisional National Committee isn't going to vote to exclude the blacks, though, until Col. Roosevelt himself is here on the ground.

THANKS ON QUITTING.

Many of the delegates reached here today. Many things are beginning to assume the outward aspect of a convention where, three days ago, children were playing freely in the hotel lobbies—as pastoral a scene as this city produces. It must be recorded that so far California has produced the one and only convention band and that didn't last long. As a matter of fact, it got a vote of thanks when it retired.

Enthousiasm is the best product of the people here, from Senator Dixon, head of the Roosevelt National Committee, down to the latest delegate. Senator Dixon produced a fine specimen this evening. He declared that there would be no question about the winner of the election.

"Of course, we know we've got to do some work," said he. "But just keep your eyes open. A lot of people are making fun of the third party and the Roosevelt candidacy now. They won't be a few weeks from now. We who are in this movement know how big and vital it is and that is going to do in the various States we represent. We are in this to the finish. We have burned our bridges behind us. When we left the Republican party we left it for keeps because we didn't think selfrespecting men could stay in there after the events of the June convention here. "We have now in this new party the principles and the candidate demanded by thousands who are sick of both the old parties, their bosses and machines. Just keep your eyes open and watch things move."

THE GREAT MIND.

Col. Roosevelt gets here early tomorrow. The first session of the convention will be held at noon. The provisional National Committee between Col. Roosevelt's arrival and noon, will settle the negro contests in Florida and Mississippi. There will be an automobile parade of women delegates, attended by suffrage sisters on foot. There will be a few keynote speeches and maybe that "experience meeting."

The convention is waiting for the arrival of its author and leader, Theodore Roosevelt. And while it waits, the Bull Moose party has no opinions—at least for publication—and it is far from certain what it purposes to do or believe.

"We cannot tell till tomorrow" is the reply of the adiret Moose.

"We won't know till the Colonel comes," is the answer of the more frank, when approached by newspapermen with questions. There are a few of the more favored who have enjoyed the confidence of the Colonel all along who kno wsomething what they believe, among those being Senator Dixon and ex-Senator Beveridge. But even these do not know and have no purpose to commit themselves regarding any question which has arisen since they last heard from Oyster Bay.

As a result, the nebulous character of the third party was never more striking than it has been today. This does not mean, by any means, that the Bull Moose does not know its own mind, but it does mean that the mind is now en route to Chicago, entrusted to the tender mercies of the New York Central railway, as it were and that under these circumstances—the New York Central not having installed a long distance telephone system on its trains—the new party cannot be expected to know its own mind. It cannot hear its master's voice. All this will be changed tomorrow, however, and assurances are given that from that time on everything will move with harmony and perfection of detail.

This being the present situation, however, the day's developments must all be accepted as purely tentative and dependent on the arrival and on the opinion of the Colonel.

WILSON CONSIDERS CRANE.

Man Named by President Taft as Minister to China and Recalled May Be Democratic Treasurer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEAGIRT (N. J.) Aug. 4.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, wealthy manufacturer and supporter of LaFollette in his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, may be Treasurer of the Democratic national campaign.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson had the name of Mr. Crane under consideration today. The only announcement the Governor would make was that a treasurer had been agreed on by himself and National Chairman McCombs but the name would be withheld until it could be determined whether the man selected would accept.

Mr. Crane, who was appointed by President Taft in July, 1909, as Minister to China, but who was recalled in October of the same year just as he was setting for the Orient, is known to have leaned favorably toward the candidacy of Gov. Wilson.

The announcement that Joseph P. Davies of Wisconsin, secretary of the National Committee, would be in charge of the Wilson headquarters in Chicago, acting there also as assistant treasurer, added some strength to the probability that Mr. Crane would be selected as National Committee treasurer because of the friendship between Messrs. Davies and Crane.

Governor of Ohio Turns Down Nice Invitation to See Dr. Wilson of New Jersey Notified.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

COLUMBUS, Aug. 5.—[Special Dispatch.] Gov. Harmon will not attend the notification ceremonies at the New Jersey White House in Seagirt, next Wednesday. The invitation of Senator Ollie James of Kentucky to the chief executive of Ohio to be on hand at the Wilson home has been answered in the negative. Gov. Harmon is now at his summer home in Charlevoix, Miss., busy with a split bamboo fishing rod and some silver doctor flies. The fish are biting too well to be neglected even for a few days and Mr. James has been handed Gov. Harmon's regrets.

WILSON ENDS CONFERENCE.

NEW YRK, Aug. 4.—Shortly before midnight, Gov. Wilson and Chairman McCombs concluded a conference. The Governor announced that while a treasurer for the National Campaign Committee had been agreed upon, his name would be withheld until it could be determined whether he would accept. Henry Morgenthau, a wealthy real estate man of this city, will be chairman of the Finance Committee, the Governor said, and Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, secretary of the National Campaign Committee will be in charge at the Chicago headquarters.

Newspaper Men Take Charge of Literary Hatcheries.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEAGIRT (N. J.) Aug. 4.—Gov. Wilson returned to Seagirt tonight after a twenty-four-hour visit to New York, the first since his nomination, but of the score or more political leaders in New York, none saw him. Gov. Wilson talked politics with National Chairman McCombs just four hours, and slept fourteen hours. He took two trolley car rides without attracting attention. On his way back to Seagirt, the Governor was met on the train by Josephus F. Daniels, national committeeman of North Carolina, who rode for a few miles with the nominee.

Gov. Wilson had nothing to say tonight on politics. He is preparing for the notification ceremonies Wednesday.

It is practically certain that Gov. Marshall, the Vice-Presidential nominee, will take the stump in Maine, where the State election is to be held early in September. Gov. Wilson may possibly speak in Maine, but some of his friends do not wish him to do so, believing the national ticket ought to be kept apart from the local issues of prohibition.

Thomas J. Pence, of Raleigh, N. C., a Washington newspaper man, has been designated as assistant to National Chairman McCombs. Pence has had charge of the Wilson publicity bureau in Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FAIRBANKS (Alaska) Aug. 4.—A. J. Daly, Democratic national committeeman for Alaska, committed suicide early today aboard a river steamboat near Tolo, Vana, seventy miles west of here, while en route for Fairbanks to the Iditarod district. Mr. Daly shot himself through the head with a revolver. A Coroner's jury at Hot Springs Landing found that Dr. Daly was temporarily insane when he killed himself. In accordance with a request contained in a will found on the body, burial will be at Hot Springs. Mrs. Daly is visiting at St. Paul, Or.

ADOPTS JEWISH FAITH.

Negro Lawyer in New York City Adopted Into the Synagogue By Special Services Conducted by a Rabbi.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Rufus Lewis Perry, probably the most prominent negro lawyer in this country, embraced the Jewish religion today after special ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Solomon Scheiner. Lewis has been a member of the Baptist church all of his life, but recently decided that the Jewish faith approached nearer to his religious ideals than the faith in which he had been baptized.

When Lewis was asked what led him to embrace the Jewish faith he said:

"I believe in the Jewish religion. I believe we will all be in Jerusalem eventually and for months I have been studying the religion and considering the question of becoming a Jew."

SARDINES ARE SHY.

The Schools Fail to Take Their Summer Outing Off the Maine Coast and Prices May Go Up.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EASTPORT (Me.) Aug. 4.—The failure of the sardine schools to visit the coast of Maine in their accustomed numbers this year has resulted in a shortage of the canning supply which threatens to send up the price of the fish for the year 1913.

The canners usually plan to close the season with a supply of 2,000,000 cases in stock, but this year even with the 400,000 cases carried over there appears little prospect of securing the normal product.

gaged in framing the platform is composed of Dean Kirchmey, of Columbia University law school; Dean Lewis, of the University of Pennsylvania law school; Charles McCarthy, librarian of the State of Wisconsin; Gifford Pinchott, James R. Garfield, William Allen White and Chester Rowell, of California. The meetings are being held at the University Club of this city.

As guides to their deliberations, the platform makers are using the speech of Col. Rosevelt, an advanced copy of which is before them and "Concentration and Control," the economic work of President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin.

It is pointed that in its present stage the platform is merely a draft and that it may be somewhat altered before it is finally submitted to the convention, but it is also asserted that such modifications are more likely to take the form of change in phraseology and the addition of further plaints than the radical alteration of any of those thus far embodied.

CONSTITUTIONAL PUZZLE.

One question upon which a final decision has not been reached is that providing for an amendment to the constitution by a vote of a majority of the states, following the employment of the initiative, some of the conferees urging that such an amendment should not be affected by a vote of less than three-fourths, or possibly four-fifths of the states. The majority of the provisions, however, is understood to have received the cordial endorsement of Col. Roosevelt, but he will be further consulted regarding it when he reaches Chicago.

Of course, only the favored few know what provisions the platform of the new party contains. This knowledge is denied to the rank and file, even of the delegates, for the present, many of whom will probably learn the policies to which they are expected to subscribe only from the Publishers Press.

But the Bull Moose party as a whole is breathless tonight.

SECOND PLACE TALK.

Vice Presidential gossip has turned about Gov. Johnson and Luke Wright of Tennessee, who is a Democrat, but who is supposed to cherish a deep-seated resentment against President Taft because he was not retained in the Taft cabinet. Toward evening an unconfirmed report that Gen. Wright would not accept the vice-presidential nomination chiefly because he believed this was a democratic year and his own party would be successful in November, gained ground and then popular opinion swung back to Gov. Johnson. Pearl Wright, former Republican National Committeeman from Louisiana and a firm believer in the "Lily White" idea for the southern states, is convinced that Col. John M. Parker would make the ideal vice-presidential nominee and that his selection would insure Louisiana and several other southern states to the Bull Moose party, but this idea does not seem to take generally. Some of the third term men declare such a selection would be "too raw," but this may all be changed when the Colonel arrives, for he has expressed the view that it would be good politics to nominate a southern Democrat for second place on the ticket.

ANOTHER ROYALIST PLOT.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LISBON, Aug. 4.—The government has learned of plans for a new royalist outbreak, said to have been arranged for Friday, August 9. The information came from a loyal republican, who learned of the plot from Ludovina Ruax, an active royalist, among whose admirers he was numbered. The woman paid the penalty of her indiscretion today when she was placed under arrest.

The government said it had evidence that the conspirators contemplated seizing the Ministers of State and the deputies and that simultaneously Gen. Conceiva was to make a raid upon the capital from the north.

Cabinet and Senate of Turkey Hold a Conference and Vote for Dissolution of Chamber of Deputies.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 4.—The Cabinet and Senate held a prolonged secret joint meeting today and voted for the dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies on the ground that the present extraordinary session of the Chamber, being a continuation of the previous session and having completed its term, now lapses.

It is expected that an irade ordering dissolution and new elections within three months will be issued tomorrow.

STILL HUNT IS ON FOR RUNNING MATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The National Progressive Party will be formally launched tomorrow noon in the Coliseum, where a little more than a month ago President Taft was renominated on the Republican ticket.

Between 1100 and 1200 delegates are expected to participate in the convention. On Wednesday, when all the necessary preliminaries of a national convention have been disposed of, they will ratify the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for President. Col. Roosevelt tentatively was placed in nomination at a meeting here the last night of the Republican convention, when his followers laid the foundation upon which tomorrow's convention has been built.

VICE-PRESIDENCY.

Who will be the nominee for Vice-President has not been determined. Few leaders in the city will discuss the subject of a running mate for the colonel, saying it is a question to be settled in the convention, as the delegates deem best. On every hand there is the apparent purpose of the convention leaders to defer announcements of any character whatever until the convention shall have assembled and the delegates have been consulted.

So far, only the temporary officers of the convention have been given out. It was quite generally reported tonight, however, that Col. John M. Parker of New Orleans, a Democrat, would be permanent chairman. Former Senator Beveridge of Indiana will be temporary chairman.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION.

Leaders of the new party movement, anxious to avoid any semblance of alliance with the old parties, are urging that the Democrats who have joined in the movement, particularly from the South, should have especial recognition. There has been much talk of nominating a southern Democrat for second place on the ticket, but this plan did not gain much headway today. Gov. Johnson of California still is talked of as the most likely candidate and while he is not a candidate for the office, it is said, he will accept the nomination.

Gov. Johnson is regarded as one of the leaders anxious to attract as many Democrats to the new party standard as possible.

The proposed selection of Col. Parker of New Orleans, as permanent chairman, led to talk tonight that the national ticket might be made up of former Republicans. Much depends, however, upon the attitude of Col. Roosevelt, himself, who will arrive tomorrow morning.

OHIO CONTESTS.

A subcommittee of the provisional National Committee met tonight to dispose of contests in the Ohio delegation, which were not regarded as especially important. Tomorrow morning the National Committee will meet early to finally dispose of the contests from Mississippi and Florida, where the contestants are negroes.

It was not known tonight whether Col. Roosevelt would attend the opening session of the convention. It was intimated that he might remain away from the Coliseum until Tuesday afternoon, when, in response to an invitation to be extended by the convention, he would make the address outlining his views.

No plans have been made tonight for the welcoming of Col. Roosevelt tomorrow, but the California delegation expressed a purpose of being at the railway station with brass bands and banners to make the arrival of their leader as impressive as when he came to Chicago during the Republican convention.

WOMEN DELEGATES.

More women delegates are expected to attend the convention than any other national political gathering in the history of the country, and they plan to assemble tomorrow in front of the Art Institute and march to the convention hall with banners and bands.

Among the delegations arriving today were those of Montana and Idaho.

The basis of representation in the progressive convention is one vote for each Senator and Representative, but delegations from most States will exceed this and the votes of the delegates are to be split in fractions ranging from one-half to one-seventh.

South Carolina so far, is the only State from which no official notification of participation in the convention has been received.

Most of the State caucuses will be held tomorrow, when nominations will be made for the various standing committees and for the new National Committee.

The platforms of the party are expected to follow in a general way the platform which Col. Roosevelt brought to Chicago seven weeks ago, but which was never made public.

The programme for tomorrow calls for convening at noon; the speech of Mr. Beveridge as temporary presiding officer; the appointment of committees and the adoption of the resolution inviting Col. Roosevelt to address the convention Tuesday afternoon. If all of this can be accomplished by 3 p.m., it is proposed that the first session shall close with an "experience meeting," in which a representative from each State is expected to tell in a brief address why he is a progressive.

AN IMMORTAL SHIP.

Boat in Which Stevenson Sailed Over the Sky Line of Romance Will Engage in Fishing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Four lines of agate type, buried in the water front news of the day, carry the announcement that the schooner Casco, immortal as the ship of adventure in which twenty-four years ago Robert Louis Stevenson sailed over the sky line of romance, never to return, will shortly be remodeled, "to enter the fishing business."

Stevenson sailed from San Francisco in 1888. He left the world behind, but his incurable hemorrhages of the lungs followed him, and he died in Apia, Samoa, December 3, 1894. Cruising through Oceania on the Casco, in search of health, he gathered the materials for that grim little masterpiece, "The Ebb Tide," for "The Wrecker," and "In the South Seas."

Many of his best letters in the collected edition were written squat-legged on the Casco's sun-bleached decks. He delighted in telling how her trim lines and smart rig made her the wonder of the Polynesian year, how bare-breeched island beauties slid over the red plush cushions of her white and gold cabins for sheer joy in the luxury of the sensation.

No more of that. The Casco will wallow into port with her waist full of reeking fish, and when she is too old for hard service she will be sold to the wreckers and broken up for junk.

BANDIT STILL AT LARGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DELTA (Cal.) Aug. 4.—The lone bandit who murdered Frank L. Dimock here last Friday night remains at large. After working two days on the case, without the shadow of a clew or so much as even a suspicion, half a dozen detectives and police officers have abandoned the field without forming a theory.

Dimock was shot dead behind his bar, when he reached for his revolver instead of putting up his hands as the robber had demanded. While four men stood face to the wall, their hands above their heads, the masked man stood astride the body, meditatively jingling a handful of silver—the price of a life.

Exact count today showed that he obtained $1.50 in coin and overlooked $13.50 in a compartment of the cash register.

Dimock was buried this afternoon in Redding with the honors of the Masonic, Knight of Pythias and Moose orders, shall of which he belonged.

In the absence of Gov. Johnson, Lieut.-Gov. Wallace, as acting Governor, will open the convention. Judge J. T. Ronald of Seattle, president of the association, will respond.

Thomas Taylor, Minister of Public Works for British Columbia, arrived here tonight. His address next Wednesday evening on the roads of British Columbia is expected to be one of the most important of the convention.

A Bottle That Had Contained Poison Indicates That "Frank's" Friend Committed Suicide.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN MATEO (Cal.) Aug. 4.—The body of a well-dressed man about 50 years old was found late today close by a cemetery near here. An emptied bottle of poison indicated the cause of death. A revolver, which had not been discharged, lay beside the bottle. A watch, ring and other articles, but no marks of identification were in his clothes.

A sentimental farewell had been scribbled in a notebook. It said: "I have suffered; I can't stand this any longer. I have no friends, no relatives, no home since Seak's death." There was a postscript: "Good-bye, Frank."

Open Shop Works Smoothly in Spokane Pressroom.

Union Had Violated Agreement With Publishers.

Newspapers Dispense With All Union Pressmen.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Forced to the wall by the refusal of the Spokane Pressmen's Union to sign a new arbitration agreement, on the heels of the violations of its existing contract by the same union, the Spokesman-Review and the Evening Chronicle three days ago declared an open shop in their joint press department, and are now successfully operating under that arrangement. There are not any of the old employees now in the service of the office and the pressrooms will continue to be operated under the independent management.

AGREEMENT IGNORED.

The trouble began at the time of the Chicago strike last May. In spite of the fact that the strike originated in Chicago and was confined to that city, President Berry of the International Union called upon the unions all over the country to declare their willingness to join in a sympathetic strike. The great majority refused to break their agreements with the publishers, but the Spokane union, in spite of its local contract binding it against such action, voted to strike on the call of President Berry.

The existing contract between the newspaper and the pressmen expired August 1. The new contract proposed by the local union contained no provision for arbitration, and this fact was emphasized by the action of the International Pressmen's Union in refusing to renew an arbitration agreement with the Newspaper Publishers' Association, representing nearly all the leading daily papers of America.

ARBITRARY DEMANDS.

But the contract proposed by the local union demanded changes in the working rules of the pressroom designed greatly to hamper the office, reduce the output of the individual workman, cut down the efficiency of its employees, and result in a long period of idleness during working hours. This fact, backed by covert threats, gave abundant reason for the belief that a strike was contemplated with the purpose of crippling the office and making it impossible to deliver news to subscribers or render advertisers the service to which they have a right.

With all arbitration agreements denied, with preposterous conditions demanded, with past contracts made worthless and threats of strike afloat, the management decided it was time to act, and the open shop was declared. Indications are that the union is thoroughly whipped.

STRIKE RIOTERS BALKED.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHARLESTOWN (W. Va.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Since the fusillade of shots fired in the encampment of the State troops at Mucklow, Paint Creek district, Friday night, the entire hillside has been picketed and troops have been scattered over the mountainside looking down into the narrow ravine of the valley, guarding every approach to the mines. The striking and rioting miners have been balked in every avenue of approach to the camp of the troops and the opening of the mine shafts.

Tonight there are seventeen companies of State troops on guard, every available soldier in the State from the national encampment being pressed into service. The militia officers are inclined to believe that the show of soldiers will be sufficient to awe the strikers into a cessation of their violence.

While the miners are well armed, having 10,000 rounds of ammunition at their disposal, their leaders contend they are friendly with the State troops and that the bullets of Friday night did not come from the miners, but from private detectives and guards stationed at the entrance of the mines by the companies.

INDIANS GETTING CIVILIZED.

COUDERAY (Wis.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch by Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.] At a council meeting held with the Indians at the post village in the Couderay Indian reservation, the Chippewa Indians refused to sell the lands which they own along the west fork of the Chippewa River to a power company. The Interior Department of Washington has been notified and will take up the matter.

Ballew.

SHOOTS FOUR PERSONS ENDS HIS OWN LIFE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LA JUNTA (Colo.) Aug. 4.—George Ballew, who, on Friday night shot four people and burned down a hotel at South Platte, committed suicide three miles from here today. He had been pursued from Rockyford by a Sheriff and his posse and took his life only after he had been wounded twice and brought to bay behind a haystack.

Early today Ballew, on foot, started from Colorado Springs, where he had spent the night, toward La Junta. Several miles out he stole a horse and buggy from a farmer named George Governau. The latter soon discovered his loss and telephoned to La Junta. Thinking that Ballew was merely a horse thief, Deputy Sheriff Jack Devine left here to intercept him. He had passed the village of Ormega when he saw a man ahead of him try to flag a passing freight train. But the train did not stop and the man dropped in the tall grass behind the track. Further down the track was the horse and buggy that Ballew had stolen.

Devine hurried forward and the next instant Ballew opened fire. They exchanged many rounds of shots, the deputy giving way until he had retreated back toward La Junta for nearly a mile.

Devine at last reached a house where there was a telephone, and ran in and telephoned for assistance.

A posse was soon at his command and Ballew, driven from outbuilding to outbuilding near the house, was a target for good marksmen as he ran. Finally he was driven to the haystack. The posse spread out, taking shelter behind wagons and fences, and when its members finally commanded the stack from all points, Ballew was found lying dead. Powder marks showed that he had shot himself. He bore many other wounds.

FEDERALS REPULSED.

A small group of rebels from the Casas Grandes garrison fought all day to protect the railway from a Federal force of a strength unknown by them. The train, coming from Casas Grandes, picked up the wounded along the railway. Rebel reinforcements sent out from Juarez failed to arrive at Corralitos, the train returning here.

It is the belief at rebel headquarters here that Gen. Salazar, who at last reports, occupied Casas Grandes with 1000 rebel soldiers, has evacuated the town in face of the Federal advance from the south and north. His route of necessity will be over a wagon road leading to Gallego, a point to the east on the Mexican Central Railway and due south of Juarez.

On reaching the central right of way, which has been disrupted between the city of Chihuahua and the border, Salazar either will move north, joining Gen. Pascual Orozco here, or Orozco will move south to join Salazar. Gen. Orozco still says nothing regarding his next move, although he admits that he expects to vacate Juarez soon.

PLIGHT OF COLONISTS RECEIVES ATTENTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 4.—Movements of the Federal and rebel armies south of here, together with the plight of American colonists in the trouble zone, occupy the interest of American officers at this point.

A party of thirty men from Colonia Diaz, arrived today at Hachita, N. M., and colonists from the Juarez and Dublan colonies are expected to reach the border tomorrow. The latter are reported to have been unsuccessful in reaching the Federal army, and to have engaged in a series of skirmishes with the rebels about Casas Grandes.

A report has reached the United States secret service that Gen. Salazar, with 1000 rebels, has evacuated Casas Grandes with two groups of Federals, largely outnumbering the rebel forces in pursuit. According to this information, Salazar is headed for the border, moving due north with the intention of reaching Palomas, opposite Columbus, N. M., and a few miles west of El Paso. This will bring him in close with the rebel leader, Orozco, who remains in Juarez with about 5000 men and together they may proceed along the border into Sonora.

This move, American officers here believe, is made also with the view of securing ammunition, and it is probable that the United States border patrol will be increased.

That the rebels are in great need of ammunition is evidenced by the recent instances of border running.

CARTRIDGE SMUGGLERS CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 4.—Incident to the exchange of shots early yesterday between rebels from the Mexican side of the international line and United States soldiers stationed on the border, a few miles east of El Paso, two Mexicans, with 2000 cartridges, were caught tonight in the act of crossing the line.

The catch was made by the same company of the Twenty-second Infantry which was under fire earlier in the day. The ammunition was brought from El Paso in an automobile and turned over to the border runners. The driver of the automobile escaped. A few shots heard tonight, apparently from the Mexican side, preceded the capture of the smugglers, causing some excitement in the vicinity in view of the former incident.

"I believe that the firing from the Mexican side last night was done more to cause the excitement, perhaps while ammunition was smuggled, than to harm anyone," said Capt. Samuel G. Berry, who is in charge of the company on duty at that point.

Border running is especially easy at that point, as the international line is not marked by the Rio Grande, a piece of land known as "the island" denoting the boundary.

TO DRIVE OROZCO INTO HIDING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4.—Encouraged by Gen. Sanjines' success near the eastern boundary of Sonora, and relying upon Gen. Huerta to wage an energetic campaign against the rebels with the army that drove them back from Bachimba, government officials believe that by the end of the week Pascual Orozco will be seeking hiding places or begging for amnesty. Desertions are reported to be numerous and increasing.

Juan Ortiz, leader of 300 rebels, is reported by Gen. Rabago at Madera to have surrendered with all his men after his request for amnesty had been granted.

The plan of campaign was altered slightly by the action of the rebels in the Mormon colonies. To place an army in that district as soon as possible, a force was sent from Encinillas, on the line of the Mexican Central Railroad between Chihuahua and Juarez. The bulk of Huerta's army is now in and near Madera, whence it will be pushed northward along the line of the Northwestern towards Juarez, and westward into Sonora in pursuit of the retreating insurrectos.

It is regarded as probable that the forces will be in Juarez within a few days, although there is no intention of bringing about international complications by assaulting the border towns.

In the south, Zapata appears to be almost as vigorous as ever in his campaign. There is little doubt that Zapata now is subordinate to Orozco.

THE CHINESE LOAN.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—While negotiations for the $300,000,000 loan are deadlocked, provincial governments of the new Chinese republic are supplying the funds for its conduct by contributing sums which the Viceroys formerly supplied to the old dynasty.

Word comes to Washington that the provincial governments are opposing the loan, which they believe would place China completely under the domination of foreign powers. Although American bankers were to participate in the new financing, it is said in diplomatic circles that if China can get the money in any other way the abandonment of the loan project would be viewed with equanimity by the United States, which has been advising the new republic against embarking on expenditures beyond the power of the people to bear.

CHICAGO STRIKE SITUATION.

Meeting Between the Leaders of the Street Railway Employees and Employers is Scheduled for Today.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Two meetings between the leaders of Chicago street car employees and railway officials will be held tomorrow for a final debate on the proposed street car strike. The men will make a flat demand for an increase of wages and if the increase is refused, the first advance of arbitration must come from the street car officials. If no advances come, the union leaders declare they will call out the 10,000 surface and the 3200 elevated employees.

General labor union officials, however, do not believe that a strike is imminent.

TO SAVE FAMILY TIES.

United States Senator Takes a Thousand Mile Trip to Prevent a Boy from Being Deported.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Fear that injustice to Stanley Stewart, an English immigrant boy, might entail sundering of family ties, took Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska on a 1000 mile journey today to be present at a hearing of the boys case before an American Immigration officials at Quebec, Canada, tomorrow.

Young Stewart, en route from England with his mother, to join his father at Omaha, was ordered deported, having been found by the authorities to be feeble-minded. Senator Hitchcock concluded the boy was merely backward and secured a stay in deportation, pending an examination before a special medical board.

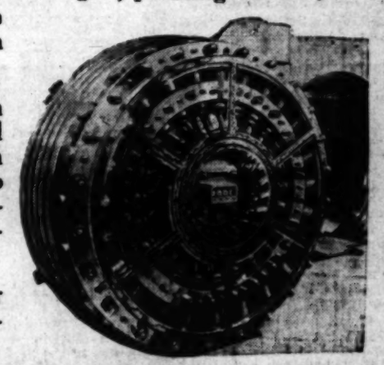
Are Your Valuables Safe?

The clipping tells another story of the futility of depending on the home safe. It is like a guide post for the house burglar, pointing the way to the valuables. Why run this risk when you can have safety and protection in our bank at small cost?



This door to the new Safe Deposit is the finest all steel door in the world.

You can secure a box large enough to keep valuable papers and small heirlooms from $2.50 up. Such boxes are absolute necessities to families and to business men doing a moderate amount of business.

We have still larger boxes for bulky packages, voluminous papers, books, records, etc.

In our storage room we take trunks, bulky silver, valuable paintings, chinaware and those valuables of the household which you cannot afford to leave without protection.

Remember that this "Bank for Everybody" pays 4% interest on six months' term savings accounts of $1 or more.

WANTS TO TAKE THE PENINSULA.

Senator Suggests Acquiring Lower California.

Would Accept It in Cancelling Mexican Claims.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The suggestion made yesterday informally in conversation by a Senator whose word carries weight in international matters that this government should take over Lower California in payment of American claims against Mexico, is taken here as a logical step in a discussion that has cropped up at intervals for many years.

As far as can be learned, the State Department has taken no steps in the matter and could hardly do so until some semblance of order is restored in Mexico. But if Mexico showed a willingness to part with her barren peninsula the plan would at once receive strong popular support in this country.

Ever since the acquisition of California and the western territories following the war with Mexico it had generally been understood that the omission of Lower California from the lands ceded to the United States by Mexico was a mistake on both sides.

As the Senator pointed out, it is a natural part of our coast and is commercially valuable to us as affording control of the Colorado River through the last hundred miles of its course, which now passes through Mexican territory. It is strategically of importance to us, owing to Magdalena Bay, which has long been used by our navy for target practice, and is absolutely worthless to Mexico. Outside of the capital of the State of La Paz there are not a score of settlements in the whole peninsula.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] California again tops the list of the States in the condition of its cotton crop, which is ninety-nine as compared with the next highest, Virginia, which is eighty-five. The condition of the California crop has even improved 1 per cent. over the conditions of the same crop on June 25, when the last report was made. As compared with similar dates last year, the condition of the California crop is exactly the same as it was then. The average condition of the United States is 76.5 and on June 5 it was 80.4.

WORK FOR FIRE FUND.

Friends of Forest Service Striving to Prevail Upon Congress to Appropriate Million Dollars.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] It is but a little while since the entire West united almost as a man to urge on Congress the desirability of restoring to the agricultural appropriation bill and item of $1,000,000 for fighting forest fires, which the House had cut to $200,000. The Senate restored the appropriation to $1,000,000 and the House accepted the amendment, but in conference, apparently through the mistaken notion that the Forest Service would be satisfied with the smaller amount, it was recommended that the Senate recede from its amendment. The Forest Service, it is said, has not admitted that the full sum is not needed to provide against emergencies, and friends of the service will make another fight to get the full sum of $1,000,000 allowed.

COLORADO HEADS LIST.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The battleship Colorado is the peer of the American navy for ships of the battleship class. The vessel heads the list with a score of 71,618 for the fiscal year ended June 30 last. Her closest rival is the battleship Delaware, with a score of 51,434, and the New Hampshire is third with a score of 39,961.

In recognition of the showing made by the Colorado, the commendations of the Secretary of the Navy have been communicated by letter to Capt. Gill, the commander.

GIRL IN TRANCE BECOMES A MAN.

MEDICAL WORLD PUZZLED BY DUAL PERSONALITY.

During Her Seizures She Smokes a Pipe Like a College Youth and Takes Great Strides, but in Her Normal State She Is a Veritable Princess.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISIANA (Mo.) Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Bessie Stewart, 22 years old, daughter of C. T. Stewart, a well-to-do farmer living near Wellsville, has been suffering from some form of hysteria or cataleptic trance that is interesting the medical world. Dr. T. H. Winans of Mexico, Mo., who attended her, shortly will have an article in the Medical Century, a medical journal of New York, telling of the queer case.

Miss Stewart is a graduate of a Missouri normal school, is refined and beautiful. Shortly before her attack she was teaching school in Texas. She has a number of personalities when in this trance and can read books or papers she has never seen before in the dark or with her eyes closed.

Likewise she told of deaths that occurred in distant cities before telegrams announcing them arrived in Wellsville.

At times Miss Stewart impersonates a man. She will take long strides when walking, light a pipe and smoke it as a man would and in her conversation use expressions peculiar to men. Then casting off this personality she will dance, pose and recite with the finish of the most graceful of girls.

BARONESS PLAYS AT ADVENTURE.

FIGURES IN ROMANTIC ESCAPADE AT OSTEND.

Member of Aristocratic Family at The Hague Elopes With Son of Her Father's Coachman—Declares She Has Loved Him Since Childhood—Forcibly Sent Home.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

OSTEND (Belgium) Aug. 4.—A sensational and romantic adventure of the Baroness Charlotte Coehoorn, 22 years old and a member of the most aristocratic family of The Hague, has just become known here. The Baroness recently arrived here simultaneously with Henry Besemer, 24 years old, and the son of a coachman, and they went to a fashionable hotel. The next day two strange men appeared at the hotel and demanded that the managers deliver the girl to them, saying she was insane and had escaped from watchful relatives, who were about to put her in an asylum. The hotel manager refused to hand the girl over to the men and they then offered to give $400, but he still refused.

A later and more determined attempt to take the Baroness from the hotel succeeded, for she has disappeared and is believed to have been taken to Holland.

FREE LUNCH REGULATED.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

LA PORTE (Ind.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The abolition of the free lunch in Los Angeles is not a mark on what the health board of Indiana has tacked on the troubles of the saloonkeepers. A free lunch in Indiana in the future is almost a regular meal with all the trimmings excepting the finger bowls. According to a ruling put into effect yesterday by the Board of Health, saloonkeepers must furnish a clean knife, fork or spoon and a clean plate with every piece of free lunch in their saloons. The old fork, reposing in a glass of water, which formerly did duty for everybody, is abolished, and even the roast beef sandwiches must have their individual platter in the future.

AUTOISTS LOST IN DESERT.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] "Lost in the desert in an automobile," was the title of a story told in Chicago yesterday by Woodward W. Duke; members of the family of tobacco magnates. Duke and three companions are on their way in a motor car from Los Angeles to Princeton University and stopped over here for a rest of a couple of days. The couple became lost two days out from Los Angeles, but they finally found a cabin and the owner directed them to the right road. Duke's companions on the trip are Marvin Garnyard and Jan P. Bliss of Ventura, Cal., and G. L. Burt of Los Angeles.

CORPSE ON FISHING LINE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The body of a dead man fastened securely to the end of his line was the ghastly find of Bert Smith, a fisherman, when he pulled in his line after a cast in the Illinois River here early this morning. The corpse, which slowly came above the surface as the line was hauled in, proved to be that of Peter Papinau, a night watchman, on one of the local packet boats. Papinau had been missing since Friday. No search was made for him at the time, however, as it had been a custom of Papinau to depart without leaving notice of where or why he was going.

STEEL MEASURE FULLY FRAMED.

Chairman Stanley Will Report the Bill Today.

Democrats Declare It to Be Proof Against Attack.

Claim It Will Compel Steel Trust to Dissolve.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] After the most exhaustive study and consideration Chairman Stanley of the Steel investigating committee has prepared a bill which he will bring in on Monday aimed at the eternal discomfiture of the Steel Trust. Incidentally it is promised that the bill will prevent other trusts from operating in similar manner to the Steel Trust.

While this bill is not of formidable length, being about 1100 words long, the Democrats who have been prying into the inner workings of the Steel concern for months, declare that they have perfected the measure to such an extent that it is proof against attack from any angle. It has been subjected to the most minute scrutiny and is pronounced flawless. Within six months after the bill is enacted into a law they claim the trust will have to dissolve.

This will be the crowning feat of the investigating committee, and the bill means business. There is a provision which makes it a crime for a holding company to hold stocks in other similar companies. The bill forbids different companies to be under the same ownership and even aims to prevent an individual from owning the stocks of competing companies. Heavy penalties are provided for the infraction of the various prohibitions in the bill. The measure is put forward as the work of Chairman Stanley.

KAHN PAVING THE WAY.
WANTS A NEW BUILDING.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Representative Kahn has been interviewing the members of the House Buildings Committee on the subject of an appropriation for a new marine hospital building in San Francisco next year. He is assured that there is a very good prospect that the committee will agree next winter to allow $700,000 for a site and building. The present building is on the Presidio military reservation and the army officers would like to have it removed both owing to the increased need for room on the reservation and also because it is considered a menace to the purity of the water in Mountain Lake, which is the source of water supply for the Presidio. A site near Ft. Mason is suggested.

DESERT ENTRIES EXEMPTED.
NOT AFFECTED BY NEW LAW.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Many inquiries have been made as to whether the reclamation homestead act included desert entrymen. The Interior Department has announced that the bill clearly does not affect them. It is expected the bill which has passed both houses will be signed by the President.

BILL POSTERS ARE SUED.

Government Begins Action in Chicago to Dissolve Alleged Trust, Alleging Restraint of Trade.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Suit for dissolution of the Associated Bill Posters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, who have been succeeded by the Posting Advertising Association, was filed yesterday in the United State District Court.

In a petition in equity Attorney-General Wickersham charged a conspiracy to destroy competition, fix prices and monopolize and dominate the bill-posting business of this country and Canada.

In addition to the dissolution the government asks injunctions against practices and agreements said to be in violation of the Sherman law.

Among the corporations and individuals named as defendants are Thomas H. B. Varney, Oakland, Cal., and John Sheehan, San Francisco.

The following charges are made:

That members of the association have been prevented from accepting national work from advertisers patronizing non-members.

That a minimum scale of prices for posting national work has been provided.

That members are obliged to contract for all national work through the solicitors licensed by the association and that these solicitors pay a license of $1000 and receive a commission of 16 2-3 per cent., which is increased on advertising for three consecutive months or longer.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LA LIBERTAD (Salvador) Aug. 4.—Though telegraphic communication between Salvador and Nicaragua is suspended, enough news has leaked to indicate that the situation in Nicaragua is serious. Both President Diaz and ex-Minister of War Mena, who heads the revolutionists, are conservatives, and it is understood the liberals are supporting Mena. Mena holds Masaya and Granada and is said to have a strong force at Rivas, near San Juan del Sur.

Stock Exchange Brokers and Clerks Dismayed.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Harry Brown, six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, built like a Sampson, almost whipped a portion of the Chicago police force yesterday after scaring years of growth out of a number of stock brokers and clerks in the Stock Exchange. Brown first used a gun, then resorted to his fists, and was subdued only by force of great numbers.

The young man, less than 30 years old, is accused of forgeries aggregating more than $12,000. He was tapped on the shoulder by a Pinkerton man as he was leaving the Northern Trust Company's building, and immediately knew what the tap meant, so he returned it with a blow to the Pinkerton man's face and ran into the arms of a policemen.

More policemen came and still more. Brown drew a revolver and building, flourishing it. Amid the rushed through the Stock Exchange wild scramble for places of safety more detectives and policemen appeared, and Brown was finally beaten down, his clothes torn to ribbons. In front of the Central Station Brown made another attempt to escape, and even when half kicked, half carried into the station house, he continued fighting until placed in irons and lodged in a cell.

Brown is said to have established small accounts in three different banks under separate names and then cashed forged checks, using the name of a woman who is in Europe.

Beauty Flees Wrath of Town Marshal.

Mrs. Harry W. Rheinstrom,

Wife of a young Cincinnati millionaire, who was ordered to leave the town of San Rafael, Cal., by the City Marshal. She was given one hour in which to go and left within the time limit.

Flight.

LEAVES WITHIN LIMIT SET BY CITY MARSHAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN RAFAEL (Cal.) Aug. 4.—Mrs. Harry W. Rheinstrom, better known as Edna Loftus, formerly a London music hall singer, who has for two years been in the limelight of notoriety in this State, was ordered out of town last night by City Marshal Edward J. Daly. She was given one hour to depart and having received the order at 6 o'clock this evening she was ready to go within the time limit and took the train for San Francisco.

Miss Loftus was first married to Winnie O'Connor, the jockey. The marriage soon ended in the divorce courts and she returned to the stage. As one of the "rain dears" on a vaudeville circuit in the East she attracted the notice of Harry W. Rheinstrom, the son of a millionaire brewer of Cincinnati. The two eloped and were married in Kentucky, January 6, 1910. Rheinstrom had been adjudged incompetent previous to his marriage. They came to this State and the young heir to the Rheinstrom millions was again adjudged insane and sent to a private asylum at Stockton.

Mrs. Rheinstrom came to this city several months ago, and her stay here has been marked by numerous touches of high life involving a number of young men and has resulted in breaking up at least one family, which brought matters to a climax.

Lux Orientalis.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The following editorial comments on topics of the hour are printed in eastern papers:

BASEBALL AS A CIVILIZER.
SUPPLANTS COCK FIGHTING.

[Boston Globe, Aug. 4:] Our little brown brother in the Philippines as a rule takes to the public schools with commendable zeal, but he takes to our game of baseball with still greater enthusiasm and it is even to supplant cock fighting in his affection. So strong a hold has baseball on the average Filipino youth that it is recognized as a distinct influence in the civilization of the natives.

Now, when he gets civilized enough to mob the umpire (a Spaniard preferred,) to hold out for a raise in salary and insist on having a pair of shoes when he makes a home run, we shall know for a certainty that our friends across the sea have benevolently assimilated or are ready for self-government.

THE STANLEY REPORT.
WALL STREET'S DERISION.

[Washington Post, Aug. 4:] Wall street scarcely flicked an eye when it heard that the Stanley report had been filed in the House at last. As if in cynical derision of the announcement that the report was forthcoming, the speculators sent steel up a few points the preceding day. And the fractional decline that followed the filing of the report was frankly accredited, not to the woeful tidings of the republic, but to profit-taking sales.

Even Wall street, which acts some times like a frightened fawn, has sense enough to know that Congress has too much sense to swallow the mixed dose that was prepared by the Stanley Committee.

If it is any consolation to the majority of the committee to know that their recommendations are regarded as radical they should not be denied that assurance. The report is radical. It is however, very much like an overdose of poison.

MOCKING A RACE.
ORIGINAL, BUT NOT NEW.

[New York Herald, Aug. 4:] Mr. Roosevelt wants the white vote at the South and the negro vote at the North and he reasons it out in a letter to the successor of "Uncle Remus" on a moral plane as elevated as any highwayman ever adopted in forwarding a desperate embezzlement on the road.

His solution of the race problem is that in the Northern States, where in some cases colored voters hold the balance of power, they are to have full political rights and some honors, but in the Southern States, where no one who hopes for white votes can advocate the equality of the negro before the law, they are to be cast out as hopelessly ignorant and corrupt.

This negro policy may be original, but it is not new. Mr. Roosevelt enforced it when he was President. At that time the black man never knew whether he was to be invited to luncheon at the White House, as Booker Washington was, or subjected to executive lynch law, as were the members of the Brownsville battalion. Everything depended upon the caprice and the interests of Mr. Roosevelt himself.

WHERE HE COULD WIN.
ENGLISH APPLAUD WILSON.

[Baltimore American, Aug. 4:] It will be of particular interest to those representatives of the citizenship of this country who derive their progenity from the Green Isle to know that Woodrow Wilson could win out in a walk in England. The English papers are patting him on the back because he seems so English you know, and so far removed from the plebeianism of popular idolizing and so beset before and behind with the prerogatives that inhere in the British officeholder of high rank.

But then none should be peevish over the appreciation in which the Democratic candidate is held in England. The days of twisting the lion's tail have gone by, and with George upon the throne and Wilson in the White House, the court of St. James and that of Washington would be so close that invitations to social events would be interchanged by the privileged persons of the two countries.

DOCTRINE AS IT STANDS.
NO EXTENSION REQUIRED.

[New York Times, Aug. 4:] The Monroe Doctrine, like the anti-trust act, needs no amendment or extension of its scope. As the doctrine was declared in 1823 by President Monroe, it is perfectly applicable to any case that may arise at Magdalena Bay, or elsewhere, under Senator Lodge's hypothesis of the transformation of a shore front commercial property from a private corporation's hands into a naval base established by a foreign government. Even if we admit that such attempts to gain on this soil a foothold for a military or naval base may have been made, it is our judgment that the body of the doctrine, as set forth in President Monroe's message, from which we have never departed, but which we have consistently upheld, is, without any amendment whatever, entirely adequate for our protection.

THE PANAMA BILL.
TRAFFIC MANAGER NEEDED.

[New York Times, Aug. 4:] Nobody seems to be more surprised by the speed and economy of the construction of the Panama Canal than the Congressmen who ordered the work done. The world rather expected, if it did not hope, that we should reach the unhappy experience of France. But we have triumphed on the engineering and financial side only to give exhibition on the administrative side hardly less embarrassing than would have been failure on the constructive side.

The government urgently needs a traffic manager who shall see that the government gets its own, but the dispute is about dividing the profits to be made by intercepting them before they reach the treasury. It is hardly surprising. The canal is a public enterprise and therefore ought to be managed independently of such considerations governing private enterprises. There is no way of bankrupting any undertaking with the American taxing power behind it. All considerations of profit and loss and of business prudence, therefore, are not worthy to be considered. And Congress is not considering them.

A WONDERFUL PARTY.
TO ENLIGHTEN POSTERITY.

[New York World, Aug. 4:] Today, from all parts of the country, men are journeying to Chicago to lay broad and deep the foundations of a new political party which shall ceaselessly hold up to the American people the atrocity of 1912. Generations yet unborn shall hear of it. The remotest posterity shall be made acquainted with the "theft" that deprived a minority of victory over a majority, and ages hence children at school will be doing sums to prove that 451 delegates in a national convention ought always to prevail over 561.

THE NEW THOUGHT.
MYSTICISM REHABILITATED.

[Cincinnati Enquirer, Aug. 4:] The new thought is ancient oriental mysticism rehabilitated. The new healing can be accounted for by the same influences that hung the walls of pagan temples and medieval churches with motive offerings, and the new theories of government are at least as old as King Darius, the Persian, and Aristotle and his pupil, Alexander the Great. Darius lived from 549 to 486, B.C., and established a great empire which he ruled for more than forty years. One of his greatest distinctions is having been beaten by Miltiades and his Greeks at Marathon, and another that he cast the Prophet Daniel into the lion's den. A story by Herodotus in which Darius figures shows at that early period of history forms of government were discussed.

These glimpses of early political ideas are sufficient to indicate how thoroughly we ought to know the past and what caution and deliberation we should exercise before being induced to uproot and discard the foundations of our institutions.

MISS BURKE GETS TITLE.

Daughter of "Bonanza" Burke of California, Engaged to Son of Proud Spanish Grandee.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

MADRID, Aug. 4. — American friends in the Spanish capital of Patricia Humphrey Burke of California, daughter of "Bonanza" Burke, who turned up a fortune in the pioneer mining days, hear with gratification that she has accepted the hand and title of Don Juan Lopez Ayala de Ayala, Marquis de Cadiz, and son of the Duke De Feunanta Del Leviglia, one of the most attractive and proudest of the grandees of Spain.

Both Miss Burke and the Marquis are now in Paris and it was not intended to announce the betrothal until the Marquis received the consent of the old Duke, his father, and the Duke had, as court etiquette stipulates, secured the approval of King Alfonso, which will be given as a matter of course. Both Madrid and Seville society received the news with quite a flutter.

It is expected that with the aid of Miss Burke's millions—she is described by the Spanish journalists as "rich as the Queen of Shebah and beautiful as Cleopatra"—the ancient Casa Lopez, the castle of the Ayala family in Madrid, will be furnished up and brilliant entertainments succeed the long period of quiet which has marked the absence of the Marquis and the solitude of the Duke since the death of the Duchess some years ago.

QUEST FOR THE ALLENS.

Authorities Hear They Are in Hiding Near Seattle but the Officers Are Unable to Find Them.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 4.—Information that Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the Virginia outlaws, were believed to be hiding in the vicinity of Seattle, caused the Federal and county authorities to conduct a thorough search of the surrounding country for the men but neither was found. The first information of their coming to Seattle was received a month ago by United States Marshal J. R. H. Jacoby, from Marshal Joseph Anderson of Salt Lake City. Anderson wrote that Allen and Edwards were headed for the home of a kinsman named Hatfield, living near Everett. A deputy sheriff canvassed Snohomish county but was unable to find the Hatfield family. Allen is said to have been seen in Ballard, a Seattle suburb, two weeks ago, but since that time no trace of him or of Edwards has been found.

CRAZED BY FICTION.

OSHKOSH (Wis.) Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sympathy for prisoners whom he was called upon to arrest in discharge of his duty, is said by physicians to be responsible for the nervous breakdown which unbalanced the mind of Sheriff Villwock of Winnebago county, who is now in the Northern Hospital for the Insane. Prior to assuming office, Villwock was strong mentally and physically, but he listened to and believed the stories told him by crooks whom he arrested until their alleged sufferings unhinged his reason. His sympathetic nature proved an easy mark for criminals who took advantage of it to the limit and finally drove him to insanity.

FLATTERY FOR NAUGHT.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS DON'T LIKE ROOSEVELT BRAND.

Mrs. Lexow Insinuates that the Third Termers Mean to Indorse Universal Suffrage to Catch the Skirted Voters in States Where They Have Already Won Ballot.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.]

Mrs. Caroline Lexow,

Executive secretary of the woman's political union, who refuses to get enthusiastic over the Bull Moose convention in Chicago, insinuating Roosevelt has inveigled his personally conducted delegates to intimate they are going to write woman's suffrage in the platform to flatter the women.

Mrs. Caroline Lexow, executive secretary of the Woman's Political Union, refuses to enthuse over the Bull Moose convention.

"As women working for the vote," she said today, "we must keep our political opinions to ourselves. Our strong point, the strong point of the suffragette movement, is that no politician knows how the women's vote will go. It is an unknown quantity and therein lies our strength.

"Why, the suffragette who tells her political opinions has thrown her cards right down on the table. She has given away the game. If the politicians get an inkling of the way the women votes are going it would, I believe, put the cause back a hundred years.

"You see, people will generalize. If one woman who is working for suffrage says 'I am a Democrat,' politicians are prone to conclude that she speaks for the crowd. It is absurd, but it's so.

"That is what happened in Iowa. The National Progressive party of that State indorsed us. Later the Democratic party there also indorsed us. Would the Democrats have done this if the suffragists had responded to the new party's indorsement by in any way allying themselves with it? Of course they wouldn't."

Mrs. Martha Wentworth, vice-chairman of the Woman's Suffrage party, says: "We declined to indorse the new party; we have not in any way affiliated with it." She said: "We indorse no political party. We shall go to every political convention where we can get seats and speak if we are asked to."

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

WOULD MUZZLE DOGS ALWAYS.

Pasadena Man Favors Adoption of State Regulation.

Canine Keeps Dignified Balance During a Runaway.

Religious Services Held by Campfire in Arroyo.

[Office of The Times, 52 S. Fair Oaks ave.]

PASADENA, Aug. 5.—County Veterinary Surgeon Ward B. Rowland, who is a resident of Pasadena, declared yesterday that at the next session of the State Legislature an effort will be made to secure the passage of a State law compelling owners of dogs throughout California to muzzle them, winter and summer.

"There is a movement under way," he said, "that has this for its object. If I can go to Sacramento I certainly shall take a hand in it.

"If such a law were enacted and a quarantine established so that no dogs might be taken from one place to another, and none brought into the State, within ten months' time there would not be a single case of rabies in California; and if dogs from other parts of the country were then kept out of the State there would be no need of muzzles and no children would be bitten.

"Only a few days ago a mad dog bit three children and a horse at Baker Station, on the Whittier car line. The horse went mad with the rabies.

"This dog has not been found yet, although the probability now is that it is dead.

"All dogs in Los Angeles county should be muzzled and those who are not willing to water their dogs when they are muzzled should not be allowed to keep them.

"There is a county ordinance that provides that all dogs outside of municipalities shall be kept muzzled, but it is not enforced. The great difficulty has been to get the different cities and towns of the county to act in unison.

"After a few children have been bitten and die then something will be done."

There is no dog muzzling ordinance in effect in Pasadena, although City Health Officer Black declares that he will not hesitate to ask for one if he sees a necessity for it and Mayor Thum and some of the members of the City Council believe the dogs should be muzzled during the summer months.

DOG KEEPS HIS SEAT.

Jack, a bulldog whose supremest delight is to ride about the city in the order buggy of the grocery firm of Spangler & Dodge, yesterday afternoon maintained his seat in the vehicle with perfect equilibrium while the horse, frightened at a passing car, careened wildly through several of the busiest streets of the city.

The runaway began on Colorado street near Fair Oaks avenue, the horse going east to Marengo avenue and then north to Union street, where it finally came to a standstill, with no damage done.

Throughout the journey, Jack, the only occupant of the buggy, sat on his haunches and calmly gazed at the pedestrians who ran before the swiftly approaching rig.

MOUNTAIN SERVICES.

The sky was the ceiling and a large rock the pulpit of a church in which services were held at Camp Losadena, in the Arroyo Seco, last night. Instead of the light from hundreds of incandescent lamps there were the yellow flames of a campfire to illuminate the place.

Rev. Charles H. Scott, pastor of the Lincoln-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of this city, preached the sermon and several songs were sung. The meeting was attended by the twenty-five members of the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Association, who are camping near Losadena and the guests at the latter place.

MANY GO TO MOUNTAINS.

Crowds poured into the near-by canyons yesterday from Los Angeles and all parts of Southern California. The Mt. Wilson trail was black with hikers all day and many picnicked in the Arroyo Seco.

WORKMAN IS HURT.

While working with a derrick Steven A. Salthick, an employee at the Baldwin rock crushing plant in the Arroyo Seco, was injured there yesterday. He became entangled in some ropes and the derrick fell upon him.

He was taken to the Pasadena Hospital, where it was announced last night that it is believed his injuries are confined to a number of bruises on the head and body.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS WERE CLOSED.

Santa Monica Has No New Cases of Infantile Paralysis and Danger Is Considered Past.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 4.—Although two of the Sunday-schools of this city were closed today on advice of the city health officers, there are no new cases of infantile paralysis in this city, and the authorities expect to give the city a clean bill of health in this regard within two or three weeks, as the four cases which now exist in the city are progressing satisfactorily, and neither will terminate fatally, according to present indications. At the meeting of the City Council tomorrow evening, measures will be taken to prohibit the admission of children into theatres until the scare has passed.

SUNDAY CROWD.

One of the largest crowds of the season thronged the beach today, long lines of promenaders filing from Venice to the municipal pier and dotting the sands for over three miles. An estimate of the number who came here by electric train and auto is given as 25,000. There were no accidents to mar the day in Santa Monica, the lifeguards at the Ocean Park bath house having an easy day of it. The places of amusement were well filled.

The Very Rev. J. J. Wilkins, D. D., at one time dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Los Angeles, but now head of a large Episcopal church in St. Louis, occupied the pulpit of the church of St. Augustine-by-the-Sea this morning. Dr. Wilkins urged the congregation to contribute to the fund to pension aged and disabled clergymen of their faith.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

South Pasadena Trustees Will Pass on the Valuation of Properties—Woman Falls From Car.

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 4.—The Board of Trustees will sit as a Board of Equalization Monday August the 12th at 10 o'clock, and will continue in session until all assessment complaints are adjusted. It is not expected there will be many complaints as it is believed that few changes in the assessment figure will be necessary. A fair and equitable assessment is said to have been made this year, as great care was taken by the men doing the work.

FELL FROM CAR.

Mrs. L. Cooper, No. 1613 Monterey Road who was returning from Pasadena last evening with her two daughters, sustained serious injuries when she fell from the steps of a street car. It is stated that her daughters had alighted safely, and that when she followed them, the car started just as she was leaving the steps.

NO SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

Following the warning issued by Acting Health Officer, C. F. Metcalf, on account of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in Los Angeles county, the various Sunday-schools of the city were closed today to all children under the age of fifteen, and will not re-open again until further notice.

WASHBURN FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mrs. Eliza B. Washburn, who died Friday of apoplexy, will be held at the family residence, No. 1510 Oxley street, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Charles M. Fisher, D.D. pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating, with interment following at Rosedale cemetery in Los Angeles. The deceased was a native of Ohio, was 62 years of age, and leaves a widower, John W. Washburn and one son, Harry B. Washburn, a lawyer in Los Angeles. She is also survived by two brothers, George A. Johnson of Cincinnati, Ohio, James E. Johnson of Waverly, Ohio, and three sisters, Mrs. D. W. Barly, of Irvin, Ohio, Mrs. W. T. Washam of Jackson, Ohio, and Miss Minnie D. Johnson, who made her home with Mrs. Washburn. She came to this city about one year ago from Cleveland, Ohio.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Spiritualist camp meeting which has been in session in Mineral Park for the past month, will close after an all day session today and tomorrow. They have had many speakers and mediums, and their programme has also included new thought speakers and other liberal cults. A large and enthusiastic audience has attended the various meetings.

The Executive Committee of the San Gabriel Valley Inter-city Commission, has asked for a hearing before the Board of Public Utilities in Los Angeles, in reference to the San Pedro street franchise, which affects over 110,000 people. The congestion on Main street is a serious problem, and has caused great inconvenience to those living in the cities in this valley, and conditions that now exist, are certain to become worse with the further development of Southern California. If the franchise is obtained it is expected that twenty or thirty minutes a day will be saved for all persons in the San Gabriel cities, who use electric interurban service.

DINUBA.

DINUBA, Aug. 4.—That the consistent work of bee inspectors of Tulare county saved the apiarists of this district thousands of dollars during the present season was the statement made at the gathering of the Tulare County Beekeepers Association which was held here this morning. Inspectors who were responsible for the prompt destruction of imported stands in which there was the dreaded foul brood, came in for the Association praise, and the officials are on record as favoring even greater powers for the inspectors during the coming year.

LONG BEACH MAN FATALLY HURT BY A CHINAMAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA MARIA, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] H. L. Enloe, a capitalist of Long Beach, is hurrying to this city where his son, Rhea Enloe, is dying from two bullet wounds in the stomach, inflicted by a Chinaman. The young man and the Celestial had a fight this afternoon on the Bradley ranch, four miles from this city. Enloe was shot down while rushing at the Chinaman with a crowbar.

Spectators say Enloe, who ran away from home two months ago and who was employed on the ranch with a threshing machine crew, went into the Chinaman's cook tent, and, ordered to leave, became so furious that he attacked the Celestial with a long bar of iron. His onslaught was met by two bullets which doctors say will prove fatal.

The Chinaman made no attempt to get away and was arrested and lodged in the local jail.

Long Beach.

BOYS DRIFT OUT WITH TIDE RISE.

Two Unknowns Save Long Beach Youngsters.

World Advised as to the Health of Children.

Several Thousand People Attend Assembly Finish.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 4.—Harold and James Mathews, aged 6 and 8, and Wallace Martin, aged 10, whose parents are here for the summer from the interior, and occupy a cottage on East Seventh street, wandered down to the beach this morning and finding a small row boat on the shore, near Devil's Gate, got into it.

The rising tide and their playfulness floated the boat and soon the little fellows found themselves 100 feet from shore and in the breaker line. Young Martin bravely took the oars and tried to come ashore, but his strength was of no avail against the breakers and in his struggles he lost an oar and in endeavoring to recover it tumbled into the water.

The two Mathews boys proved heroes and as their companion came up James reached the remaining oar out and Martin, who could not swim a bit, caught hold of it. The lads were unable to get him into the boat, and their efforts were imperiling all three when two men coming from Alamitos Bay saw the lads and went to their assistance. After some difficulty in the surf, drenched to the skin and scared, but otherwise unharmed, the boys were brought ashore.

BEET FIELDS BEAT DUCKS.

What is known as the "old gun club grounds," lying northeast of Long Beach, on the Fred Bixby ranch, is soon to be only a memory, and where once the festive and toothsome duck was hunted there will soon be vast fields of beets and alfalfa.

The property belongs to Mrs. Susie Bryant, a sister of Fred Bixby, and the past week she has had a surveying crew busy making a contour map of the bottom lands with the idea of draining it and bringing it under cultivation. Heretofore the land has been used principally for pasture, part of it during the winter season being submerged. Experts say it has great possibilities for beet growing and the survey is the initial step to carry out Mrs. Bryant's advanced programme of farming on the old home place.

NO CASES.

Following the action of the Pasadena health officer tabooing a children's picnic to Long Beach because of the fear of infantile paralysis, said to exist in the county and at the beaches, scores of telegrams and letters of inquiry are coming into Long Beach and several families here for the summer have been called home by anxious fathers. The board of health, to allay all fears, has instructed City Health Officer Newman to send out circulars to all health boards of the State emphatically denying the presence of a single case of the disease in Long Beach.

WITNESS THE CLOSE.

Between 4000 and 5000 people attended the closing services today of the Christian assembly, and heard two strong sermons by Dr. E. L. Powell. The day was opened with a Christian Endeavor watch service on the beach, led by Miss Ella Kamphefner. The feature of the morning service was additional pledges of several thousand dollars to the missionary movement. Tonight a praise service, led by R. H. Chittenden, and devotions conducted by J. N. Smith of Los Angeles, preceded the sermon Tomorrow most of the delegates will leave for their various homes in the Southland.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Scott W. Alexander, the Los Angeles capitalist, who is building a cig concrete hotel at First and Locust, has decided to still further take advantage of the sky-line opportunity and the structure will now be seven stories in height with the possibility of still another being added before the limit in the owner's mind has been reached.

The Board of Public Works has forwarded to the maritime inspection committee at San Francisco, and to the Department of Labor and Commerce at Washington, a recommendation of the city engineer that the light on the northwest end of channel three of the inner harbor be removed to the southwest corner. The light was originally intended as a marker for channel I, but as that is not yet completed it has caused confusion.

The third monthly shoot of the police force at Alamitos Bay yesterday afternoon resulted in the transfer of the bronze medal from Sergt. Powell to Patrolman Yancy, a new member, who scored 55 points out of a possible 75. Other scores were Palmer, 53; McCown, 50; Adair, 49; Llewellyn, 40; Kinsey, 38; Brown, 37; Powell, 35; McLindon, 35; Mitchell, 34; Remelt, 34; Allen, 34; Winters, 33; Law, 33; Rice, 29; Raney, 28; O'Rourke, 25; Denny, 20; Kutz, 15; Snow, 18.

Funeral services of the late Judge F. A. Bettis will be held tomorrow morning under the auspices of the G.A.R., Rev. T. W. Lincoln officiating. Burial will be at Sunnyside.

The New England Society will hold its annual picnic at Bixby Park on Wednesday and several hundred former residents of the six New England States will be the guests of the local society.

Primitive Ceremony.

Forty-two Pueblo Indians from a reservation in New Mexico, visited Redondo Beach yesterday and diverted the strand strollers with ceremonies incident to christening a papoose. Chief Rising Sun (the man with many feathers) had charge of the ceremonials.

PAPPOOSE IS CHRISTENED.

Forty-two Indians from New Mexico Do Strange Dances in Celebrating at Redondo Beach.

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 4.—This city has entertained parties of all descriptions, but never one which created as much interest as the Pueblo Indians which were brought to the beach today for the observance of the tribal rites incident to the christening of an Indian baby.

There were forty-two ordinary Indians and Chief Rising Sun, who was the dominant figure in the day's proceedings. The Buffalo dance, the Eagle dance and the picturesque gyrations about the camp fire in the evening were features of the ceremony of giving a tiny Indian baby a name.

FISHERMAN BREAKS HIS LEG.

Harry Burton, an Angeleno, Fractures Limb But Still Insists on Landing the Fish.

AVALON, Aug. 4.—Leaping over his fishing chair while on board a launch and fighting a large albicore, Harry Burton of Los Angeles missed his footing and broke his left leg in two places. Despite the accident the angler begged that his companions give him a chance until the fish broke his line or he brought the catch to gaff. Prostrate on the deck Burton continued to reel in the line and became quite angry when his fellow-anglers suggested cutting the fish free. For thirty minutes Burton had fought the fish before the mishap. With a quick turn the catch dove under the launch and rose to the surface on the other side of the boat. In trying to prevent the line from fouling in the propeller the angler jumped over his chair.

As soon as the fish gained its liberty the launch was headed for Avalon, where the injured man was given medical attention. He was afterwards taken to Los Angeles.

One thousand pounds of black sea bass were brought to gaff today by J. B. Culver and S. W. Guthrie of Los Angeles while fishing in the launch Myrtle near Seal Rocks. To Angler Guthrie fell the honors of the season. After a battle which lasted fifty-five minutes this hard-working angler brought his fish to gaff. It weighed 427 pounds. This fish is almost one hundred pounds larger than any fish caught of this variety this season.

NEW WAREHOUSE PLANNED.

Two Thousand Tons of Cargo En Route to San Pedro Necessitates More Storage Room.

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 4.—Although the new addition to the warehouse on the Miner fill in the outer harbor will increase its length to over 800 feet within ten days, it is probable that another warehouse of equal size will have to be built at once. There is now nearly 2000 tons of cargo at sea on the way to be discharged here, which, with that already stored, will completely fill the big warehouse.

G. C. Munoz, chief engineer on the work at the Miner fill, states that there has now been completed over a mile of wharf on the fill, ready for business, with about 3500 feet of additional deep water frontage ready for wharves that can be quickly built upon piles already set. The work on the fill is now practically completed. Yesterday the clam-shell dredger Coronado began work cleaning up the "high spots" in the north slip of the Watchhorn basin. The dredger San Diego is engaged cleaning up the west channel and the dirt will be used to raise the old sand fill that was made at the time the Southern Pacific slip was dredged. The 600-foot wharf at the end of the head of the west channel was completed in five weeks, probably the most rapid piece of wharf construction ever done in the harbor.

IN HARD LUCK.

With the summer season at its height and having more business than it can care for, the Pacific Navigation Company is playing in hard luck these days. The turbiner Harvard has been in dry dock at San Francisco for more than a week, following a similar experience with the Yale. It had been intended to make three trips a week instead of two with the Yale, while the Harvard is laid up, but she also had trouble on her last trip because her engine bearings became heated and she limped into San Francisco under a slow bell six hours late. Yesterday the Yale sailed again on the regular Harvard schedule, and will attempt but two trips a week hereafter. To relieve the freight congestion, the company has chartered the steamer Santa Clara, and she discharged cargo at this port yesterday.

NEW FIRE ENGINE.

San Pedro is to have a new gasoline, motor-driven, fire engine, that will add to the equipment of the local fire department and require additional men at the local station. Out of the budget for the coming year three of these engines have been purchased for Los Angeles, one of which will come to San Pedro. It will be fully equipped with pumps, hose and ladders. Chief Ely has recommended that a new fire station be established between Seventh and Eighth streets, on Pacific avenue.

BIG INCREASE IN VALUATION.

Venice Property Is Appraised by Tax Man and Year Has Been Profitable, Says Report.

VENICE, Aug. 4.—The assessment valuation total for 1912, contained in a report made yesterday by City Clerk Thatcher, is $8,461,043, or an increase of $1,775,000 over the total of last year. The value of the real estate in Venice is $5,845,819, and the improvements $1,838,495. The tax rate, which will be determined by the Board of City Trustees within a few days, is expected to be about the same as that of last year.

DRIVER SOUGHT.

Dan McGauhey, driving the American car of J. D. Sanborn of Los Angeles, is wanted by the police, who wish to question him about the partial wreck of the machine he was driving on the second Fredericks curve inside the city at an early hour yesterday. The machine was towed into the Midway garage with one wheel gone, and the right side of the machine smashed, with McGaughey, it is said, in the rear seat The machine went into the ditch and hit a telephone pole, McGaughey, and a companion being thrown out, but neither received hurts of any consequence. The charge of reckless driving may be lodged against McGaughey.

NEWS BRIEFS.

E. R. (Eddie) Maier, president of the Maier Pier Company, which is erecting the big Center-street pier, arrived here yesterday and secured a house at Clubhouse and Trolleyway for the summer. He will make his home here and superintend the erection of the pier. The pile driver which will put down the preliminary piles, will arrive here Tuesday. Great real estate activity has characterized the Center-street locality since the pier work was begun.

Over 200 members of the Temple Baptist Church choir, with ushers of the institution, under the direction of Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, arrived here yesterday and proceeded to enjoy to the full, a day's outing. They were given free baths, rides on the miniature railway, and other concessions by the Abbot-Kinney Company.

How the Neal Treatment Relieves Drink Habit

By Thoroughly Eliminating All Alcohol From the System and Neutralizing Its Functional Effect.

The habit of drinking alcoholic liquors is the greatest curse of mankind, and despite past history of ruin of both the individual and nations, men who know its danger continue to drink it, and enact laws which legalize its sale to those who do not realize the danger contained in the social glass.

Temperance workers are trying to educate the people to be temperate, but have not made much headway. Temperance talks have no effect upon the drinker because he does not always understand his condition. He has drunk so long that the craving and necessity for alcoholic stimulation has become so much stronger than the will-power he cannot resist. He needs medical attention and not censure. He should be advised to go, or should be sent, to the Neal Institute, where all alcohol will be eliminated from his system, and its functional effect upon the body tissues neutralized in three days' time, without the use of painful, dangerous hypodermic injections. When this is accomplished all craving and necessity for drink will be removed and he will listen to temperance lectures and be benefited by them. He will not be so long as he is poisoned with alcohol.

For full information, and references as to the efficacy of The Neal Drink Habit Treatment, call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 South Olive St., or write or phone G. U. Neal, Mgr., for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone Bdwy. 4602; A4072.

COMPOSING THE FIRST DETAIL.

Coast Artillery Will Be in Camp at San Diego.

Secure Marine Life Specimens for the University.

Shoemaker Talks With Wife, Then Slays Himself.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eighty men, composing an advance detail from the Fifth and Eighth companies of coast artillery, were transported today to the government reservation at Ft. Rosecrans, to prepare camp for the two militia organizations which will follow tomorrow.

The guardsmen will be in camp two weeks, during which they will be under strictly military discipline while engaged in gun practice and field maneuvers such as are included in the soldier's duty at actual war time. Capt. Casey, U.S.A., under orders from the War Department, arrived today from San Francisco, and he and Capt. Franc Lecocq, commander at Ft. Rosecrans, will inspect the camp of citizen soldiers. Maj. Herbert R. Fay will be the camp commander, while Capt. Sidney Clyne will command the Fifth company and Capt. J. V. Bush the Eighth.

Tomorrow will be devoted mainly to practice with the big guns at the fort.

MARINE SPECIMENS.

After a ten days' cruise in the vicinity of Coronado Islands the power schooner Alexander Agassiz returned late last night with specimens of marine life for the University of California biological station at La Jolla. On this expedition the scientists in charge used a specially fine net with which they captured "sea-going freaks" at great depths, some of them so minute that they are hardly visible to the naked eye. All of the specimens were taken to the biological laboratory for classification. The Agassiz also took sounds in the vicinity of the islands for use in correcting the hydrographic charts.

THROUGH THE HEART.

Without a hint as to the tragic act he contemplated, John Hettich left his family circle this morning, walked to the rear porch of his home at No. 2825 Adams street and shot himself through the heart, dying almost instantly.

Hettich, who was 54 years of age, conducted a shoe repairing shop on E street, near Sixth street. His business was prosperous and even his widow says she is unable to account for his suicidal impulse, unless it was caused by homesickness. The family came here from Missouri, and Hettich, she says, had longed to return to the old home there.

CROSSES FALSE BAY.

Across a treacherous tidal current running out at mill race speed, Chic Hudson of this city, today swam the channel of False Bay, a feat which few have accomplished, and in the attempt of which a number have lost their lives.

Although the distance is only three-quarters of a mile the channel has been a death trap for daring swimmers on account of its rough and swirling waters.

STEAMERS ARRIVE.

Arrivals of vessels today included the steam schooner Olson and Mahoney, Capt. Payne, and the schooner Alcatraz, both with lumber from northern ports.

The tramp steamer Clan McIver, Capt. Wright, sailed for Vancouver, Wash., today, after discharging 85,000 tiles for the Santa Fe company.

ANGELENO NEAR DEATH.

Caught in a Tide-Rip at Redondo He Was Unable to Get Back to Shore—Wife Hysterical.

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 4.—A. P. Broadwell, a salesman for the Challenge Cream and Butter Company of Los Angeles, was caught in a tide-rip while bathing in the surf here today and after he had been rescued with difficulty by Life Guards Ludy, Langer and George Freeth, it required hard work by three men for more than an hour to restore him.

Broadwell was swimming with A. P. Lince, a friend, and both were caught by the treacherous current about the same time. Lince being a stronger swimmer, was able to reach shore, but Broadwell lost consciousness and when found by the life guards was entirely submerged with the exception of the top of his head.

Broadwell's wife, who witnessed the affair, became hysterical and ran into the ocean dressed in her street clothes.

DEAD HERMIT FOUND.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of John Bennett was found dead upon the floor of his cabin in the foothills six miles north of Yorba today. The body was badly decomposed. Coroner Winsigler thinks the man had been dead about three weeks and that death was due to natural causes. Bennett was a recluse living alone in the cabin for the last fourteen years to a government claim. He was about seventy years old.

SKUNK CALLED.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 4.—While one of the last services of the revival was in session here today a skunk entered the tent and walked down the aisle toward the pulpit. Not an objection was made and the ill-smelling creature mounted the pulpit, viewed the audience and then calmly walked out to the great relief of the audience. During the march of the fragrant animal not a word was uttered and not a movement made to check its movements.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Financing Southern California Projects.

[To the Editor of The Times:] I believe it is to the interest of your readers that the following facts should be widely known throughout the State, as it offers a way by which many developments, at present awaiting capital, can be assisted in the quickest and most satisfactory way.

I will first explain that I am an Englishman who has traveled over the greater part of this country, as well as Canada; this being my eleventh visit here, and after the most careful study of each section of the above territories, I unhesitatingly decided that the State of California has the greatest prospects and the finest climate of any other part of the two countries.

In the word "prospects" I include its agricultural and mineral wealth, as well as that of obtaining the most benefits out of life that living in such a beautiful country can give.

I decided to interest the financial investors of England and of the continent of Europe in the possibilities of this State.

I took as my first attempt in this direction that of a waterpower and irrigation project. I examined all the possibilities of this proposition and found the great developments set forth by the promoters to be amply justified.

The plan consisted of building dams and reservoirs, developing power for supplying electric current to pumping plants, which will raise water from a large area of swamp land, and distributing gravity water for irrigation and domestic purposes over a large tract of land.

The sum required for developing the water, building dams, canals, etc., and purchasing properties is $10,000,000. It was proved to me without a doubt, and as evidenced by the surrounding country, that with water delivered to this land its value would become very great.

If I could make the European investor see these facts there should be no difficulty in obtaining the necessary capital.

I proceeded to London to do this and after a hard struggle, the above proposition has been accepted by foreign financiers and the bonds covering the entire amount will be paid for as fast as they are delivered. It might here be of value to know that the method of financing in this case is by issuing foreign debentures against the American securities and forming a foreign company as a holding company; it being by this means made easier to obtain the support of France, Belgium, etc.

The interesting part of this story is in the almost pathetic efforts it has been necessary to put forth to induce European capital in this direction, as a few of the facts given below will indicate.

1. London or continental Europe know nothing of the possibilities of California from an investing point of view.

2. It is beyond their present belief that land and water can become so valuable.

3. They do not even know what is produced here, the only point of interest at the present time being in connection with the opening of the Panama Canal to the harbors of this Coast.

4. I found that only forty-two carloads of oranges were shipped into the London market last year, these, delivered into a city of seven and a half million people, would be consumed in one day, and this accounts for a representative of one of the large financial houses, to whom I applied in connection with financing the above deal, asking "if oranges were grown in California."

All the facts concerning the possibilities of Canada are fully known in Europe by the complete system of supplying authorized data to the entire masses, including the financial investors, the result being that a sum of not less than $4,000,000,000 was invested in Canada last year.

A financial Anglo-Californian agency has been established in London for the purpose of placing Californian securities there, but their efforts to direct some of this great wealth in the direction of this State depends upon the information being placed in that city, and backed by State authority.

California needs large sums of mone yto develop her great resources and I urge you through the columns of your widely-read paper to secure the assistance of the interests in this State to have a representative bureau and exhibit placed in London without delay.

The bankers only buy that security which they can sell to the public and the public must be shown. The opening of such a bureau and exhibit is the practical way and will not only bring about the financial result, but will also bring about the most desirable immigration.

Yours truly,
RALPH HANCOCK.

OLD CY YOUNG FINALLY QUITS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Cy" Denton Young, the grand old man of baseball, who has won honors for many major league teams, went down to defeat today at the hands of the Wiedemanns, a local semi-professional team.

His old-time class as a twirler was sadly lacking and at the end of three innings he was taken out of the game. He stated after the game that he is done with baseball for at least the rest of this season and will retire to his farm near Paoli, O.

GLIDDEN PATHFINDERS MAKE BIG DAY'S RUN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a late hour tonight, the pathfinders for the Glidden tour reached Louisville, having made a record run for one day over country roads in their Flanders coupe. The distance traveled was 138 miles officially, but 145 miles was made owing to the party becoming lost in the darkness tonight, delaying their finish in this city."

The hills were very steep, including one three miles and with grades of fifteen to twenty percent and forty-three turns. Many miles of the road were extremely sandy.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Arlett, pitching for the Galt State Leaguers, held Sacramento to three scattered hits today and shut out the locals, 4 to 0.

Two singles by Galt and Gaddy's two wild pitches in the fourth accounted for the first two runs. A hit batter, slow work by the infielders and a single added two more in the ninth. Score: Galt, 4; hits, 7; errors, 1. Sacramento, 0; hits, 3; errors, 2. Batteries: Arlett and Auer; Gaddy and Palm.

LURE OF CRIME PROMPTS THEFT OF HALF MILLION.

Chicago's Fastidious Burglar and Forger Pronounced Victim of Periodical Insanity Which Drove Him to Steal for Recreation, Without Attempting to Sell the Plunder—Vast Quantity of Treasure Is Recovered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jacob F. Guthrie, whose clever forgeries and astounding burglaries netted him over half a million dollars in six months, was today declared to be a victim of periodical insanity, a sort of madness that drove hi mto crime. The rare joy of stealing and the thrill of breaking into other persons' houses, lured Guthrie to his ruin.

Six months of burglary—riotous, joyous stealing—that were described by him as he sat in the detective bureau, opened up a new chapter in criminal psychology. Burglary had proved to youthful Guthrie what gambling, drink and stronger stimulants are to others. Stealing, said he, had become a habit with him that he di dnot even care to break.

HIS RECREATION.

To sit in a house that had been "securely" locked before the departure of its wealthy owners for some summer resort, and map out a plan of stealing all the most valuable heirlooms and art treasurers, was to Guthrie what an evening at an amusement park or theater is to more prosaic people.

Sell the product of his thefts?

He made no effort to sell any of them.

"I did not care about selling these things," naively remarked Guthrie. "I just enjoyed stealing them, and after that I didn't care what became of the things. They were like so much junk."

Dr. Leslie M. Schwab, family physician of the Guthries, said after he had visited the fastidious burglar in his cell, Guthrie was insane. Several members of the family have become insane, and one is now an inmate of the State hospital, the physician said. It was not kleptomania, he asserted, but rather an irresistible desire to steal, an overmastering passion stronger in the man than any other desire—an impulse which impelled him and from which he could not struggle.

"There is something queer about the man," was Capt. John Halpin's comment. "Here's a man whose remarkable crimes have given him an enormous fortune, and he hasn't touched a single article. He does not even dress himself decently. There was no woman on whom he spent his money; he didn't drink or gamble, or go joy riding. He stole just for the sake of stealing and not for any profit apparently."

VALUABLE PLUNDER.

The value of the recovered property stolen by the most astounding burglar on the records of the Chicago police, is mounting by leaps and bounds toward the half-million-dollar mark. Tonight there were two trunks which had not been opened. There were nine trunks and six boxes of plunder, each gorged with treasure. Three detectives worked all day in examining every article and entering it on the inventory.

Everything had been neatly wrapped up and carefully packed by the fastidious burglar. The work of listing every article will not be finished until late tomorrow.

The burglar's victims appeared during the day to identify their property. Claude Seymour, vice-president of Otto, Young & Co., appeared in behalf of his mother-in-law, Mrs. A. B. Young, to identify property which had been stolen from the latter's home. In this lot was a gold mesh bag, set with diamonds and emeralds, worth $1000, and many family heirlooms.

STOLEN FROM ALLERTON.

A palm-shaped Egyptian stick pin was found among the property stolen from the home of Samuel W. Allerton, but a few blocks away from Guthrie's home. Two gold watches, bearing the date of 1765, and the inscription "George III," were also found. There seemed to be no end of jewelry, silverware, bric-a-brac, trinkets of small value, furs, silks and satins, ostrich plumes, cut glass, ivory images, ivory umbrella handles, rubies, diamonds, emeralds, pearls and sapphires.

Guthrie today regained his composure, and seemed to be rather proud of his feat. He told again how he had worked as assistant city chemist during the day and played house-breaker at night. He laughed as he told how he had never been suspected all the time he was teaching in the Englewood and Lane technical schools, and finally he wondered who would get the reward offered by Mrs. Sarah Kellogg for the return of her oil paintings he had stolen.

CALLED EDUCATED FOOL.

Doctor Who Attends Burglar's Family Pronounces Judgment. Says Guthrie Is a Bookworm.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Investigation of Jacob F. Guthrie's history has revealed that after graduating in electrical engineering at a Chicago technichal institute, he obtained employment with an electrical company. Later he was employed in the municipal laboratory. Subsequently he was appointed an instructor in electrical engineering at a public High School. Guthrie is 26 years old, six feet in height and weighs 200 pounds. He is poorly dressed, although when arrested he had more than $16,000 on deposit in Chicago banks.

Dr. Leslie W. Schwab, who has been physician for the Guthrie family for a number of years, talked with the prisoner for an hour today and later conferred with Capt. Halpin of the detective bureau.

Dr. Schwab said:

"Guthrie is an educated fool, in my opinion. I have known him since childhood. He has always been a bookworm. He read detective and problem novels incessantly. The effect of this has been to create a peculiar mental condition. He has all the characteristics of a confirmed kleptomaniac. I believe he has periods when he is mentally irresponsible."

Chief of Detective Halpin said:

"Beyond a doubt Guthrie has obtained the most valuable collection of stolen articles I ever saw. All his burglaries were committed in the homes of the city's wealthiest citizens. He read the society columns in the newspapers and when he noticed that wealthy women had left home for a few days he would break into the house and steal the most valuable articles he could find."

Thousands of dollars worth of stolen articles were identified today by society women.

Venice.

HUSBAND SAVES LIFE OF WIFE.

EDENDALE WOMAN FALLS INTO THE SEA AT VENICE.

Mrs. W. R. Driscoll, While Alighting from Launch, Tumbles Into Ocean and Spouse Leaps After Her Without a Moment's Hesitation. Two Scandinavians Land in Jail.

VENICE, Aug. 4.—Prompt action on the part of her husband in jumping into the ocean to save her when she fell overboard while alighting from the launch Nora late this afternoon, probably saved the life of Mrs. W. R. Driscoll of Edendale.

Both were pulled from the water by the crew of the boat, and, after they borrowed dry clothes from generous passengers of the craft, they departed for their home, Mrs. Driscoll hysterical, but not injured, and her husband entirely well.

Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll took in the ocean ride on the Nora this afternoon with many others. When the boat returned a fog hung over the ocean, and had made the planks of the wharf wet and slippery. Capt. Hyder of the boat cautioned all the passengers to be careful in alighting and he and his men carefully handed them across the gang plank.

Driscoll and Mrs. Driscoll crossed to the wharf, but Mrs. Driscoll reached over toward the boat to help her little daughter to safety. In doing this she slipped and fell between the boat and the wharf. Her husband immediately jumped after her, and when both reappeared a moment later, his arm was around the form of his wife. He swam with her a few feet to the rocks of the Kinney breakwater, where members of the crew of the Nora were not slow in assisting them to the shore.

COST OF BEER.

One more beer cost Joe and John Anderson their liberty tonight, and they are meditating in the City Jail on the exigencies of life in Venice, on a charge of drunkenness.

The two Scandinavians came to Venice early today and proceeded to make the most of a holiday and a month's wages. They made so many rounds of the thirst emporiums that they lost track of the count. So did the police, who were watching them. They then rode a few times on the racing coaster, and then wanted to operate the cars, jostling the guards out of their positions at the brakes. This the men resented, and they were bustled out and across the road to the police station. Police Sergeant Cavanaugh urged the men to get on an electric train which was then ready to start for Los Angeles, but John and Joe begged to have just one more beer. Cavanaugh warned them, and told them to go. They got their last glass of beer, but became so obnoxious on Windward avenue that they were again arrested and lodged in the city bastile.

JEWISH PICNIC.

A Jewish picnic under auspices of the Ahabath Zion No. 2 and B'nai Zion societies of Los Angeles, was greatly enjoyed by more than 2000 members of the faith of Abraham here today. Dancing was free to all picnickers, and the various attractions were well patronized by the Hebrews. Sports were watched on the beach early in the afternoon.

The committee which made the affair a success was composed of the following: M. Berger, chairman; Frank L. Perry, M. Schwartz, A. Denny, I. Provolosky, H. A. Holzman, B. Schireson, Philip H. Rubin, J. Stoltz, H. A. Goldman, Sydney Schireson, J. Tobinsky, Harry Bloom, H. Adler, J. Vilensky, A. Sherry, N. Menkin, D. Denny, Edward Rutner, J. Weisbart, I. Volman, S. Lippman, I. Coodly and Harry Fram, secretary.

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

(From the Beauty Seeker.)

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will actually remove it, and Nature will subatitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding tan, freckles, sun spots, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hasel. Instantaneous results are secured.

Disappointed Lover May Die.

Earl Jacobson, who attempted to commit suicide Saturday night at Tenth street and Maple avenue, by drinking carbolic acid following a quarrel with Miss Helen Hermanson, No. 2026 Bonita avenue, who declined to attend the theater with him because he was partially intoxicated, may die. He was taken to the County Hospital from the Receiving Hospital yesterday morning in a semi-conscious condition. His mouth, throat and stomach are frightfully burned.

THREE ARE INJURED.

Automobiles Run Them Down on the Street and They Go to the Hospital—Other Accidents.

Automobiles caused a number of accidents yesterday, keeping the police and Receiving Hospital attaches busy throughout the day.

One of the most serious occurred at Pico and Georgia streets, when Dr. C. M. White, No. 33 Navy avenue, Ocean Park, ran into the motorcycle of Lieut. Frank Neitzke, of Engine Company No. 22, No. 4552 South Main street. Neitzke and his little son, C. B. Neitzke, were thrown to the pavement, the lieutenant sustaining a broken left ankle. The boy was not injured.

G. H. Hawkins, 60 years old, No. 828 South Figueroa street, was knocked down and run over on South Hope street by an electric machine driven by Mrs. H. B. Wing, No. 1017 Elden avenue. Hawkins was removed to the Crocker-street Hospital. He escaped with a gash over the left eye and a few bruises.

Mike Idabich, No. 468 Ducommon street, an aged lunch-wagon man, sustained possibly serious internal injuries when he was knocked down by auto No. 59624 on North Main street. The chauffeur did not stop, the police say, and officers are looking for the owner of the machine.

Several other peculiar accidents were brought to the attention of the authorities. Miss Isabel Livingston, 24 years old, No. 101 Rampart street, ran a long sliver into her right thigh while walking by a pile of lumber at No. 720 South Broadway.

Wilbur Tunney, 8 years old, No. 424 North Hill street, was a mightily excited little boy when he ran into the Receiving Hospital. Between breaths he told how he had been bitten by a dog. His pet nipped him on the right heel, through a hole in the shoe, while playing.

During a physical argument with his wife at No. 114 Sotello street, C. Chavez, 30 years old, knocked out a pane of glass. He lost a piece of flesh off the back of his right hand, besides suffering other lacerations.

Nicholas Lightert, 11 years old, will not play in a tree for some days. He fell out of one yesterday in front of his home, No. 1112 East Seventh street, and sprained his right wrist.

COSTLY FRIENDSHIP.

"Zach," the family horse driven by Mrs. Mary Bain, No. 1028 Bonnie Beach place, has been trained to be friendly with automobiles. Yesterday, when the buggy in which Mrs. Bain was driving was struck by an automobile and demolished, Zach walked over and smelled the car. Mrs. Bain was painfully injured, and was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where her bruises were treated. The accident occurred at Seventh and Mateo streets, the car being driven by G. V. Zanders, of No. 886 East Thirty-ninth street.

PREPARING BILL TO GET WATER.

WOULD CUT CITY IN DISTRICTS FOR ASSESSMENTS.

Legislature to Be Asked to Permit Burden of Aqueduct Distribution to Be Carried by Sections Directly Affected—Best Way to Handle It, Say Officials.

So as to expedite matters and give the city opportunity to go ahead with its plans for replacing the water systems in Hollywood, San Pedro and other recently-annexed districts, in time to receive the aqueduct water, Attorney Edward Winterer, representing a committee of the Hollywood Board of Trade, and others today began the preparation of a bill to submit to the Legislature immediately after it convenes in January, to provide special assessment districts in the city.

The bill is expected to receive immediate consideration as special legislation and it will make operative at once, for all practical purposes, the provision recently submitted by Winterer to the City Charter Commission which the voters are expected to ratify this fall.

This provision makes it possible for the city to divide itself into districts, to hold special elections in these districts and decide whether public improvements are to be made, and to issue bonds as districts if such an election carries. Such action is now impossible under State laws.

In the ordinary course of business the Legislature would not ratify the adoption of such a provision as a part of the city charter until the matter came up in the regular course of business. Winterer's special bill will bridge a gap that might extend over a period long enough to cause delay, if no provision were made to avoid it.

Commissioner Wellborn and Councilman Whiffen concur in Winterer's opinion that the measure to replace the Hollywood and San Pedro water systems by bond issues in prospective districts there is more equitable than to assess the property there directly, or to bond the whole city.

"An assessment is a first lien on the property of people who may already be embarrassed by paying for street work," said Wellborn yesterday. "The bond system will spread the payments over a period of years, and they may be figured as a slight advance over the regular taxes. The obligation might be placed upon payers of water rates only. Such a bond issue would not practically affect the city's bonding limit, although the whole city's credit would substantially be back of it, because it would simply make unnecessary a general issue later for the same purpose."

"The districting system, as provided for under Winterer's bill, has some disadvantages," said Whiffen; "but I believe San Pedro, Hollywood and other annexed portions of the city who came in under similar conditions, should pay for the replacement of their water, and lighting systems. The districting plan will accomplish this."

"There will be one payment necessary in a district that issues bonds under the proposed bill," said Winterer, "but after that the revenue of the water company will take care of the payments. There will be no lien upon property, the improvement will pay for itself after the first year and the work will be done better and more quickly than under any other system.

"A two-thirds vote will be required in all districts to begin improvement and issue bonds. I believe the people of both San Pedro and Hollywood favor the provision. If the Legislature acts at once on the special bill, after the charter election, we can go ahead at once in preparing to take care of the aqueduct water."

NAME'S NO HANDICAP.

Holland University Graduate Here To Study Western Architecture. Finds America Interesting.

T. de Bre Lenveling Tjeenk of Amsterdam, who is making a tour of the world for the purpose of studying architectural types, arrived in this city yesterday and registered at the Alexandria. He is a graduate of the University of Delft in engineering and architecture, and has supplemented his university course by two years in Italy and Greece. He has been in America about a month and will remain in Southern California three or four weeks.

From here he will go to Japan, China, Siam, Dutch Indies, Java, Sumatra, Burma and the British Indies. He expects to spend a year or more on the trip.

He says the Holland architects are grouping into two classes. One is composed of the conservative men, who wish to follow strictly the old colonial styles. Another school, of which he is one, are endeavoring to get away from the severer effects.

Tjeenk says he has found America and American architecture very interesting thus far, especially in Chicago, although he considers the eastern architecture as a rule to be too European to offer many helpful suggestions to Holland architects. He has had no opportunity yet to examine California buildings, but hopes to get valuable ideas here.

RECORD FOR OPERATIONS AT RECEIVING HOSPITAL.

A NEW record was established for the Receiving Hospital when a series of operations occupied Police Surgeon C. E. Zerfing and his assistants for more than four consecutive hours. The cases last night were from amputations to stitching fingers.

John Sandifer was the subject for the most operations. His arm was amputated, his leg set in four places, a fractured scalp dressed, and a body wound attended to.

Others surgically treated were:

R. C. Odon, No. 1621 Arlington avenue, who stepped off a moving car.

Here's a question: If the people of the United States spend $6,000,000 a year on golf balls, how much do the men of Los Angeles spend on fake tailoring sales? The problem would be interesting to work out. We would like to see the answer.

The reason that this Fifteenth Anniversary Sale of ours is drawing such wonderful crowds of "men who know," is because Brauer never has held, and never will hold, a sale, or advertise a reduction, that is not absolutely genuine. Think that over!

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO SPILL.

Tire Bursts and Speeding Car Turns Turtle.

One May Die as Result of Boulevard Accident.

Friends Predict It but Few Seconds Before.

A remarkable automobile procession, with five of the machines carrying persons who were badly injured in a bad spill at a curve on the Redondo boulevard, one mile west of Inglewood, dashed through that village at dusk last night, en route to hospitals in Los Angeles.

A machine, driven by J. A. Gavagan, residing at Twenty-seventh and Vermont streets, was taking a curve on the boulevard, near the Santa Fe tracks, at a speed said to have been close to fifty miles an hour. A front tire blew up, one of the wheels smashed to pieces, and the car turned turtle. There were five occupants of the machine, all men, and every one of them was hurt, one of them so badly that he may die.

The injured are:

J. A. Gavagan, grocer; three ribs broken, nose broken and one eye injured so he may lose the sight of it; taken to Angelus Hospital.

R. J. Stevens, carriage builder; lives at Waterville Hotel; suffering from concussion of brain, may die; taken to Receiving Hospital.

W. E. Brown, railway clerk of Chicago, staying at No. 1400 Fedora street; bruised about head and body; taken to Receiving Hospital.

Matthew Brown, No. 182 East Vernon street; brother of W. E. Brown; bruised and cut about face and body.

PREDICTS ACCIDENT.

A strange feature of the accident is the fact that O. A. Campbell, of No. 2229 West Thirty-first street, a friend of Gavagan's, predicted that the occupants of the auto would meet with a mishap a few seconds before it occurred. When he made the prediction the auto had just whirled by his machine at a rate, he says, of about forty-five miles an hour. He did not know that Gavagan was in the machine and as the party passed, said:

"That machine will not go far before there is a spill."

The words were hardly out of his mouth before the auto in front was seen to suddenly careen and then turn over.

The injured man were thrown in all directions, and were lying in the roadway, either unconscious or unable to move, when Campbell reached them. The Redondo boulevard is much traveled by autoists and within a few minutes thirty machines were on the scene. The auto, badly smashed, was lying on its side in the center of the road.

Campbell and the other autoists were afraid to move the injured persons until they had the advice of a doctor, as they did not know but that some of them might be so badly hurt that to move them would be fatal. The injured had to lie in the roadway for nearly an hour until Dr. S. A. Hindman of Inglewood, could be brought to the scene. The physician hastily gave aid to three of the injured and then directed that they be placed in autos and hurried to hospitals.

Five volunteer autos were placed at the disposal of the injured. They were placed in the machines and rushed to Los Angeles. By the time the machines carrying the injured started on their way, there was an impromptu escort of nearly fifty automobiles.

FROM FISHING TRIP.

W. E. Brown stated that the party had been to Redondo on a fishing trip and that he and his companion had had a number of drinks.

"I had only a few drinks and didn't feel the effects of them," said Brown. "Gavagan, who owned the automobile, and who was driving, was not intoxicated. However, we were going at a stiff clip and when the tire blew out the wheel went to pieces and the machine overturned."

DIES AFTER OPERATION.

Physician Unable to Rally from Attack of Appendicitis—Was Prominent in Masonic Circles.

Dr. George C. Armstrong, No. 1506 West Forty-eighth street, who lived here for a year and had offices in the Auditorium building, died yesterday afternoon at the Angelus Hospital after an operation last Monday for appendicitis.

Dr. Armstrong was born in Pennsylvania December 19, 1869, and was educated in that State, and later was graduated from Northwestern University Medical College at Chicago. After a year of study abroad he practiced in Halstead, Kan., and later in Cambridge, Neb.

A year and a half ago he came to Southern California and for some months lived at San Bernardino. Later he took up his work in this city. He is survived by his widow and two sisters, Mrs. Elmer E. Smith of New Bloomfield, Pa., and Mrs. William Tell of Lambisburg, Pa.

Dr. Armstrong was an eastern member of the Masonic fraternity, of the San Bernardino County Medical Society, the California Medical Society, and the American Medical Association. Interment will be made Wednesday at Riverside and there will be funeral service in this city.

CAN'T GIVE HER NAME.

Accidentally stepping off a moving car on Eighth street, near Figueroa, last night, a Mrs. Hunter was seriously injured, and taken to the Receiving Hospital for relief. Efforts to locate her relatives last night were futile. In her semi-conscious condition, she could not give her name or address.

Members of a Strange Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Connor, twice married and twice divorced, who figure in sensational demands and counter-demands on the authorities of Los Angeles and Chicago for investigation of the death of their son, Walter Connor (center.)

Strange.

MOTHER VERSUS FATHER OVER SON'S DEAD BODY.

A STRANGE turn in a mysterious case of alleged poisoning, first attributed by the dead man's father to those surrounding him previous to his death, has been injected into the investigation of the passing of Walter Connor by a counter-demand upon the Chicago police by the young man's mother that they investigate the father, with specific reference to the medicine which, she says, he sent to Connor, and which the latter took shortly before his death.

Incensed at a suspicion which, she says, has been branded as groundless by the refusal of the authorities to exhume the body of the young Inglewood rancher on the evidence adduced by the father, Mrs. Jessie Connor, the mother, is preparing to turn the tables with a vengeance. She has written her brothers, S. M. and F. W. Coe, automobile men of Sterling, Ill., and H. M. Coe of Dixon, Ill., to take the matter up and to assist the Chicago authorities in the investigation she asks. Further, she declares that, if necessary, she will personally go to Chicago and lay before the police facts in her possession which she says will justify her in her abrupt counter-allegations.

In them Mrs. Connor sets out that her son told her he had been in receipt of consignments of a supposed kidney specific sent by the father, Charles J. Connor, a patent medicine manufacturer of Chicago, and that he had taken these in successive doses for some time prior to his death. She declares that letters written by the young man himself betray the fact that he believed he was being slowly poisoned.

The Connors' family history as told by the mother, has not been a happy one. There have been two divorces of the husband and wife, both of which, she says, she secured, the first on a doctor's certificate and the second on a charge of desertion. It was at the solicitation of her family, she says, that she remarried him after the first separation. The last occurred seventeen years ago.

Walter Connor died at the County Hospital on July 8, after having been there only a few days. His trouble was there diagnosed as nephritis and endocarditis. His burial, which occurred three days later, was made as public as possible, the mother says, because she expected there would be some trouble about it.

At the time of his death Connor owned the Inglewood ranch, on which he and his mother lived. Chicago advices state that the father claims a will had been made in his favor and that the young man was further possessed of several thousand dollars of his own prior to coming West. This is denied by Mrs. Connor, who says she gave him what property he owned. The estate is now in the hands of the public administrator.

But Is Caught, Anyway.

PLUNGES FROM WINDOW INTO MASS OF PEOPLE.

WHILE hundreds of men, women and children looked on from the crowded waiting room of the Pacific Electric building yesterday, George Wolfe, alleged pickpocket and all-around Eastern crook, plunged from the second-story window of the railway offices to the lobby in an effort to escape officers in hot pursuit.

In the interim Wolfe was frantically worming his way through the jam to the front door. At the cry he plunged forward desperately, upsetting several would-be excursionists in his path. Hundreds of persons took up the chase and Wolfe was collared before he had gained the Main-street entrance of the station. He was turned over to railway employees, handcuffed to a ladder and later given into the custody of Detective Zeigler.

At police headquarters Wolfe indignantly denied that he had attempted, as charged, to pick the pocket of T. L. Smith, a salesman for the Pacific Coast Manufacturing Company. He said he is a shoemaker and hails from Tucson, whence he claims to have come with his wife two days ago. This part of his story is discredited by hotel detectives, who identified him yesterday as a man who has been loitering about downtown hostelries for weeks. Wolfe later partially admitted that this is true.

For several weeks two pickpockets, a man and a woman, have been very active at the Pacific Electric station and the police believe them to have been Wolfe and his wife. When Smith raised the alarm by crying that Wolfe was trying to pick his pocket, both the man and woman were seized by H. P. Vignes, bailiff of Justice Chambers's court, who happened to be standing near. The woman struggled frantically and managed to wriggle out of the officer's grasp after her shirtwaist had been torn almost completely off. Wolfe was placed under guard in an upper room, but took advantage of a moment's inattention on the part of his watcher to make a break for the window.

May Die.

TRAIN CRUSHES ANGLER IN RACE FOR STATION.

WHEN JOHN SANDIFER tried to outfoot a speeding Playa del Rey car by dashing in front of it at a Japanese fishing camp, near Hyperion, yesterday, he lost the race and, it is thought, was perhaps fatally injured. The first car jammed him against a platform and the two other cars of the train each took a punch at him while he stood wedged there. The first car scalped him; the second cut his right arm off at the elbow; the third broke his left leg in five places.

Spectators reported that Sandifer stood on the crest of an embankment waiting for a car to come along. When the train appeared he jumped down the cut and tried to get across the track before the train could reach him. He had told a member of the fishing camp that he was a speedy foot-racer. They were watching him because he had said he would give them an exhibition of real running despite the fact that he was 57 years old, and hadn't raced for thirty years.

Assistant Superintendent J. E. Robinhouse of the Pacific Electric was aboard the train when the accident occurred and ordered one car detached and hurried to the Receiving Hospital with the victim. It is doubtful if the man will live.

"Sleeve of Care."

ALL UNRAVELED IN HIS SLEEP.

Mystery of Man Found Unclad, Far from Home.

Remarkable Set of Injuries He Can't Explain.

May Have Fallen from Housetop in Slumber.

Phantom visions haunted Joseph Darwell's mind as he lay asleep at his home, No. 223 Towne avenue, Saturday night. Joseph is some sleeper and he kept right on the job despite the fact that an Italian brigand, with a fierce, black moustache and a still fiercer and longer cheese knife, was running him a desperate race down a long lonely road that led past a cemetery.

No sooner had Joseph distanced the bandit and was about to seat himself on a large rock for a bit of needed rest, than a skeleton, from the church yard Joseph had just passed, appeared on the scene. The bony party reached out a bony hand toward Joseph's throat. Joseph waited for no more. The ghost was a considerable runner, but Joseph kept in the lead by a desperate effort. After the pair had run about twenty-four miles the ghost saw daylight breaking, stopped and hurried back to the cemetery.

Once more Joseph stopped to rest. While he was gasping for breath, he felt something warm on the back of his neck. He turned around and looked squarely into the eyes of a hideous monster who was breathing fire from a dragon's head but who had a body built like that of a horse.

Joseph, with a gasping groan, arose and galloped down the road again. It was his avowed intention to keep at least eight feet in front of the monster. It took hard work and a lot of nerve, but Joseph possessed both, and he hurried right along. Slowly but surely the fire-breathing creature gained. It only gained an inch in a mile, but to a man who doesn't know where the road ends, that is a good gain.

Forty-eight miles sped by in about forty-eight hours, according to Joseph's reckoning. The monster had gained so much in this time that its breath was burning Joseph's coattails. Joseph thought that he was certainly due for a hot toasting when suddenly a precipice yawned ahead. Joseph yelled and——

That's one part of the story. This is the sequel. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning, the crew of a street car were surprised to see a man lying on the sidewalk in front of a building at No. 1352 Wright street, clad only in a thin union suit. The car was stopped and the conductor and motorman picked Joseph up. He was senseless and was suffering from nearly as many bruises and injuries as if he had been run feet first through a threshing machine.

Hip dislocated.
Four teeth knocked out.
Lower lip cut through.
Both eyes cut and swollen shut.
Three cuts on scalp.
Four cuts on chin.
Bruises all over body.

Before Darwell was swathed up until he looked like an Egyptian mummy, he managed to throw a little light on the situation.

"I went to bed in my home, went to sleep and that's the last I remember," he said.

The police looked into the matter and found, if he walked in his sleep, that he must have traveled about twenty blocks in the gray dawn clad only in his underwear. Detectives visited the scene where Darwell was found and discovered an unfinished two-story building. One of the sleuths, after employing a tape-line and consulting a note-book wherein the injuries were listed, announced that he believed that Darwell had climbed to the top of the building in his sleep and walked off the roof.

This theory fits as well as any other, but what the police are wondering at is how a man could walk twenty blocks in day light on the streets of Los Angeles in his underwear and not be seen. Some investigators believe that Darwell must have been kidnapped from his bed, carried to the building and dropped off the roof. Others thought that perhaps Joseph met holdup men who beat him nearly to death, robbed him of his clothes left him lying on the sidewalk.

One thing is certain. Darwell had not lain in the spot he had fallen very long. His wounds were still bleeding and there was fresh blood on the sidewalk.

Darwell himself cannot talk now. He is at the County Hospital.

After his removal thither Mrs. C. E. Swavely of No. 1352 Wright street called the police to notify them that the somnambulistic theory was probably correct. Mrs. Swavely stated that she heard two men in conversation in front of her home about 6 o'clock. One asked the other: "What is that man doing on top of that house?" Before the other could reply, Mrs. Swaveley heard a crash.

The somnambulists hold that the crash was Darwell.

HIS DESIRE GRATIFIED.

Confessed Slayer Who Surrendered After Eleven Years Will Be Returned to Stand Trial.

C. R. ("Big Bob") Snipes' eleven-year yearning to return to Morgantown, the county seat of Burke county, N. C., and stand trial for a murder he confesses to having committed near there on the night of September 19, 1901, is shortly to be satisfied. He is to be taken back to the scene of the killing and tried for the death of his former friend, John Britton. Capt. Flamm.er received a telegram yesterday from Forrest C. Berry, sheriff of Burke county, telling him to hold Snipes, that he would come for him as soon as he could get requisition papers.

"I'll be waitin' him when he comes," stolidly remarked Snipes in his cell at the Central Station yesterday. "I ain't a-goin' to run away after these eleven years of wanderin' around the country," continued the old mountaineer and former moonshiner. "I'll be kinder glad to get back and get this awful load off 'er my mind. It's a been a-botherin' me these many years. I've been a enjoyin' a mighty good rest since I've been in here. I'll kinder hate to leave you-all," speaking to the jail officials, "for you-all most certainly have been powerful good to me, and mighty considerate, too."

Snipes surrendered to Detective Zeigler Friday night. He says he killed Britton on Yellow Gap trail, seven miles from the Franklin House, following a fight with a man, he thinks was named Biddicks.

SEVEN DAYS OF MUSIC'S THRALL.

MOOSE MIDSUMMER FESTIVAL TO OPEN TONIGHT.

Splendid Programme of Classical and Popular Numbers Arranged for Week of Evening Concerts at the Auditorium—Planned to Be City's Most Pretentious.

The mid-summer musical festival of Los Angeles Lodge No. 286, Loyal Order of Moose, will be begun this evening at the Auditorium and is to be continued for a week. It gives promise of being the most pretentious entertainment of the kind ever attempted in this city.

The soloists are the best to be had, the various choirs and musical organizations participating will form a chorus of 500 trained voices, while a selected orchestra of sixty pieces will provide the melody for the six concerts, the whole under the direction of N. Banks Cregier, who has worked harder than any Trojan for the success of the undertaking, which is expected to add a large sum to the beneficiary fund of the organization behind it.

On the theory that it is "more blessed to give than to receive," arrangements are perfected, by an elaborate system of transmitters placed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, connecting every hospital patient in the city, who is able to listen and enjoy the music, with the stage of the Auditorium. Twenty-five big transmitters are required through which the melody may be discharged into the eager waiting ears of the afflicted.

The advance sale of seats is large, and Conductor Creiger said last night that the success of the undertaking is assured. All night carpenters and Loyal Moose worked on the big stage building up the platform and background for the choir and soloists.

The mammoth pipe organ will be used in connection with the chorus numbers and the effect, Creiger says, is marvelously beautiful. The programme and orchestral selections are to be changed nightly, and they are by no means confined to the classical; on the contrary it is designed to please all classes and degrees of good music-lovers.

The soloists are Florence Wadsworth Wallace, soprano; Mrs. Minne Hance, contralto; Helen Beatrice Cooper, dramatic soprano; Ruth Ines Deardorff, pianist; Dufferin Rutherford, tenor; Edward House, baritone; Earl Klein, violin. The Handel and Haydn Society with its chorus of 500 voices will participate in every performance under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill, and the Germania Turn Verein Mannerchor,

All Talking Together?

ALL COUNTY CANDIDATES IN ONE PLACE AT ONCE.

SYCAMORE GROVE has been the scene of many happy and not a few strange gatherings, but the picnic to be held there by the Women's City League next Monday promises to be more unusual than any yet to have taken place within the green arroyo. The women have invited all of the candidates for office in Los Angeles county to be present and 160 office seekers have accepted.

If it happens that the 160 are as hungry for food as they are for office the problem of feeding them will be something to worry about. The ladies have promised a box lunch and they may be in a box themselves if the candidates do not do some boxing on their own account.

It is not to be assumed that the women are going to listen to 160 speeches between 11 in the morning and 3 in the afternoon. It is to be a sort of homeopathic affair because it will be given in broken doses on the home circle plan. As far as possible, the tables will be divided into Congressional and Assembly districts and this plan is supposed to keep each candidate in his place. There can be no objection to this because a candidate is supposed to know his place when out with a lady and certainly he should be able to keep his place when out with 800 ladies.

The women of the club will welcome the general public on this day if the general public brings its own lunch and comes with a desire to hear what the candidates have to say in their own behalf. As many candidates will want the same office and must say so to the same group of women, they are expected to be generous in dividing time with one another and to leave their hammers at home.

The women will be addressed at their regular luncheon at the Westminster today by Mrs. Frederick Nathan, president of the National Consumers League, of New York City. They will take a vacation on the 19th and 26th inst.

Enter the Prince.

FROM POVERTY TO AFFLUENCE.

Los Angeles to Boast Real, Live Cinderella.

"World Full of Papas" for Earthquake's Child.

Court May Give Gwendolyn Jane Away Today.

Cinderella, Los Angeles' real, live Cinderella, unlike her famous sister of the ash heap, who rode to the prince's ball in a pumpkin coach drawn by the four white rats, miraculously transformed by the good fairy's wand, may today be transformed from a nameless child to an heiress with bread acres of land, servants to do her bidding and coaches and automobiles just like a really and truely princess.

Instead of the magic wand of the good fairy, Judge Willis will be the means whereby the winsome little lass will be transformed into a young lady of expectations, if you please, and one whose dowry, when she reaches age, will be a substantial pile of dollars.

Gwendolyn's father, a victim of the San Francisco earthquake, and her mother, a frail little woman, who gave up her life a few weeks after Gwendolyn came into the world, may rest content, says warm-hearted Los Angeles, that their little girl will be well taken care of. If love and adoration count for anything, she will be as happy with the "mamma," into whose arms she will be given as little girls with their own fathers and mothers.

INSOUCIANT CINDERELLA.

But as for Gwendolyn, herself, why, yesterday she was the same little Cinderella that she was at the police station. Little cared she for the vexing problem that awaited judge and court attaches in disposing of her future and providing her with a home. She may have failed to grasp the fact that Thomas C. Peck, general passenger agent of the Salt Lake route, L. D. Miller, a retired and wealthy rancher of San Gabriel, who wants to settle $50,000 outright on her and a score of other wealthy and influential people stand ready to make her an heiress. But she doesn't care.

Sunday afternoon, a big, roomy, frame building, and twenty-five strange little boys and girls, to say nothing of four roly-poly babies, was a combination strong enough to make Gwendolyn forget that she had ever encountered trial and tribulation.

When she awoke yesterday morning she found herself in a neat little white cot in the Children's Home Society, at No. 901 East Twenty-fifth street. When she had rubbed her brown eyes with a pair of small fists and looked around the room and saw several tousled little girls doing exactly the same thing, the Los Angeles Cinderella smiled a bright, friendly smile, and chirped cheerily:

"Hello."

The other four little girls in the room nodded their heads in a solemn greeting.

"Gwendolyn Jane," said Cinderella primly.

"What's the rest of it?" said a 10-year-old miss with black hair and a pair of eyes like a sloe.

"That's all," said Jane Gwendolyn, beginning to look worried.

"Taint," said the black-eyed girl.

"Well, you see, it's all I got, 'cause my papa died in a great big earthquake and my mamma died when I was a little, bitsy, teeny baby, so I didn't get no more name, only Gwendolyn Jane," finished Cinderella, flushed and breathless.

Miss black-eyes snorted.

"Taint enough of a name; I guess you'll have to ask Miss Tweedy to give you more of a name," she affirmed, judicially.

"They give you mammas and papas, here, too," shouted another eager little girl.

"Do you want one, that is two, I mean," said black-eyes.

Then Cinderella took her audience off its feet.

"I got a lot of papas and mammas waiting for me," she announced. "I got more than a whole roomful, yes more than a whole world full," she exclaimed.

Black-eyes laughed. That laugh humbled Gwendolyn's sudden pride. Her face fell and she hunched up in her nightgown and mumbled:

"Well, maybe I ain't got a whole world full, but the policemens says that I got a lot, and they is policemens and knows," she finished, with a flash.

Just who will be the lucky person to get Gwendolyn is something that even Judge Willis connot say at the present time. The court is due to receive petitions from every source, as the child's story has interested Los Angeles to such an extent that at least 250 persons have made application to be allowed to take her and care for her as their own. It is probable that one of the many persons with ample means will be given the custody of the child.

Officer Leo Marden of the police juvenile department took the child from the custody of Mrs. L. P. Butrick of No. 1225½ West First street, Saturday night, and placed her in the children's home. This step was taken because Mrs. Butrick's home was in a state of siege from the people who wanted the little girl. It is even said that a number of people offered Mrs. Butrick large sums of money if she would turn the child over to them.

HITS THE BOTTLE HARD.

A. J. Henshaw of No. 446 Sierra street was crossing at Daly street and North Broadway Saturday night with a bottle of milk in his pocket when he was struck by an automobile driven by C. W. Dunlap of Alhambra. He was picked up unconscious. The cided it was a bad wound that fluid trickling along his side. They decided it was a bar wound that supplied so much blood. A hurry-call was turned in for the ambulance and Henshaw was rushed to the Receiving Hospital. When he arrived there the warm liquid along his side had stopped flowing as the bottle of milk was empty. A few abrasions were painted with iodine. The ambulance corps saved the fragments of the milk bottle as souvenirs.

The Little Waif Who'll Be an Heiress.

Gwendolyn, the Los Angeles Cinderella.

She spent yesterday in a foundling home, blissfully unconscious that some of the most notable men and women in the city are literally begging for the privilege to give her a home, a name and a fortune. The matter of her disposition will probably come before Judge Willis today.

They All Loved Her.

LITTLE GIRL'S PRATTLE CAUSES PITCHED BATTLE.

THE Sweeneys and the Arnolds had a battle at Saugus yesterday to decide whether the parents or a grandmother should have possession of 2-year-old Bertha Sweeney.

The Sweeneys got their child and with it the father, R. H. Sweeney of No. 941 Valverde street, got a crack over the head with the barrel of a 30-30 rifle, after dodging a bullet from its muzzle, he alleges. He was brought back from Saugus and taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment.

According to Sweeney, his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Arnold, No. 203 Bloom street, Los Angeles, had taken the child to Saugus where the grandmother is cook on a ranch. That was two months ago. Sweeney and his wife were separated then. About three weeks ago they were reunited.

For several weeks, Sweeney says, he has been trying to get possession of his daughter. The grandmother refused to give her up. Sweeney and his wife went to Saugus yesterday to bring home the baby. Grandfather Arnold told the parents to get out, says Sweeney. Then they started fighting.

Sweeney claims his father-in-law was losing in the fray, and grabbed his rifle for assistance. One shot, Sweeney says, he dodged, and then father-in-law pounded him on the head with the clubbed gun.

Henry Schoenefeld, director, will be heard tomorrow evening. The latter organization has fifty voices.

Conductor Cregier has arranged the following first night programme for the Festival Orchestra:

William A. The initial programme is especially well arranged to display the talents of every principal as well as the chorus choir and orchestra.

A children's concert planned for Wednesday afternoon has been abandoned because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the city.

HOW TO LIVE TOGETHER.

City Clerk in Pulpit Tells Congregation His Impressions of Politics and Religion.

"The great problem is to learn how to live together and to develop the best there is in us for the benefit of all of us," said City Clerk Handley last night from the pulpit of the Central Baptist Church, where he spoke on "City Politics" in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Arthur S. Phelps.

"The congestion in cities, the continual elbowing and crowding, the impigning of personality upon personality have created for us a set of problems peculiar in themselves," he continued. "Purely as a business proposition we must work out the laws of human relationship from human nature itself and not from the statute books wherein we seek to regulate each other's conduct.

"We must not forget the great social problems, even in our religious life. There are the playgrounds to keep the children off the streets, the municipal lodging-house, the city's projected employment bureau, and the municipal farm. Each presents its series of vital problems; and the solution of these will accomplish the chief duty of all of us—to build up the weaker elements of society that these elements may not pull the stronger down."

In the morning Handley spoke on "What Is Most Worth While," laying stress upon individual character as the greatest thing in the world.

The Oil Industry.

TO FILL WORLD DEMAND FOR OIL.

Companies Prepare for the Growth in Consumption.

Will Spend Millions Bettering Facilities.

Refineries Taxed to Limit by Increasing Output.

Every marketing concern in California is preparing for the immense increase in the consumption of fuel oil which is bound to follow the opening of the Panama Canal.

The Standard Oil Company has 25,000,000 barrels of oil in storage. The Union Oil Company has recently concluded the purchase of a little less than 1,000,000 barrels from the Independent Agency, for which it paid 35 cents a barrel. The General Petroleum Company is contracting for oil for its pipe line company as well as increasing its own production by drilling many wells, and pipe is now being received from the East for the line from Midway-Maricopa district to Los Angeles and the port at San Pedro. The construction of this well put the General Pipe Line Company in the field as an active competitor of the Standard for the purchase of oil.

Reports are that the increase in the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company is for the purpose of providing more facilities to supply the rapidly-widening market for California oil. The Standard is also extending its pipe line from Lost Hills up into the Belridge district, according to report.

In connection with the prospects of an increase in the use of oil for fuel on ocean-going vessels the following report is worthy of note:

The P. & O. steamship line of the Far East has appointed the steamship department of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles, to act as its agent. It is said that the intention of the company—which is one of the best-known in the oriental trade—is to operate a line of ships from English ports through the Panama Canal to the Orient, with stops at one or more ports on the California coast. It is considered certain that these and other steamships passing through the canal will burn oil as fuel, as it is cheaper and cleaner than coal, takes less room in the vessel, and can be stoked with the aid of a very small force.

Furthermore, refineries are working to capacity, and an increased amount of oil is being used in the manufacture of asphalt. The industry was never in better condition, and everything points to better prices at the well. Oil stocks bid fair to sell at greatly advanced prices on a strong market before the close of summer, it is stated.

WILL BE BIG WELL.

The Columbia Oil Producing Company's well on the Orange lease, which came in with a tremendous gas pressure a week ago last Saturday, has been yielding 400 barrels of an emulsion, made up principally of oil and gas, with a trace of water. The pressure of gas in the well is about 600 pounds, and has caused the oil to issue forth in a fine spray. It is probable that the well will be opened up a little to ease off the pressure, and from all indications it promises to be one of the finest producers in the field. It is in excellent territory, being located only a short distance from the great gusher of the Birch Oil Company. The strike on the Columbia was made at 3700 feet.

MAKING GOOD HEADWAY.

The Pyramid Oil Company is making much better progress than before in well No. 1, in which there was a spectacular blowout of gas that filled several hundred feet of the hole with a sand plug. Drilling with standard tools has progressed to 3950 feet with a four and one-quarter-inch-casing and to within ninety feet of the original bottom, with every indication that the blowout preventer will be able to hold the gas and enable the drillers to reach the oil formation with standard tools. Well No. 2 is drilling at 3660 feet. Well No. 2 on section 26, North Midway, was 600 feet deep Thursday.

PANAMA RESUMES DRILLING.

Operations on well No. 1 of the Panama Oil Company have been delayed by the loss of a bailer, which was stuck in the formation at 3190 feet. It was necessary to take off the lower joint of the four-inch casing and drill past the bailer. This task was finished on Thursday, and drilling was resumed. The formation is blue shale, carrying seashells and considerable gas. Well No. 2 continues to flow, and well No. 3 is down 490 feet.

WILL HAVE LARGE OUTPUT.

The M. J. & M. M. Consolidated recently brought in two fine wells in the northeast corner of section 36, 12-24. No. 10, the last one finished, reached the oil sand at 2100 feet, and after flowing a few hours broke off the valve and threw oil high over the derrick, flowing at an estimated rate of 15,000 barrels per day. Both wells are on the same anticline as the Panama and National Pacific, it is stated, and are within a short distance of the gusher recently brought in by the K. T. & O. on section 25, 12-23.

THREE BLOWOUTS.

Well No. 2 of the Mays Oil Company, which struck a gas pocket last Monday, has been flowing with a slight showing of oil. After the gas was encountered the heavy cable worked out of the socket, making it impossible to get the tools out of the hole.

At the time the drill entered the pocket but little oil showed, but the amount has increased until the derrick is painted with it.

Gas trouble has been had in this hole since the 2400-foot level has been passed, a blowout having occurred at that depth. Another pocket was encountered at 2698 feet, and the present blowout is at 2855.

NOTES ON THE FIELDS.

On well No. 21 of the United Oil Company, drilling with a rotary has been delayed by the caving of the hole. The eight-inch casing has now been landed and drilling has been resumed. The well was 2620 feet deep when it caved. Well No. 25 on the south line of the company's holdings, section 20, is drilling by contract, and is over 1200 feet deep.

The Dome Oil Company is reported to have encountered rather puzzling but promising conditions in a well being drilled on the Wickendon ranch. The hole was finished at 3600 feet, at which level the oil has generally come in other wells to withi nonly 1200 feet of the surface. In the Dome well, however, it has risen to the very level of the ground. The indications are that this well will be a good producer, and it was expected to be on the pump the latter part of last week.

Well No. 1 of the Diamond Valley Oil Company has been cemented at 1300 feet. The rig for well No. 2 has been built for some time. Both are in the Ventura section.

It is reported that the Montebello Oil Company has three new wells in process of construction in the Ventura district, and it is stated that the number of producers will by active drilling be raised to about forty.

REV. BAKER P. LEE.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

FAITH, HOPE AND LOVE ABIDE, BUT THE GREATEST OF THEM IS LOVE.

The Rev. Baker P. Lee preached an interesting sermon at Christ Episcopal Church yesterday morning from I Cor. 13:13: "And now abideth faith, hope and love, but the greatest of these is love." He said in part:

"Here is the brightest star in the Christian firmament, the fairest flower that blooms in the garden of God; the most comprehensive sentence ever written, a volume in a word, a poem in a phrase.

And there will come a day to each of us when faith loses grip and hope seems blind as they clasp their arms about each other in despair, while Love smiles on through the darkness and leads them safely into the sunshine of the Promised Land of God's eternal love.

"One cannot have real love without faith and hope; Faith is the tree, Hope is the blossom, but Love is the fruit without which the others would be meaningless.

"We fancy that to be a Christian is only to accept certain doctrinal truths. Churchmanship and theology do not necessarily make a Christian.

"Faith has made possible the Panama Canal, driven the hydra-headed monster of yellow fever to its lair and killed it, wrested the secrets of nature, harnessed electricity and steam, made a whispering gallery of the earth and provided every comfort and luxury of modern life.

"Emotion, intellect, energy and sacrifice are beautiful and sublime but they are meaningless without love. What can be so terrible as to wound love and what can so hurt love as to offer a substitute for it.

"In this materialistic age of applied common sense in our home life, social life and even in business we lose the joy and zest of achievement when we forget the little courtesies, the oft spoken words of affection and the chivalry of real men.

"The surest symptom of love is to thirst for love. What a wonderful grouping of virtues is here, so commonplace today that we have lost its meaning and yet we should look at this picture with humble yearning hearts until we begin to grow like it, and yet even this is but a crude sketch drawn from the life of Jesus, the God of love, for we are not only the spectators of His love but also the objects."

BOYLE HEIGHTS M. E. CHURCH.

MAN IS NEAR THE KINGDOM OF GOD WHEN HE IS ANXIOUS TO FIND IT.

The subject of Dr. Tilroe's sermon at the Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday morning was "The Last Step." The text was from Mark 12;34: "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God." He said in part:

"It is said that the ships of Columbus sailing far on an unknown sea came across a carved stick afloat on the waters, a bush with berries on it, certain strange birds in the ... and finally, one night, saw moving lights athwart their track. These were good signs that though yet hidden, land was not far away. The story of the hour gives us the tokens when the kingdom of God is near.

"For instance, a man is not far from the kingdom of God when he is anxious to find it. It is said that Columbus had a hard time keeping his sailors on their journey. He was compelled finally to agree that if three days more did not bring land in view he would turn about and sail home. With this attitude of heart they were potentially far from land till the very hour they were sure it was at hand.

"Any dark moment of despair might see them giving all things up and heading exactly away from harbor and glory. So the careless, indifferent man is never near his God. It is only when he seeks Him with his whole heart that he may hope to find him. This scribe was on the search, was in company with Jesus, was ready with his prayer for the good. To be like him is to be near the kingdom of God. A burning heart is the dawn of blessing.

"Again the kingdom of God is near a man to whom it has come to be reasonable. A prejudice against brains in religion is never wind in the sails. The scribe was pleased with reasoning and was ready with some of his own. It is not irreverence to speak of the logical Jesus. The son of God was not only holy, but also wise. Worship is never folly. An open intent mind is ever near the kingdom.

"Also the kingdom of God is near the man who is ready for its service. The heart, the head, and the hand alike are needed when we seek for God.

"To be near the kingdom of God is not to be in it. The last step a man must take himself. With heart and head and hand the whole man ranges himself with his Maker to find the abiding peace."

REV. C. T. MURPHY.

ATHANASIUS EPISCOPAL.

AWAKENED SOCIAL CONSCIENCE IS A HOPEFUL SIGN OF SPIRITUAL AND CIVIC BETTERMENT.

In the course of his sermon yesterday morning in St. Athanasius Episcopal Church, the Rev. C. T. Murphy said:

"Social conscience is a modern thing. That moral obliquity can rest upon and ought to be felt by corporations, political parties, social groups of all kinds, even by governments, is very largely a new idea. It is the discovery of the present generation that the fundamental law of love for God and man applies to collective acts of social groups no less than to individual efforts, and is the test of their right to exist and succeed.

"With this discovery is coming a sense of moral responsibility for corporate acts, and what is more a consciousness of guilt before God when His law is broken.

"This law of God is not new. The sin is not new. Neither are the dire consequences of the breaking of the law new on the face of the earth. The poor, the weak, the ignorant, have been exploited and made to suffer by organized human effort since humanity first learned to work in groups. The new thing is a feeling of responsibility before God—a social conscience awakened to a painful sense of awful guilt.

"This awakened social conscience is therefore a most hopeful sign. Humanity's moral suffering at the discovery that the meanest, the most contemptible sins, that the practices most destructive of happiness, of character, even of human life, are hiding behind the impersonal responsibility of corporate activities, is compelling the search for a power and a leader to bring about social reform.

MAN'S ENVIRONMENT CHANGED, BUT QUEST FOR PEACE AND HAPPINESS STILL REMAINS.

"The Open Door" was the theme of an interesting sermon by Rev. Edward Campbell, D. D., at the First Presbyterian Church. He said in part:

"In the present age this theme has been discussed by every politician in Christendom, and the terms applied to political policies is a familiar one and needs no explanation.

"The term is taken from the Scriptures and extends not only to a political sphere but comprehends that which has influenced political policies and moral and religious life.

"Man has been changing in his environment and has been transforming his surroundings until today the modern man in some ways is far removed from the man of primitive ages, but there is one thing which remains the same. Man has been and is still in quest of some door through which he may pass, and beyond its threshold find peace and happiness, find contentment and satisfaction that will satisfy the inherent desire that finds expression through so many avenues of his nature.

"I believe we may profit as we look into the chamber of peace through this door and see some of its comforting sights, likewise we may catch an inspiring vision as we look into the chamber of power and opportunity which throw themselves upon our vision and remind us of what things have come to the world as men have been permitted to enter the open door and dwell within those chambers."

REV. W. LEON TUCKER.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.

PREACHER'S BUSINESS IS NOT TO GIVE OPINIONS, BUT THE WORD OF GOD.

Rev. W. Leon Tucker at Calvary Baptist Church preached yesterday morning on the "Preaching themes of the Apostle Paul." He said in part:

"There is nothing among men so powerful as words. It is by words that we influence one another. It is by words that mighty movements are set in operation; it is by words that hate is stirred up, that comfort is ministered; and it is by words that knowledge is distributed. By preaching or proclamation the gospel is preached. The world is flooded by a torrent of words. The facilities for multiplying words have enormously increased. The earth, the sea and the air are filled with words.

"The preacher has no business to give the people his opinions or the opinions of any other human being. People are stuffed with opinions. It is his business to preach the word of God. We preach not ourselves but Christ, Jesus the Lord. It is well to notice the 'nots' of Holy Scripture. There are many of them. 'Born again not of blood.' 'Redeemed, not with corruptible things.' 'Not by works of righteousness, which we have done and we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus, the Lord.'

"I spent many years in familiarizing myself with the thoughts of great men, with great books of the great, their discoveries, their inventions, their cunning and their craft, but now one theme impells and compells me. Christ Jesus, the Lord. His name is above every name. Weary world-weak workers want to hear of Him on the first day of the week. Where Christ is preached the weary, the heart-sick and sad are rejoiced."

DR. FRENCH.

NEW JERUSALEM CHURCH.

Dr. French preached at the Church of the New Jerusalem last night on "Perfection." His text was taken from Matt. 5-48: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

He said in part:

"The words of the text seem to enjoin something that is beyond the limit of human possibility. How can man be perfect even as God is perfect? The absolute perfection that exists in God is, indeed, unattainable by man—yet this perfection may and should form our ever expanding ideals.

"The word perfect suggests at once a product and a conclusion—it comes from two Latin words signifying to make an end, to finish, to complete. The development of character proceeds along lines leading from what is external to what is internal, from what is natural to what is spiritual, from what is worldly to what is heavenly. This growth is marked by definite stages, every stage has a beginning and an ending. The end of one stage is the beginning of the next. There is a perfect way by which to advance from stage to stage.

"This is the way of perfection and the way of life—by the word 'perfection,' therefore, as applied to human effort and attainment, we are to think of progress toward the absolute perfection which exists in God—further growth will always be possible, whatever stage may have been reached. The onward march toward the ideal is in the way of truth. Every truth of the Divine Word is a covered way leading to heaven.

"The kingdom of heaven is within us—in this inner kingdom the Father dwells. God, the infinite Creator and Preserver of the universe is above the heavens, not in the heavens. The Father in heaven is the divine love brought down within human reach and accommodated to human possibilities. This love is Emmanuel, God with us; it is incarnate in the glorified humanity of our Lord Jesus Christ in whom dwells all the fullness of the godhead bodily—He and the Father are one as body and soul are one. The divine love is absolute perfection.

"In the higher regions of the human soul, where the Father dwells, man is in the image and likeness of the Heavenly Father. The work of life consists in bringing our outer conscious activities into harmony with the perfect inner life that is ever flowing into the soul from the indwelling Father. The divine words, 'Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect,' enjoined upon us to advance from a knowledge of the truth to a realization in our daily experience of the love to which the truth is directed.

"All perfection dwells in love and leads back to love—a man comes into actual possession of the truth only so far as his outer life is transformed into the image and likeness of indwelling love—this transformation is the work of the Holy Spirit operating in and through man's obedience to the truth."

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 4.—London Tabernacle was crowded both morning and evening to hear Pastor Russell. We report his evening discourse from the text, "Not of works, lest any man should boast, for we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." (Eph. ii:9-10.)

Ever since Brother Luther's day and his vigorous preaching of justification by faith Christian believers have been more or less perplexed in their endeavors to harmonize the Scriptural declaration respecting faith and works as related to salvation. Pastor Russell believes that in the clearer light God is shedding upon the pathway of His people today through the Bible they are enabled to comprehend with absolute clearness matters once foggy.

This, he claimed, does not signify that our forefathers were less loyal to God, nor less logical in the operation of their minds. It does, however, agree, with the Scriptural declaration that we are living in the time when the wise of God's people are to understand the message previously more or less hidden, but, now, in due time to be revealed.—Revelation x:7.

The logical thought which appeals most strongly to every mind is that good works must be the basis of Divine favor and bad works the basis of disfavor. This led up to the childsummary of preaching, namely, "Be good and go to heaven; be bad and go to ——." Our Catholic friends said the pastor, carry the matter of good works to such an extent that they claim that some have laid up such surplus of good works and Divine favor therefor that they are able to appropriate some of these to others; hence the claim that they may be appealed to in prayer and may give of their merit to others as a bounty or donation.

The Scriptural proposition is plain: It is that no man is perfect, that all through the fall are impaired in mind and body, so that none can do perfect works. Their very best works would be unacceptable to God—imperfect. Instead of ignoring their imperfections God provided a Redeemer, whose obedience unto death He accepts as a sacrifice for the sins of Adam and his race. Evidently all imperfections of word or act resulting from that disobedience and fall will be completely forgiven. The race will be reconciled to God. Divine blessings will come to humanity and the earth, instead of the curse now resting upon them. The effect will be to give all mankind the fullest opportunity for rising up out of sin and degradation, imperfection, sorrow, death, alienation from God, ignorance, superstition, etc., back to the full perfection that Father Adam possessed at first.

But in order to regain all those blessings lost each member of the race will be required to appreciate the privileges of life eternal and Divine favor and will be obliged also to show his appreciation by striving against sin and cooperating with the Savior in the uplifting arrangements which will prevail for a thousand years, during the Messianic Kingdom.

PRESENT AGE SALVATION BY FAITH.

It is in the present age only that salvation is to be by faith and not by works. True, the world in the next age will not be faithless while making their progress in good works and being judged according to their works. They will be full of faith, but there will be abundant basis for faith. Knowledge will make their pathway clear as day. Demonstration will prove to them such things as God's people in the present time must accept by faith—"For we walk by faith and not by sight."

The Gospel Age, from the time of Jesus' first advent until the second advent, is the Age of Faith in contrast with the unsuccessful Age of Works preceding and the to-be-successful Age of works to follow. The pastor showed that during the Law Age, from Moses to Jesus, the requirement was works: "He that doeth these things shall live by them." (Leviticus xviii, 5; Romans x, 5.) Israel's failure was because of inability to do things perfectly—the things contained in the Law given to them at Mt. Sinai.

The New Law Covenant, which will be inaugurated by Messiah's Kingdom, will be on exactly the same lines as the old one, namely, works: "He that doeth these things shall live by them." The difference will be that Christ Himself will be the Mediator of the New Law Covenant, both able and willing to render all necessary assistance to all who will come back into harmony with the Father by Him. On the other hand, Moses, the mediator of the old Law Covenant, while ever willing to help his people, was not able to do so, because his mediation was based upon only typical sacrifices of bulls and goats and not upon the real sacrifice of Christ, which alone is able to make full satisfaction for sin.

"WE WALK BY FAITH AND NOT BY SIGHT."

The Apostle was here discussing the terms and conditions by which God is willing to accept the church class of the Gospel Age. These, in the Scriptures, are called the Elect or select ones of the race. God is calling and drawing these out of the world for a special purpose and under special condition, one of which is that only such as have great faith can belong to the select class.

There are some so born, under the fallen conditions, that they have great difficulty in experiencing faith, even a little, and only after a thorough training could they exercise great faith, by experiencing that transformation of the mind of which St. Paul tells us. (Romans xii, 2.) These are not to be blamed for having been born under less favorable conditions than some others. And so God has made provision for all such to come to a knowledge of the Truth and not merely to a faith in it, that they may be saved.

There are others more favorably born, so far as their mental make-up is concerned, who have been unfavorably born as respects environment and place. Born in heathen lands, where they heard nothing of the Message of God's grace, or where they heard it under such unfavorable circumstances that they could not appreciate it, these must indeed lose the special favors of this Age, which go only to those who do exercise faith; but they are not forgotten nor left out of the Divine Plan, but will share in the general blessings coming to the world through the Redeemer's Kingdom.

"WORK OUT YOUR SALVATION."

The favored class who hear the Message of Divine favor, speaking peace through the sacrifice of Christ, assuring them of the Heavenly Father's willingness to forgive their sins and receive them as members of the Body of Christ, are obliged to receive this Message by faith. What is there to prove that Jesus died and rose again? This must be received by faith. What is there to prove that the sacrifice which Jesus made met with Divine approval and that as a consequence all that come unto the Father through Him as their Advocate will be accepted? There is no proof except to the eye of faith and ear of faith. To the natural man these things are imagination, and those who fully and completely trust in them are accused of being rather weak minded.

This step of consecration through the merit of Jesus brings them into such relationship with the Heavenly Father that He is willing to accept them and give them the Holy Spirit of adoption into His family. Up to this point they have done nothing—merely believed—merely accepted God's gifts, favors, invitation, etc. Here our text applies, "Not of works, lest any man should boast."

Every Christian takes these same steps of faith and consecration or he is not a Christian. There are no other steps to take. True, indeed, as we approached God we thought to put away some of the filth of the flesh; but such endeavor to wash and free ourselves from sin cannot be counted good works. A good work is one that is done for God or for others. Merely seeking to cleanse our thoughts and words and deeds is not good works in the Scriptural sense—but, anyway, none has ever been able to purge himself, to wash himself, to cleanse himself. Our own righteousness is as filthy rags, in which God could not receive us. We can come to Him only under the robe of Christ's righteousness, and it is given only as a reward of faith and a consecration of the heart.

But while there are no works up to that point, after that point there will be works, else we will never come off conquerors, nor ever gain the great prize which Jesus likens to a "pearl of great price." We can do no works to justify ourselves, but, after being justified by faith, we are permitted to do works. Yea, we are required to work out our own salvation. Note the difference, however. It is the old creature, the sinner, that was justified. When God accepted him a living sacrifice through faith in Jesus he was begotten to a new nature and became a new creature in Christ Jesus—a spirit being, though without a spirit body.

This new creature not only maintains the faith which brought it into existence, but in it the faith must work. It must grow by exercise—"grow in grace, knowledge and love," grow in all the fruits and graces of the Holy Spirit. Under a figure of begetting and birth the Apostle represents the new creature as a foetus developing and getting ready for its birth—resurrection. Again, this new creature is referred to by the Apostle sometimes as a babe, saying, "As newborn babes desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby." The milk of the word represents the simplest truths, the simplest elements of divine instruction, the first principles of the doctrines of Christ.

Gradually we grow in grace and become strong in the Lord and able to assimilate the stronger food—able to appreciate the deeper truths. As a child requires the exercise of every muscle in order to become the youth, and as the youth needs exercise in order to become fully developed, so it is with the new creature. He must have works in order to his development. He must work out the good things which he takes in as milk and strong meat. They must be worked out in his own mind, in his conduct toward others, in his ministry of spiritual truths to his family, in the church and before the world.

In Memoriam.

TRIBUTE PAID GENTLE LEADER.

Long and Useful Life of Late President Emeritus Recalled in Loving Reminiscence by Those Who Knew Her Best in Her Cherished Work.

A memorial service for the late Mrs. Frank A. Dewey, president emeritus of the Young Women's Christian Association was held in the auditorium of the Association building yesterday afternoon. Sorrowing friends of the beloved leader met together to render homage to her life and works.

Mrs. Willitts J. Hole, president of the association, presided and in her introductory remarks feelingly summarized the life of Mrs. Dewey. "We are rich in her memory," said Mrs. Hole, "her work is not done, for her influence will be felt throughout the years. She gave us love, and love is eternal," said Mrs. S. D. Burks, who discussed Mrs. Dewey's relationship to the association at the time of its beginning.

The service was opened by Mrs. Anna S. Averill with a prayer, and Miss Amelia C. Johnson, the general secretary, read a scripture lesson. Miss Beresford Joy sang "He Leadeth Me Beside Still Waters."

Mrs. E. R. Smith discussed, "Mrs. Dewey During Her Presidency," and Miss Grace Maxwell, "Mrs. Dewey and the Secretaries." Miss Lottie Kimball recalled "Mrs. Dewey in Her Relation to Members of Association Clubs," and Rev. A. W. Rider, a brother of the deceased, "Her Character and Interests." Mrs. W. C. Patterson read the resolutions offered by Mrs. Dewey at the time of her resignation from the presidency and Mrs. D. K. Edwards presented appropriate resolutions on behalf of the association. In conclusion Miss Joy sang "Heaven Is My Home," and Mrs. L. A. Ross offered the concluding prayer, the audience joining in a series of selected verses.

Mrs. Dewey was president of the Y. W. C. A. for thirteen years of the seventeen of its existence and to her more than any other one person is ascribed the development of the work in Los Angeles and the building of the home now occupied. In 1910 she retired from the active presidency and was made president emeritus, a position she held until her death a few days ago.

An enlarged portrait of Mrs. Dewey draped with immortelles looked down upon the audience. On the platform were the president, Mrs. Hole, Mrs. D. K. Edwards, Mrs. Gail B. Johnson, Mrs. E. R. Smith, Dr. Rose T. Bullard, Mrs. Anna S. Averill, Mrs. S. D. Burks, Mrs. G. J. Dalton, Mrs. C. E Galloway, Mrs Elmer E. Gardner, Miss Clara P. Hull, Mrs. Z. D. Mathuss, Mrs. T. F. Miller, Mrs. L. A. Ross and Mrs. Spencer A. Smith of the Board of Managers.

For thirty days all social activities in the association will be suspended and the flag will remain at half mast.

Baptists to Open Doors to All Denominations.

Great Long Beach Assembly in Epochal Movement.

All Protestant Churches to Be Included in It.

With an outlined programme of conducting its annual conventions hereafter upon much broader lines of Christian work and making their gatherings entirely interdenominational, the Southern California Baptist Assembly held the opening session of the twelfth annual convention yesterday at Long Beach.

The services were entirely of a religious nature. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, president of the Assembly, preached in the morning at the Baptist Church on the subject of "Life in High Society." In the evening at the First Methodist Church he addressed an audience which packed the big church to the doors on "How to Keep Young."

An added feature of the evening service was the solo of George H. Bemus, one of the greatest bassos in America, who before coming to the Coast was the soloist in New York City of the largest Methodist Church in the world.

Despite the fact that the opening day was the Sabbath, delegates arrived all day and this evening nearly 500 registrations were reported, a record for the opening day.

The regular business of the Assembly will begin this morning and continue through two weeks, the mornings being devoted to mission work, Bible training and Sunday-school work, and the evenings to popular lectures and entertainments, the afternoons, except today, being for the recreation period of the delegates.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL.

This afternoon the most important question of the convention will come up, but there is little doubt but that it will be settled along the lines planned by Dr. Brougher. That plan embodies the relinquishing of the Assembly affairs by the Baptists under whose auspices it has heretofore been conducted and making of it an interdenominational affair with co-operation and assistance on the programme by all Protestant churches of whatever creed.

The meeting this afternoon will consider amendments to the constitution and by-laws providing for an enlargement of the board of directors so that representatives of other denominations may be included, and making the Assembly hereafter interdenominational in spirit and purpose. This has to an extent been carried out in the programme this year, the speakers and lecturers representing leaders of Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and Christians.

Thus yesterday Dr. Brougher represented the Baptists in the Assembly sermons; next Sunday Dr. Robert Freeman of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena will address the Assembly morning and evening, and on Sunday, August 18, Rev. E. R. Dille, pastor of the Central Methodist Church of San Francisco, will be the Assembly preacher.

On the programme during the Assembly are many men of note throughout the country. The chief speaker is Rev. W. T. Stackhouse of New York City, general secretary of the Men's Forward Movement in the Baptist Church, the duties of which he has successfully carried on in the United States for two years. Standing six feet four inches, he attracts attention by his height and personality.

Other leaders on the programme are Dr. James W. Kramer of Spokane, H. A. Dowling of Los Angeles, general secretary of the interdenominational Sunday-school work of the Pacific Coast; Rev. W. F. Harper of Pomona, Dr. Robert Freeman of Pasadena, Rev. A. M. Petty of San Francisco, Rev. A. W. Rider of San Francisco, secretary of the Pacific Coast home and foreign missionary work; Rev. H. K. Booth of Long Beach, Rev. Thomas E. Stevenson, State missionary superintendent, and Superintendent Mark Keppel of the Los Angeles county schools.

TRAINING METHODS.

The first week's programme is devoted mainly to Sunday-school training methods, and three divisions of the work will be carried on through the Assembly. The elementary division will be in charge of Miss Meme Brockway, the secondary division, H. A. Dowling, and the adult division, Mrs. H. A. Dowling. During the Assembly addresses will be made each day by Miss Meme Brockway, Mrs. T. S. Tompkins, Pasadena; Mrs. Stella B. Irvine, Riverside; Mrs. B. E. Bashford, Los Angeles; Mrs. Emma Fuessle, Pasadena; Mrs. M. R. Roundstone, Los Angeles; Mrs. A. L. Dennis, Mrs. A. Gentry, Los Angeles; Rev. Miles B. Fisher, San Francisco; Prof. C. M. Miller, Rev. Oren B. Waite, Los Angeles; Mrs. P. E. Berry, San Pedro; Mrs. I. H. Dysinger, Fullerton, and Stephani Shultze, Pasadena. Discussions on the work will be conducted by Rev. H. K. Booth, George C. Butterfield, Los Angeles; Prof. J. A. Baber, Rev. Sumner T. Martin, Rialto; Mrs. L. M. Fall, Miss Edith Conde, Los Angeles Y.W.C.A.; Rev. M. D. Clubb and Rev. C. N. Queen, San Bernardino.

The second week will be devoted to Bible and missionary work. Rev. A. W. Rider, coast secretary of foreign missions, will have charge part of the time, and Rev. A. M. Petty, coast secretary of home missions, will occupy the remainder. The Bible addresses the first week will be given by Rev. E. L. Powell, of Louisville, Ky.; and the second week by Dr. Robert Freeman of Pasadena.

Dr. Stackhouse will give a series of missionary addresses, as will also Rev. Dana Bartlett, Rev. O. H. Reutepohler, Rev. Claude Kelly, Dr. J. Harvey Deere, Mrs. L. E. Troyer, Dr. Kramer, Rev. E. R. Dille.

During the last week Prof. J. A. Baber will conduct a training class in young people's work and leadership. The music of the convention will be in charge of W. Earl Smith.

CURING HIM.

Mrs. Thaw says that her husband is incited to kill people when he is drinking champagne. Perhaps if the young man is released from the asylum he might try the water cure.

IMPOSSIBLE.

It is said that Porfirio Diaz yearns to return to Mexico to offer his wisdom and strength to his people. Diaz was the grand old man of Mexico through a long era of stern yet wise government, but his work is done and that chapter of Mexico's history is closed, forever.

UNSULLIED.

Dan Sully made $3,000,000 in three months and lost it in two minutes. He never saw this cotton and he never saw the $3,000,000. They existed only on paper, and it may be that his present downfall has no more reality than had his previous fortune. Perhaps to a large extent the riches and the poverty of all men are often unreal. At best men are only actors and it may be that many times they only dream they act in a sort of dream play.

NOT THE KID.

As the manager of a baseball team William Reidy may or may not be infallible. If he retires Kid Mohler from the San Francisco twenty this week he will convince Southern fans that he is still capable of error. The fact that Mohler has been playing professional baseball for twenty-eight years has nothing to do with the question so long as he continues to play in the form he has presented during the last fourteen days.

THE WRONG TRACK.

Germany has another great dirigible balloon which has made a long flight of 500 miles in record-breaking time. Nevertheless the Fatherland is on the wrong track in the quest of the secret of the air. Science has discarded the idea of the balloon, and, while the problem of the skies has not been entirely solved, every step toward the best solution is being taken in another direction from the gas-inflated bag. It is strange that a nation of scientists should stubbornly persist in following a trail that leads to nowhere.

HIS SACRIFICE.

It is always touching to see a man give up something he does not want or could not get. At Sacramento a man named Johnson believes that he has a strangle hold upon the Governorship of California and knows that he would have no chance whatever of being elected Vice-President of the United States if he ran on a ticket with the big Bull Moose. Therefore he has suddenly been seized with a fit of generosity and handsomely offers to surrender a very questionable honor in favor of some favorite from the South.

DEVONPORT "PRAYED FOR."

Are the labor-union leaders in Great Britain taking a leaf from the native superstitions of the Kanakas? In the old days among the Hawaiians certain individuals were credited with the supernatural power of "praying" all sorts of pains and ills against their enemies. These demoniac prayers were said to have the power to blight and kill.

Is old Ben Tillett assuming the role of a South Pacific medicine man? The other day he assembled the strikers on Tower Hill and led a universal prayer the burden of which was: "O God, strike Devonport dead!" Devonport's crime of course was the employing of non-union men. The superstition may be ridiculous, but the suggestion was sinister.

TAXATION BY WEIGHT.

France is experimenting in tax legislation. One of the latest moves is to tax fat men according to their avoirdupois. Those who weigh 136 pounds or less are exempt. Every pound in excess of 136 subjects its possessor to an annual tax of so much per letter. One of the largest mercertain the victim's weight on government scales.

Advertisements on houses, fences and billboards are to be taxed at a specified rate per square foot. The Spanish authorities, when in power in Havana, adopted a municipal ordinance taxing signs at so much per letter. One of the largest mercantile houses in Havana was owned by a gentleman named Aminedat Cadwaller. On being apprised of the new law he abbreviated his sign to A. Cad. It will be in order for 200-pounders in France to train down for a month or two before the advent of the government weigher and then fatten up for the rest of the year.

THE PREACHER AND THE MAID.

Prophet, priest, preacher and seer are in a way synonymous terms. David, King of Israel, was a prophet and a seer, having risen from the humble state of a shepherd boy who played his harp on the hillside in the moonlight. King David was guilty of an offense that has become more or less typical of preachers and prophets. He spoke "unadvisedly with his lips" when he said in his haste, "all men are liars."

A new prophet, priest and seer of the present day, Rev. Elmer V. Huffer, pastor of the First Christian Church of Grand Junction, Colo., has continued the type by speaking very "unadvisedly with his lips" and thereby committing a graver offense than to call "all men liars." Indeed, David's offense had been condoned in at least one instance when the Scotch preacher quoted the psalmist's words for his text and then folding his arms over the pulpit looked down at his congregation with the opening remark, "It was in your haste ye said it, Davie, my man! Indeed if ye had been in this parish ye might have taken your time and made the same announcement."

The consensus of opinion of 99 per cent. of the intelligent men and women of the world will be that this new prophet was wrong. The man who interferes in the marriage affairs of man or woman can only be "wise in his own conceit." Of all the affairs of life the marriage of a man or woman is the affair of that man or woman and of no other man or woman. Whether one shall marry or not, regardless of sex, condition of life, or any other consideration, is a matter to be settled by the man or woman.

Now the marriage of a woman is ten times over compared to that of a man a thing not to be meddled with. It is the man's affair to pop the question or not to pop it. With a woman she must wait for the pop, and occasionally it does not come. When it does come it is surely for the woman to say "no," with positiveness or to whisper the "yes" in the gentlest murmur.

It is not the duty of a man or woman to marry unless the conditions are right, and of the conditions the man or woman must judge, the Rev. Huffer to the contrary notwithstanding. And what nonsense it is to say that the unmarried woman is waste material in the great activities of life. This indiscriminate onslaught of the Colorado preacher is without exception of any kind. There are in the world some millions of women who embrace, yea hug, "single blessedness" as a deliberate choice, not to waste their lives nor to lose them either, but to save them. Look at the multitudes of women in sisterhoods of many kinds who sit by sick beds and cool the brow of fever, who take neglected orphans by the hand and lead them up to useful manhood and womanhood. Contemplate the thousands of trained nurses of our own day who without entering sisterhoods or taking vows of eternal celibacy do the same thing, and they are not the only women who hug "single blessedness" as a duty. Many a daughter foregoes marriage that she might contract honorably and advantageously in order that she may care for an invalid or indigent mother, father, sister or brother.

The preacher, prophet, priest or seer who stands in the pulpit and in the name of God proclaims a message in the ears of the world should always be considerate in his speech.

MACHINERY AND WAGES.

An advance in the wages of labor stimulates the invention of labor-saving machinery, and the labor employed in connection with the machinery commands a higher price than when the manufactured article was produced without the labor-saving machinery. The girl who attends a power loom where there is woven in an hour more yards of fabric than could have been produced in many hours with a spinning jenny receives double or treble the wages she could have earned by working with a spinning jenny, and the consumer of the fabric made by the loom pays half the price he was used to pay for the product of the spinning jenny. M. Poulin, a leading French manufacturer at Rheims, stated, according to David A. Wells, that the wages in French wool manufactures, which were formerly one franc and a half per day, are now five francs, while the cost of weaving a meter of merino cloth which was formerly sixteen francs is now less than two francs. The printer who runs a linotype machine receives higher wages than the printer at the case, and the composition of the linotype costs less than the composition effected at the case.

There is no article made with the use of machinery in which the workmen who conduct the machinery are not paid higher wages than those who make the same article without machinery.

REACTIONARY DEMOCRATS.

Uncle Sam is not likely to lag behind in the procession where the defense of his coast lines and the protection of his ocean commerce is at stake. Reactionary Democrats are attempting to cripple the navy—the voters will remember this at the November Presidential election. Two new ships every year is a modest enough programme for the country possessing the greatest commercial interest in the world. America, to promote universal peace, must have the necessary force as well as the necessary funds.

Gen. Homer Lea has very ably pointed out the folly of any nation relying too much on prestige. America has the prestige, the men and the money; but without ships this would go for little. If world peace is ever to become a reality it must be brought about by some scheme of a general international defense force, such force to be independent of the civil government of each individual nation. The nation that can bring this about must be in every way the most powerful in the world, so that her disinterestedness may be beyond doubt or cavil. The same "little Americans" who wish to defeat President Taft's peace proposals are at work to cripple the effectiveness of the American navy.

America is the logical peace champion among the nations, but to make her work effective she must have land and sea power proportionate to the magnitude of the task. No reactionary Democrats, under the mask of Bryanism or Tammanyism, will be allowed to hold back the progress of America or the peace movement involved in this progress by destroying our effectiveness as a sea power. Voters will be watching very closely the tactics of the Democratic party as regards the efficiency of the navy and the maintenance of our standard. America knows where President Taft stands because he stands for America. Wilson is a too little known and Roosevelt is a too well known quantity. America stands for Taft, for peace and an effective navy.

COLLEGE CRITICISM.

Wide criticism of colleges is now being made on the grounds that too much attention is paid to secret societies and too great an emphasis placed on social values generally at the expense of study and real university work. One critic deplores the secrecy and mysticism which the undergraduate meets everywhere upon the college campus and regrets that young men should take their college events so seriously. Man lives to learn, and the system which confronts him is the same whether he be on the farm, on the college campus or at the national Capitol. It is right to be in earnest about mastering the system regardless of a man's position and his sense of it. Furthermore, if the young man in college can establish himself upon the rock of hermiticism he will have come upon a great law which will serve him as well as knowledge gleamed from any text-book. Univeralities should mean more to a man than atmosphere, but much which seems artificial about them is only so upon the surface and it all has its place in college life and work.

THE JAIL MURDER.

Lashed to fury by ridicule, a Greek, who is a prisoner in the Los Angeles County Jail, murdered a fellow-prisoner in that institution Thursday morning. This was physically possible because both men were trusties. It is not surprising that tragedy should sometimes be found within gloomy prison walls. The surprise is that bitter strife is not more often encountered among those who are desperate, unfortunate and miserable. Many of them are out of harmony with all that sweetens and ennobles. Some of them have become perverted and some of them inverted. Their values are distorted; their mental and spiritual sight is gone. A man's body is the root upon which his psychology is grafted, and when finer feelings and higher thoughts are completely dominated by the physical, a man is as one whose soul is dead. It is not strange, then, that those who are learning lessons in the hard and bitter way of folly and prisons should have still more painful and extravagant lessons during prison experience.

CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

Canadians are boasting, according to the report of the Chicago Association of Commerce delegation, and apparently not without reason, of "the high moral plane of Canadian officials, the business-like administration of their government, and the wholesome respect for laws due to their strict enforcement regardless of whom they hit." Chairman Gore says in his report:

"Breaches of the law in Canada are swiftly and surely punished. In the affairs of local government the Canadians have a superior form and conduct public affairs more efficiently and capably than they are conducted in the States. Americans who have become citizens of Canada uniformly say that they are better satisfied with the conduct of public affairs in Canada than when they were citizens here. They feel that they have a greater protection of the law in the country of their adoption than they had here.

"When candidates for municipal offices are chosen, the affiliation in national policies are not only ignored, but the people fiercely resent any attempt to intrude national issues into local affairs."

People in Chicago may contemplate removal to Canada with complacency, for the climatic conditions are similar, and freedom from I.W.W.'s is a great inducement. But no Los Angeleno will listen to any such nonsense, for here every prospect pleases, whether scenic, sanitary, climatic or commercial, and not even "man is vile"—except in some newspaper editorial rooms.

The tariff views of Woodrow Wilson favor an annual reduction of 5 per cent. in the duties for the period of three years. That is the old exploded platform of "Horizontal Bill" Morrison of thirty years ago. Nothing "progressive" about that.

Unprofitable.

Burglar: Well, soy! When ye figure me time an' me tools, how d'ye expect me to make any profit at that rate?

No Offense.

[Washington Star:] "Your wife referred to you as 'it,' did she not?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes. But I don't believe she meant anything unkind by that. She frequently referred to her pet dogs in the same way."

Those Dear Girls.

Marie: Considers it a sort of triumph, I suppose. They say the true artist delights in difficulties.

The Way Out of It.

He: Not exactly; he's thinking of marrying a rich girl and settling up.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

John Arthur Johnsing, t'other day, within the ring of rope, you put poor Jimmie Flynn away and spoiled our latest hope. And yet your triumph was a sin; no virtue in it lies; instead of swatting men like Flynn, why don't you swat the flies? You showed how deftly you can spoil a beaming human mug, but who's the better for your toil. O self-complacent pug? You're waxing old; you should begin to do some labors wise; instead of swatting gents like Flynn, you ought to swat the flies. You slammed Flynn's head and made it sound much like a muffled drum; you labored and you pranced around and punched him out of plumb; you smote his larynx and his chin, you biffed him in the eyes; but better far than swatting Flynn, it were to swat the flies. Down where Las Vegas broods and moans you cooked a young man's goose; "I took in thirty thousand bones," you say, as an excuse. But there are better things than gin, for which your bosom sighs; why swat a helpless cheese like Flynn, when you might swat the flies? John Arthur, quit your vain career, which makes all good men sick; cut out the Hollands and the beer and buy a swatting stick. Brace up and spring your golden grin, and win a nobler prize than is the scalp of Jimmie Flynn—go forth and swat the flies!

WALT MASON.

THE MAN WITH A GRIEVANCE.

The easiest prey for designing women is the man with a grievance. It takes mighty little consoling to turn his attention to any woman. The man who is well fed and comfortable at home is not likely to stray away without inducements of an unusual nature, and generally such men never see them even when flaunted under their very noses. That there are injured wives I am willing to concede, but I question their number, when I find women at club dinners and bridge parties, and husbands left to solitary meals, or to the wiles of other women.

"Why don't you talk and amuse me?" asked a husband who was smoking his evening pipe on the veranda with his silent wife beside him. "You can find enough to say when we have company. I want to be amused when there are no guests. I need amusement to take the taste of the day in town out of my mouth."

The remark was an eye-opener to his wife. She began to think of the pleasant hours they had spent together when company was not necessary to make her amusing. "I reckon I am failing in my contract," was the conclusion of her rapid thinking, and thereupon she began a reform which has met with prompt appreciation. She saves all the pleasant little incidents of the day to tell him, and remembers the interesting news to discuss with him. That spurs him to similar effort, and the evenings are no longer dull and silent. It is a habit, and a bad one, to regard a husband as part of the furnishing of the home, for some other woman may regard him as an ornament, and tell him so.—[Fanny Bradeen, in Sacramento Union.

ABROAD WITH BURDETTE.

Rag Time in Oratorio Land.

It doesn't seem to have been any trouble to the children of Israel to lift up their voices and sing at any time and anywhere. But after all they required the influence of certain environment to do their best. For upon one occasion when they that wasted them required of them mirth saying, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion," the singing people demurred, "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?"

I thought of those people on the Fourth of July, here in Bad Nauheim, when the German quartette, men with superbly trained voices, influenced by the traditions of a land of immortal musicians and composers, sang for us, in the loftiest intonations of classic art, "Sleep, Kentucky Babe," as though Beethoven had written the score.

I wonder how we sing "The Watch on the Rhine," in German? I have observed that our German auditors always seem pleased when our glee clubs render it.

Bald Eagle and Black Eagle.

We had a sane and safe Fourth here in Nauheim, and the two eagles flapped their wings in harmonious spirals, attaining a most patriotic altitude and returning to their perches by easy planes without any casualties. The Grand Ducal authorities represented in the honorable person of Maj. A. D. Freisherr W. von Starck, were imperial in their hospitality. The Kurhaus belonged to Uncle Sam for one day; the supper was spread for us; band and quartette were provided for us, and in the evening the fireworks were set off for us. Rhode Island couldn't—and wouldn't—have been so generously and freely hospitable as was Hesse Darmstadt. Everything was provided for the American celebration on a most elaborate scale. The Kurdirektor himself opened the celebration with a most appropriate speech in English. After that Dr. Honan, chairman of the day, came on the bridge and took command. As he is of New Hampshire stock, and was fortunately born in Delphi, Ind., he had the pedigree of the Fourth of July at his fingers' ends. Herbert Myrick, editor of the Farm and Home, of Springfield, Mass., and the rest of the United States, related the history of the Fourth in Nauheim; C. F. Lennan, our good old friend of the old Tribune of Salt Lake City, a gentleman known to a thousand Los Angelans, made the speech of his life. Dr. Webster Merrifield of Pasadena upheld the glorious reputation of the Crown of the Valley for patriotic oratory, and a Los Angeles Times man, who was among those present, wound up the occasion by sending the eagle on a special flight above the stars, and further made the event truly American by calling for a collection for the purpose of buying an American flag, garrison size, to be the property of the Kurhaus, for all future eruptions of Americana. The fireworks were most beautifully arranged on the great lawn in the park, closing with a display of "Old Glory" in the heart of a battle scene—bombs, rockets, cannon, thunder, flame and smoke, in the midst of which "our flag was still there," until it faded away among the stars, where it is unto this day. It was a great Fourth.

The Bad Place.

It isn't so bad as it looks when you write it that way, because it isn't pronounced that way. Nauheim is a pretty little city of Hesse Darmstadt, on the slope of "Johannisberg," a spur of the Taunus Mountains. It is about as high above sea level as the Ostrich Farm in South Pasadena. The mountains are wooded; the little toy farms, not so large as our Chinese truck patches, are pretty as gardens; the city parks are beautifully laid out and kept with scientific care, with more seats for the weary than all the parks in Los Angeles county. That is the difference between our parks at home and those in Nauheim. The American park is a place at the gates of which the "S.R.O." board—"standing room only"—might be kept permanently. In this country people are expected to loiter and sit around in them. When left to itself, Nauheim has a population of 5000 souls, mostly Germans. When it receives its friends, from April to October, it has a census of more than 40,000, of all nations. The sales clerks in the stores speak German fluently; French, rapidly; Italian, musically; Russian—well, there is only one way to speak Russian, and they speak it that way. It sounds very profane, but it isn't. And they speak English and United States as she is spoke in Belleville, Ill.

Of course the attraction of the place is its great "solsprudel," brine springs and baths, the three springs supplying 325,000 gallons of brine water daily. The baths are taken for diseases of the heart—this is the Nauheim specialty; and the numerous cures are indeed wonderful. Also gout, which commends it so highly to clergymen and editors; obesity, which renders it attractive to prima donnas past 40; chronic muscular and articular rheumatism and its sequelae; and all that sort of thing, with all the appurtenances thereto appertaining.

A Mutually Beneficial Union.

All the German Spas belong to the General German Health Resorts Union, and in a broad way they are governed by the same rules. The resort cities of the greatest and biggest and wisest nation on earth, which it is unnecessary to name, and which knows everything except a few trifles which it has forgotten, might learn a few things from these effete monarchies of a decaying civilization, things which would add to the beauty and attractiveness of even such matchless cities as Los Angeles and Pasadena, to say nothing of Venice and Long Beach.

Once for All.

When the visitor arrives at Bad Nauheim he is at once made a citizen by the payment of the Kur-tax. This admits him to the Kur-haus, which is the Casino, and to all places of interest and entertainment under the Grand Ducal administration.

Suppose we tried that to our own resort cities. Most visitors would gladly consent to a heavy tax if it would render them immune from the domiciliary raids of predatory committees representing worthy and noble causes in sore need of funds.

Not once a week, but three times a day, morning, afternoon and evening, the Winderstein orchestra from Leipsic plays. If you want to enjoy the music without any impertinent distraction from your stomach you sit on a bench. If you want to gorge and guzzle to orchestration, you sit at a table. A label on the bench indicates the number of people whom it will accommodate. No more are permitted. When the three or four places are filled a fat woman with a poodle in her arms dare not come along and wedge herself in until she squeezes out the meekest man on the bench. He is always an American. A German wouldn't stand for that sort of thing a minute. He'll do it himself, if there is no uniform in sight, which is impossible, but he won't permit any one else to impose on him.

"EEH YAH" HUGH TO QUIT TIGERS.

Will Leave Detroit at Close of This Season.

"Wild Bill" Donovan to Run Team Next Year.

[By Federal (Wireless) Like to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The threat of President Ban B. Johnson to force Manager Hugh Jennings out of the American League has become a reality. The season of 1913 will see the finish of the famous "Eeh Yah" as a manager in the Johnson circuit of baseball clubs. He is now working out the last three months of his Detroit contract.

Next season Jennings goes to the Boston National League Club to succeed Johnny Kling as manager. He will also be allowed to purchase a liberal slice of the club's stock and as Jennings is well fixed financially, the opening carries the opportunity of allowing the fiery-headed little manager to get into business for himself. He will have absolute sway regarding all matters pertaining to the personnel of the club and a free hand to spend all the money necessary to place a winning club in the grounds made famous by the late Frank Seeles and the old-time Boston champions.

DONOVAN TO STEP IN.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the veteran Detroit pitcher, now doing duty the greater part of the time as a scout for the club, will become the Detroit manager with a two-year contract at something like $10,000 a year. The work Donovan is doing this year combing the brushes is merely a preliminary training for his regular berth next season.

These statements can be made with the absolutely authority of a high official in the Detroit Club as well as with the knowledge imparted by a number of Tiger players. The deals have been pending for the last four weeks and as far back as three weeks ago the slate had been fixed. The fear of causing disorganization in both clubs has kept the Detroit and Boston owners from giving the usual publicity to a change of this character.

Jennings walks the plank for two reasons. The principal one is the scandal growing out of his connection with Manager John McGraw of the New York Nationals in last fall's world's series. Jennings and McGraw were team mates in the old days of the Baltimore champions. McGraw has always entertained a bitter hatred toward Ban Johnson and the American League, since he turned against them, when Manager of the Baltimore Club, and kidnapped his entire bunch of stars for the New York Nationals. He claimed that Johnson's tyranny drove him out of the organization and in return he did the best he knew to wreck the league. So when the world's series opened last year it was only natural that he would turn to old friend Jennings for counsel as to the weak and strong points of the Athletics, the American winners.

Jennings looks on the memory of the old Baltimore world beaters as a sacred one and he readily responded. He counseled McGraw to the best of his knowledge as to the loose cogs of the Athletic machinery and it came

GRAND CIRCUIT IN NEW FIELD.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4.—For the first time in a score of years the Grand Circuit trotting meet will be held in this city, beginning tomorrow and continuing through Friday. The cream of the country's horses will be seen.

The chief attraction for tomorrow will be the Matron stake for three-year- old trotters, the estimated value of which is $10,000. At least fifteen horses are expected to face the starters.

Keeps It in the Family.

Mrs. B. O. Bruce,

Close Corporation.

SUTTON GIRLS HAVE MORTGAGE ON TITLE.

THE women's single tennis singles championship title of Southern California reposes in the Sutton family, has reposed there for some time, "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," and from present indications it will continue to repose there for many more years.

Mrs. B. O. Bruce, formerly Miss Ethel Sutton, who beat Miss Alice Scott so decisively in the challenge round at Long Beach, Saturday, now has the distinction of being the champion for another year. She first won the title in 1911. In 1910 Miss Florence Sutton was the winner and the year before Miss May won. The year before Miss May also won and an investigation in years still farther remote would show that Miss May captured the cup every time she played.

Of course, Miss May is the best player of the three sisters. And Miss Florence is generally regarded as the better player than Mrs. Bruce. Miss Scott, who surpassed all the other women at the Virginia tourney, was outclassed by Mrs. Bruce in the challenge round. So as long as one of the sisters is entered in a Southern California tourney it looks as if she would win. There doesn't appear to be anyone, except Miss Mary Browne, who is capable of even making things interesting for any of the Suttons.

Miss Corinne Stanon of Los Angeles High, promises to rise to the top of the tennis ladder and perhaps one or more of the other women players will improve greatly, but the prospects are not such as to cause alarm among the sisters three.

The Wind Up.

EL VIENTO TAKES FINAL HEAT IN THE REGATTA.

BY PAUL JEFFERS.

EL VIENTO, owned by Sterling Cousens, won the third and last heat of the free-for-all speed boat race of the regatta of the Los Angeles Motor Boat Club that ended yesterday off Long Beach. Del Rey, the boat that has won the first two heats, went bad and failed to finish, thereby spoiling her chances of winning the title of "fastest motor boat in Southern California."

Only four of the ten boats that started the first heat finished the third heat and completed the seventy-two mile race. Of these four, El Viento and Campbell were the most consistent performers, although after overcoming her difficulties of the first day, Mary A has certainly shown up well in the last two heats. Mary A made the second best time for the three heats and will win second place unless the protest against her is upheld, in which case Campbell will be awarded the second prize.

The time of the boats for the third heat and for the three heats are:

No.	Boat.	Third Heat.	Total Time.
1.	El Viento	1h., 27m., 7 1-5s.	4h., 42m., 37s.
2.	Mary A	1h., 42m., 42s.	5h., 7m., 07s.
3.	Campbell	1h., 42m., 29 1-5s.	5h., 9m., 42s.
4.	Hammond	1h., 45m., 28s.	5h., 9m., 50s.

In the handicap speed boat race, Bull Pup II finished first, beating El Viento by over a minute. Whathehell finished third only thirty seconds behind El Viento. She would have done better if she had not been forced to cut inside of a stake compelling her to go back and round it. Del Roy started in this race but did not finish.

The winner of this event is not known as the ratings have not been figured and the handicaps cannot be determined. The order of finishing and elapsed time follows:

No.	Boat.	Time.
1.	Bull Pup II	4m., 07s.
2.	El Viento	4m., 2 4-5s.
3.	Whatnsbell	4m., 32 2-5s.
4.	Mary A	5m., 9 2-5s.
5.	Campbell	5m., 41 3-5s.
6.	Undine	6m., 10 4-5s.

RONCADOR WINS.

In the race for one-cylinder fishing boats Roncador finished first making the course in 42 minutes and 10 seconds. Billiken crossed second in 43 minutes and 30 seconds and Bonita third, in 47 minutes and 10 seconds.

Some very interesting things became apparent during the regatta. Some of the boat owners around here have been claiming from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour. El Viento, which won the title of fastest boat, averaged one nautical mile in three minutes and fifty-five seconds. This is at the rate of about 17.51 statute miles per hour and her fastest lap was done in very little faster time than this. Of course, the course was only logged off and was not surveyed but the time of some of the cruisers, whose speed is known for long distances, has shown that the true distance around the square is not far from four nautical miles.

The regatta will conclude with a banquet at Hotel Virginia tonight at which time the winners of the various handicap races will be announced and the prizes awarded.

A great deal of credit is due to Com. DeCamp, of the Motor Boat Club, and the regatta committee, consisting of R. F. B. Shaver, A. P. Johnson, Jr., and N. E. Brown, for the success of the regatta and the business-like way in which it was run. It has been only through much hard work and constant effort that so large a number of boats entered.

Well Trounced.

RASMUSSEN BEATS SAN DIEGO OFF OWN BAT.

BY MARSHALL D. TAYLOR.

LOS ANGELES administered a terrible beating to San Diego, in the first of a series of matches for the cricket championship of Southern California, at Vineyard yesterday, winning easily by an innings and 111 runs. The Borderers scored 92 and 57 runs to the 260 runs hit up by the locals.

The visitors opened strong. Kemp and Radcliffe between them sent the ball traveling to the boundary time and time again before Maddock effected a separation. Radcliffe played most stylishly, his forward strokes being clean and well timed. Kemp, contrary to his custom, played carefully.

With the exception of Willoughby, who reached double figures, the balance of the San Diego batsmen could do nothing with the deliveries of Bamford and Megget. The whole side were dismissed before the luncheon interval for eight runs short of the coveted century.

RASMUSSEN SHINES.

The locals fared disastrously in the opening stages of the game. With four good batsmen out for only forty-nine runs and the Gautteron brothers sending down maiden after maiden, it remained for Higgins and Rasmussen to put the team in a safe position.

Previous to the partnership of this pair, R. Gautteron sent down four maiden overs in succession, with one wicket to his credit. With the advent of the two Australians, a totally different aspect was put upon the game. Between this pair, eighty-one runs were added and the game won, before Higgins was clean bowled by Taylor.

In one over Higgins straight drove R. Gautteron clean out of the ground for four sixes in succession, followed by a boundary hit for four runs. Change after change was resorted to in the bowling, but with no success.

Rasmussen has never played such a sensational inning at Vineyard, even when he scored a century for Fresno two weeks ago. Without giving a chance, he pasted the ball to every quarter of the ground and gave the BALDY M'GREGOR BRINGS BIG PRICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NOBLESVILLE (Ind.) Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Baldy McGregor, the sensational 3-year-old trotter owned by George B. Dougan of Wayne county, has been sold to John E. Madden of Cleveland, the price being $7500.

Madden was so well pleased with the work of this member of the McGregor family in the Cleveland races that his offer followed and was accepted.

Baldy won fourth money in the Cleveland trotting sweepstakes and his showing was so good that many offers were made for him.

Representation at Del Monte Will Be Strong.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Jack Jevne, Norman Macbeth and Erving Armstrong each made fine scores on Saturday at the Los Angeles Country Club, when their golf "form" produced very proper enthusiasm among members in view of their early representation of the South at Del Monte. Jack Jevne won the sweepstake, match play against par, with 3 up on a handicap of 1, his medal score being 72. He achieved the home round in a picturesque 38, as will be observed:

Out: 5, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4, 37.
Home: 5, 4, 4, 3, 5, 4, 4, 4, 4, 35; total 72.

But both Macbeth and Armstrong improved upon that home round score with 34's—no wonder there is jubilation at Beverly. Macbeth, Armstrong and George H. Kurhts tied for second

"BUSHER" FELTS OF SEALS YOUNGEST MAN IN LEAGUE.

TWO YEARS ago, Elbert D. Felts, centerfielder of the Seals, didn't know a foul ball from a home run. Today he is a member of the San Francisco club and considered by many the most promising youngster in the league. Felts, who is only 19 years old, is the youngest player in the Coast League.

When Felts was a school boy he was considered a "boob," and was never given a chance on the sand lot nine. In High School he was not interested in the game and devoted his spare time to fishing and hunting while the other lads were upholding the school's honor on the diamond.

It was not till two years ago, in the little town of Willows, Cal., that the boy played his first game of ball.

In this game he landed on the heaver for four hits out of five times at bat. This started him. The lad realized that he was a natural ball player and in less than a month was the star of the Willows team.

In the twelve games in which he played that season he starred as an outfielder and on two occasions played in the short field. He batted .458 and the next season was signed to play with the Stockton team.

Here he showed up well and attracted considerable attention. His father and mother moved to San Luis Obispo, and here he made good on the town team. McCredie sent him a contract at this time, but as it called for him to be farmed out to one of the brush outfits in the Northwest League, the youngster refused and the Portland manager said he would sign him for the Portland club to report August 1; but in the meantime, Cal Ewing had heard of the boy and wired for him to report at Recreation Park.

The transportation came and two days after he reported, "Bill" Reidy signed him. Having been under the weather a great deal of the time, the boy has not been able to play much, but he has been at the bat twenty-seven times, since joining the Seals and has batted .333. Reidy says that he is a find and is counting on him developing into a high caliber hombre.

The Youngest Player in the Coast League.

Elbert D. Felts, the Seals' centerfielder, who is only 19 years old, and has the distinction of being the "kid" of the league. Reidy got him from Willows, and he is a live one.

Murder! Murder!

VERNON WINS BY HARD HITS.

Seal Pitchers Knocked All Around the Lot.

Both Teams Score Runs in Big Bunches.

Hosp and Litschi Surprise Fans With Homers.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Vernon, 13; San Francisco, 5. Morning game, eight innings.

Vernon, 15; San Francisco, 7. Afternoon game.

If you can beat that yesterday for form reversals, you'll have to get away from here to some race track where they have "high class" racing. Just imagine the Seals winning three easy games from the Tigers and then going back yesterday and having the life beaten out of them TWICE in one day.

Talk about hitting the ball! Vernon made sixteen hits in the morning and fifteen in the afternoon, while the Seals got ten each time. Pitchers seemed to be worth about 15 cents a dozen and not even that for a time. The Tigers knocked Bill Reidy's all around the lot, and even out of it, and three of these were stuck in in each game in the effort to keep the Tigers from making a thousand runs.

On the other hand, Stewart was yanked out of the morning game when the Seals began to slam him after a rather disastrous sixth inning, and in the afternoon they knocked Raleigh around for five runs in the seventh inning, but the Tigers were so far ahead at that time that Raleigh stuck the game out to the finish.

There is little real baseball history to such games where almost everyone knocks the cover off the ball. What can anyone say about a morning game where the Seals make four runs and the Tigers five in the sixth inning? In the afternoon the Tigers got seven in the sixth round and the Seals five in the seventh inning. Call this baseball? Well, hardly.

It was not bad ball, at that, but was just one of those days that all ball players know when everyone hits the ball a mile and everyone makes all kinds of runs. All of the pitchers were there only in spots, for just about the time they thought themselves right, a bunch of sluggers would come up and knock the best they had to the fence. Both performances were very much of the slam bang kind.

The Tigers began early on Baker in the second inning of the morning game, for after he had walked Brashear and Litschi, Agnew hammered out a double to the fence, scoring both runners. Litschi's homer over the left fence made the third run in the fourth inning and Stewart's pass, and singles by Carlisle and Kane and Hosp's sacrifice fly, got another one in the fifth.

SEALS GET BUSY.

The Seals could not get by Stewart until the sixth, but then they tied the score in an alarming manner. Wuffli doubled to center, Howard was hit by pitcher, and Gedeon fanned. Wuffli scored on a wild pitch and then McArdle hit to right. Mohler's single scored Howard and McArdle amid great cheers, but Mohler was caught near third on Felts's bounce to Litschi. Shea followed with a short fly back of second base that Bayless muffed, and Felts scored from first base.

Litschi was the first man up in the last half of the sixth, and as soon as Baker for the Seals had walked him, Reidy took out his pitcher and put in McCorry. Before the inning had ended the Vernons had made no less than five runs off two pokes, a sacrifice and steal, a single, double and a home run, Hosp getting this with Kane on second.

Stewart began the seventh inning by soaking Mundorff with the ball, and Wuffli followed with a hit to left and after these Harry was taken out to give Gray a chance. One single was made off Dolly that scored Mundorff, but this was the last run the Seals got.

Toner pitched for the Seals in the eighth, and a double, two singles and an error got the Tigers two runs.

The game went but eight innings and was stopped by the time limit. There were no startling fielding features, for the batting was too ferocious.

LOUD MATINEE GAME.

The matinee performance was the same kind of a thing, only worse, for when one team makes fifteen runs and the other seven, you do not have to guess more than once to know that there is not much big league stuff in it.

Having made four easy runs in the first five innings, the Tigers went into the sixth inning without trying much. Brashear singled, Bayless walked and Burrell fanned. Agnew singled, scoring Brashear and Bayless, and then Miller was taken out to give McCorry a chance. He made Raleigh force Litschi at third, but following this Carlisle walked, Kane and Hosp singled and Brashear doubled. Seven runs were scored that inning.

The very next inning the Seals gave the Tigers an awful scare by making five runs, but this spurt was only a flash in the pan. Mundorff's single and steal, singles by Howard and Gedeon, Corhan's pass, Mohler's sacrifice fly, McArdle's pass and Schmidt's double made the runs.

Toner again finished the game for the Seals, as he had in the morning.

ARELLANES IS ANGEL JINX.

Leverenz Pounded Hard by Tail Enders.

Berger's Absence One Cause of the Victory.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank Arellanes officiated at the obsequies incident to the burial of the old Sunday jinx today; and the proud Angels, who but a few days ago had dreams of taking the league leadership away from Vernon within the next week, were the chief mourners. For the Senators had won their first Sunday game on the home lot since the second Sunday of the season.

Before the game the Angels were gaily chatting with their admirers and telling how the addition of Joe Berger to the infield had been instrumental in pulling the Southerners up from their 1911 position in the basement to their present proud position of runners-up to the league leaders. Berger was taking a day off today resting his head from the effects of the beanball which Munsell passed him last Friday, and before the game was three innings old, Berger's absence from that infield was much in evidence and as a result the visitors' infield was peppered full of holes by the galaxy of bunts and infield hits which the Senators hung up.

But the faults of the Angels did not wholly account for the burial of the Sunday jink. Frank Arellanes was pitching the kind of ball that wins, and he was being given the kind of support that the fans like to see.

HUGHES AND JOHNSON STOP WHITE SOX EASILY.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Tom Hughes and Walter Johnson did a sister act today with the White Sox as the victims. Hughes held Chicago to one run and two hits until the ninth inning, when a couple of errors put a man on first and another on third, with none out.

Johnson then took the mound. He fanned Weaver, but Kuhn flied to the outfield, Callahan scoring. Johnson finished his day's work by fanning Walsh. Score:

TALES of the TURKISH TROPHIES

TALE 13 - THE BLONDE LADY

"AND who is this little Harem Scarem that seeketh our Royal favor?" inquired the Kink, as the Counsel for the Plaintiff brought a blonde into the Court Room.

"My client seeks a divorce, your majesty," said the Counsellor.

"On what grounds?" asked the Kink.

"Granted!" said the Kink. "Next time you marry, Dearie, be sure to get a hubby who smokes Turkish Trophies."

The scouts are running ...er the country grabbing the ... farmer lads for the football ... There is a great deal of keen rivalry between the institutions playing the Rugby and the American game. Oxy and Pomona are telling the youth of the land that they must stand true to tradition and support the game that has made the American college man famous the world over. On the other hand, the scouts from the University of Southern California say that it pays to be in the swim and ask what chance the old game has, if Stanford and Berkeley play Rugby and all the State high schools take up the English game. With all these various lines of oratory going the rounds, what will the harvest be?

* * *

Coming Season to Be Test.

This season will tell the tale as to what type of football will be played in Southern California during the coming years. Oxy and Pomona are spending real money to bring in high-class teams from other States, while U.S.C. has one of the heaviest and best schedules ever slated by a local institution. When we get them to spending money in the cause something is going to drop.

* * *

Very Promising.

One of the best American football games of the coming season should be the battle between Pomona and the Denver School of Mines. These miners will be remembered as the bunch that came out of the rocky fastnesses three years ago and gave St. Vincent's the trimming of the year, when the Saints were supposed to have one of the greatest football machines ever developed in this part of the State. In going up against Pomona, the rock doctors will find that the Sage Hens have one of the fastest teams that ever put on the togs. Last season Pomona was considered in a class by itself here, and we are all anxious to see what the Blue and White will do with a team of its own class.

Burns, Mrs. Lee Stephens, who has long since mastered all the intricacies of her new automobile, Mrs. Colwell and Mrs. Phelps Reed. Several of the golfers joined the party for tea including Miss Halsted and Miss Charlotte Burns.

Mrs. Boardman Reed has been making herself popular lately with her numerous hospitalities. The large garden party of recent memory was but a forerunner of several smaller affairs and last evening she entertained exclusively for the young people—the engaged couples or the charming eligibles. Miss Constance Clark and Hugh Purcell, for instance, Miss Shirley Burns and Guthrie Clark, Miss Constance Colwell—who by the way is distinctly one of the comers in the tennis world—Miss Imogen Wood, James Parker. And these two nice young married couples, doubtless as shining examples, were also included—Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Hogle.

It speaks well for the San Gabriel Club that so many of her members should be anxious for a closer and more intimate acquaintance to which end new houses are being built overlooking the links almost every month. The latest to join the happy throng are Dr. and Mrs. Stoner of Alvarado street, Los Angeles, who have selected a site next to the Lee Stephens and will commence building operations in the fall.

Annandale.

The Annandale Country Club likewise had a goodly attendance on Saturday, when at least fifty golfers proved true to their faith. Three shining lights tied for that precious cup with a net score of seventy-three—it is a good job Solomon is not going to be allowed to decide who is the legitimate owner. Paul F. Deles, the new member, made an eighty gross, which his seven handicap reduced to seventy-three. E. H. Strafford made eighty-three gross with ten handicap, and Henry Newby, who has just returned after a long absence, made eighty-four with eleven handicap.

Lincoln Clark and E. W. Smith also tied for second place with a net seventy-four, the former with eight handicap and the latter with thirteen.

There were any number of amicable foursomes. Mr. Deles making his eighty in company with E. C. Kammeyer, J. W. Monahan and the Rev. W. H. Cornett. Mr. Strafford found his inspiration in the company of L. du P. Miller, Washington Wellington Sullivan and Joseph Ball. Mr. Newby went round with E. H. Lockwood, H. J. Cole, and C. L. Schwartz. Another foursome included F. D. Tatum, Howard J. Fish, the one and only Guy Eddie and W. W. Leithead. The latter is also a recent sojourner returned to the fold.

Four hits, two force-outs, and one walk, account for the seven Southerners who could find their way along the paths. Only one went beyond second, and only once during the game did the visitors have two men on the bags at once.

The Senators carried their pep and ginger into their offensive work as well as their defensive work and from the time that O'Rourke cracked a single into left for the first hit of the game in the first frame, there was no question as to which team was in condition to stand a hard battle in the midsummer heat.

Moore singled for the Angels in the second, but never went beyond second. Brooks singled in the third, but was forced at second by Leverenz, who died at first while Howard and Page flied out. Heitmuller registered his only hit of the day in the fourth when he drove one through the pitcher's box, Arellanes just getting the tip of his bare finger on the ball, but Heinie died at first, while Moore and Metzger flied to Heister.

The Angels' best chance came and went in the fifth, when Brooks drew a walk with one down and took second when Arellanes and Cheek got their wires crossed on the Leverenz bunt. But Howard forced Leverenz at second, sending Brooks to third, and Page ended the inning by flying to Heister.

After that the Angels were retired in one, two, three order for the last five frames, flies to Heister in the ninth by Heitmuller and Moore being the only balls which were knocked out of the infield by that bunch of slugging Angels.

OAKS TAKE TWO FROM BEAVER TEAM.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

OAKLAND, Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Portland had no chance once the Commuters opened up their battering rams in the morning fest across the bay. The Oaks were full of hits and hits meant runs for them every time they started a rally. Three of these affairs were reeled off during the eight and a half innings. Two of them would have been enough to send the Commuters safely on their way. They never overlooked a single thing and the further the game went, the better it was for Oakland.

The Beavers played very bushy ball behind their two pitchers, Harkness and Koestner. But this was no fault of the Oaks. They simply waded in and took a chance whenever the chance presented itself. They were not responsible for the erratic work of their opponents. Had Portland played the game the story might have been a different one, but Portland did not play the game and Oakland did. This in brief is the answer.

HARKNESS GOES UP.

Harkness started to go bad in the second spasm and the whole team went to pieces behind him. He could not get the ball over the pan. When he did the Oaks generally hit it and the other fellows booted it. Anyhow the end of the spasm saw the Commuters tie up the score and all on one hit. This was because the Portland pitcher was not there. He was routed before the round was over and Koestner took up the heavy burden.

They did not hit Harkness so hard while he lasted, but they sure did give the new slabster a fine time. It was bing bang from the moment that the first man handled the club in the third inning till the last man had been disposed of. The inning netted three runs, sending the Oaks into the lead and completely crushing the Beavers. The rest was easy for Oakland.

Not satisfied with this, Sharp's men got there in the very next session and tacked on a couple more. This made it 7 to 3. The Beavers grabbed their final tally in the sixth when Gregory slowed down a bit.

The afternoon game was a pitchers' battle between Higginbotham and Pernoll. Portland lost in the seventh inning on Higginbotham's pass to Hoffman. A single advanced him to second and he scored by sharp running on two outs. Scores:

BERGER TO RETURN.

"Hen" Berry is in receipt of a letter from Dillon in which "Cap" stated that Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox had given out the information that he expects to exercise his option on Berger at the end of this season. It seems that Comiskey has been getting too much good news about the work of Berger during the last two months. Just how Weaver is any better than Joe it is hard to figure out.

HUGH TO QUIT TIGERS.

BAN ON WAR PATH.

Johnson did not forget this and is said to have volunteered the information to his cronies, among them, Charles Comiskey, that he would "get" Jennings. The strike of the Detroit players this season over the Cobb suspension, and Jennings's pacific stand in the matter, with his leanings towards the players' side of the controversy, only tended to show Johnson that a man with the interest of the league more at heart should direct a team so popular as the Detroit aggregation.

Frank Navin was given a quiet tip to get rid of Jennings. Navin is a strong executive and a far-seeing magnate. He saw the eighteen-year contract Johnson has as president of the American League staring him in the face, and quickly made up his mind to side with Bancroft.

Johnny Kling had failed in Boston, both as a manager and diplomat, as far as his players and the press were concerned. For the past four weeks Jim Gaffney of New York has been dickering with John M. Ward to get Ward's Boston stock and thus gain absolute control of the club. He had Jennings in mind, having been tipped off to the change in the American League affairs by Frank Farrell. Jennings was offered the place as soon as Ward was out of the club. When Gaffney gained control, Jennings was told that the deal was closed.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the new leader of the fighting Tigers, has been a Detroit pitcher for the past nine years, coming from the Brooklyn club in the days of warfare between the American and National leagues. His early training was received around Philadelphia and his first real minor league was with Providence of the old Eastern, now the International League.

"WILD BILL'S" CAREER.

His sobriquet of "Wild Bill" was taken from the lack of control he displayed as a minor leaguer and not from any of his personal habits. He was really a member of the Brooklyn club when performing for Providence, being "farmed out." He has always been ranked as one of the really great modern pitchers. In the three years Detroit won the American League pennant Donovan and George Mullin were the mainstays of the club in the box. His new place is considered as a reward for his long and faithful services.

Donovan has a wonderfully magnetic personality and is extremely popular with the other players. He has marked executive ability, good baseball sense, and is a shrewd business man. Leading critics of the game have always considered Donovan excellent managerial material and his promotion comes as no surprise. He is the logical man to be selected by President Navin as Jennings's successor.

BAT NELSON IS THWARTED AGAIN

CLIMBS PIKE'S PEAK TO GET MARRIED, BUT DOESN'T.

He and Fay King Decide to Pull Off Fancy Stunt, but When They Reach the Top the Minister Has Departed—Undertaker Volunteers to Tie Knot, but Bat Refuses.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

PIKE'S PEAK SUMMIT (Colo.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] "Battling" Nelson and Fay King, a Denver newspaper artist, were balked here this afternoon in an attempt to get married. The ceremony will be performed in Denver in a few days.

The former champion and Miss King took the trip of 14,147 feet up Pike's Peak for the start of their honeymoon. To their surprise and consternation they found out that the minister had grown tired waiting for them and had left. Only a telegraph operator and an undertaker were on hand.

The undertaker was willing to be substituted, but the mention of an undertaker brought unpleasant memories to Nelson, so Bat decided to postpone the ceremony.

Nelson and Miss King returned to Denver and Bat will there make arrangements for the wedding. After a trip to Chicago and Hegewich, he plans a honeymoon to Australia.

Hogan says that he expects to have a surprise for the fans in a few days. This will probably be the announcement of the purchase of Pitcher Jim Wiggs, formerly of Oakland, whom it is said Hogan is after.

DE WITT VAN COURT'S COLUMN.

I SEE THE northern sports are much surprised at Abe Attell's fine condition. Knowing his condition when he left here and the strict system of training that Billy Nolan put him through up at his Lake county ranch, it is no surprise to me. Attell, like most of our clever fellows, is a poor trainer.

The rough and ready chap who depends entirely on his stamina is usually the best trainer. Clever fighters usually depend on their cleverness to win and figure that their cleverness will offset a lot of fine condition, which has often proved true. But occasionally they slip a cog, as Attell did the last time he fought Harlem Tommy Murphy.

Attell in many ways reminds me of Jim Corbett in his training. Abe stayed up late nights playing poker. While he never drank or smoked much, keeping late hours is about the worst thing a fighter can do.

Corbett liked the late hours and electric lights and like Abe, drank little, but smoked some. Jim liked attention and could only get it when many of the sports were around and that was usually after dark.

When Corbett fought Jim Jeffries the last time he took a solid year to prepare himself for it. Attell made good in three months' time. Jim was traveling over the country with his theatrical troupe and spent a lot of his spare time in the different gymnasiums that happened to be in the towns that he passed through. He did a wonderful piece of work for himself in building up his muscles, but he did not have the stamina that Attell got by living next to nature as Billy Nolan made him do on his ranch.

Attell was never much of a worker around his training camps heretofore, but this time he has probably done more hard work than he ever did for a contest up to the present time.

Corbett, on the other hand, would work in a gymnasium just as long as he could hold an audience, and I remember well when he was training for his fight with Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson, he ran twelve miles the day before the fight.

Billy Delaney, who was training him, wanted to burn down the handball court one night to keep Jim from overdoing himself and would have done so if it had not been for Jim's brother, Joe. Delaney woke Joe up one night about 1 o'clock and wanted Joe to go with him and burn the alley, but Joe said, "No, if I go with you and Jim finds it out he will never forgive me."

Joe was Jim's favorite brother, so Delaney let him have his way, but it was just such training that put Jim to the bad.

If Corbett had followed the system of Billy Nolan and gone to the mountains for a year, as Abe did for three months, he would have got a lot more of his vitality back, and been in much better condition than he was.

Many fighters think that trainers as a whole are a joke. But there are trainers and trainers. The average trainer around these training camps, trains each and every man they have anything to do with, alike. There are hardly two men that can be trained exactly alike. The condition of a man's mind has just as much to do with his chances of getting himself into good condition as his physical development, and good wind. It is the mind that directs the muscles in a fight and if that is not in good condition there is little chance to win.

Abe Attell told Billy Nolan he was no Bat Nelson when Billy insisted on his doing so much road work, so much boxing and so much bag punching, etc.

Abe has had his own way so long that it is hard for him to give in to anybody. But from reports he has finally come to the conclusion that Nolan had the right dope on him and is following his advice. Attell owes all of his comeback to Billy Nolan.

Attell has been a most wonderful little fighter and we will all be glad if he comes back to stay.

Training of athletes does not depend so much on what is done as how it is done. It stands to reason that if an oarsman is training for a match, that he must do a certain amount of rowing. The same holds good with a boxer or any other kind of an athlete, but outside of that there is no set system of work to be followed as long as it is in some form of athletic work that will develop the muscles and wind. Rowing, handball, baseball, mountain climbing, are every bit as good to get right as the old system of skipping the rope, punching the ball, etc., as long as there is the proper amount of boxing worked in. The old idea of drying a fighter out all during his training is another mistaken idea.

Nolan gave Attell all he wanted to eat and drink and the more he drank the better Billy liked it, but it was nothing but good pure spring water, pure milk and good, wholesome food, that he indulged in. Abe's training was made more in the nature of a vacation for him; it kept his mind off the fact that he was really going through a systematic course. Hunting, fishing, horseback riding and mountain climbing was all he did never a glove in sight.

HOW PRESIDENT TAFT PLAYS GOLF.

According to Travis, the most striking feature of President Taft's game is the intensity and duration of gaze with which he addresses the ball. This, in the expert's opinion, amounts almost to a fault, because of the risk of incorrect focusing through over-concentration of the retina on the ball.

The President plays with fairly long and heavy clubs. His driver and brassie are forty-seven inches long and weigh fourteen ounces. He has made the Myopia course, regarded as particularly difficult, in 98. None of the Presidential chums and classmates have been able to break equal this record.

On the contrary a good story is told of the first game played on this course by Judge Hollister and Judge Warrington. They made the first hole in 18-19, the second in 23-24, the third in 11-13, and in the fourth went quite to pieces. Judge Hollister lost six balls and his opponent seven.

"At that," remarked the first-named jurist, "at that, I won out on balls."

FROM THE MASON TO THE MAJESTIC

By Julian Johnson

The Graumann-Fischer chain of theaters for brief musical comedy is the newest development in our amusement life.

Mr. Graumann, who has made a shitiful of money in San Francisco, ten, twenty and thirty pennies at a time, has been down here during the past week, conferring with "Pop" Fischer, in the latter's snuggery at the Spring-street Lyceum.

Graumann has Larked back to his camp by the Golden Gate, but the result of the conference is a chain of three houses, already, with more to come into the string.

The three at present in line—apparently—are Fischer's house here, Graumann's in San Francisco and a new theater in Portland.

Graumann and Fischer hope to establish good companies in several places, and very often interchange them, so that no one company plays in town more than four months.

The scale of prices might not always be the same, but would depend upon the caliber of the organization.

The rumor of a combination of Fischer and Ferris Hartman is as strong as ever, and, in fact, has some basis of truth.

The world's champion at putting on one show a week intends to sail, in two weeks' time, for a rapid tour of the oriental cities.

His bookings, taking him from the ports of Japan along the Asiatic coast to Manila, will permit him to return to America the last of this year or the first of next.

He intends to come back to Los Angeles in December or January, and may go into the Lyceum.

His manager, Charley Kavanaugh, is in town, and will not go to the Orient.

He says that when he returns Hartman will have a brand new company, the only familiar faces being his own and those of the irrepressible and unforgettable Walter and Muggins.

Margaret Leslie, Morosco's imported leading woman, will leave New York for Los Angeles today, and will arrive in time to play the woman's part in "The Money Moon," which is to be the successor of "The Purple" at the Burbank stage.

This is Miss Leslie's first visit to America.

Among the sleepy folk in town yesterday were several whose drowsiness was caused by Laurette Taylor's farewell party, following her well-beloved last performance of "Peg."

Miss Taylor's gathering was quite without timbrel or dance, bibulousness or riot, but the talk of auld lang syne and pleasant Los Angeles days caused the guests to arise from the supper table just as the Sunday morning clocks were striking 6.

I wonder how the Burbank audience-chamber, dark and packed, looked to Dave Hartford—the gentleman who never reads the newspapers—yesterday afternoon?

Do you realize that it has been nearly five months since Hartford stepped on that stage during a performance?

Speaking of the "Purple," I understand that Paul Armstrong's new play, "The Escape," is likely to be tried out at one of the local stock houses.

"The Escape" deals with the misadventures of a poor shop-girl—I think she lives in Brooklyn and subways the whole distance from Flatbush avenue to the handkerchief counter—who sells her personality to the perpetual profligate puffy with self.

Armstrong's characters have usually been tough guys like himself, but in this instance he is said to have gone considerable way in the delineation of a woman, and to have made her skirt true to life—which is to say, as far as he is concerned, New York between theater-time and the last milkman.

Have you met Tammany Young?

Little Tammany, in the 133-pound class, was at Vegas for the debate between the fireman and the black brute, has been down in Merico, and now is on his way back to New York.

The sporting editor says that Uncle Tom McCarey is trying to sign up Tammany Young and Bert Leslie for a slang scrap.

William Elliott, who played the son in the original American production of "Madame X," has quit acting and has gone into the producing business.

The actual work on "Madame Butterfly," now at the Orpheum, and "The Drums of Oude," soon to be there, was done by him.

John Barberous Barrymore, with Mrs. Barrymore, will leave for the East this morning.

The Barrymores live in a Jersey village, where they don't know that the Maine has been blown up, called Rockville Center.

Last summer a friend of theirs, being driven to the tavern from the station by the village's single hackman, was enlightened as follows: "See that place over there? Well, that's where Barrymore, the magician, lives. Him and his wife busted up. Wife's out West som'res, I guess, but you ought to see the peach with him this summer!"

That was during the Barrymore honeymoon.

The cast of "Oliver Twist" will include Thomas McLarnie as Bill Sykes, Muriel Starr as Nancy, Hazel Buckham in the title-role, and of course Nat Goodwin as Fagin.

The western "Bird of Paradise" people will leave for Chicago, and rehearsals, next week.

CATCHER BOLES IS REALLY A PITCHER.

Hen Berry of the Los Angeles team has a new pitcher.

That is, he is new to the pitching line here, for he has not pitched a game, but he will probably be tried out before long.

He is none other than Catcher Boles.

This bird began his career as a pitcher back in Stillwater, Okla., in 1903, and pitched for that team a year. In 1904 he went to the Ft. Worth, Tex., team as a pitcher and utility man and his friends say he pitched grand ball. In 1905-6 he played shortstop and pitched for the team and the following year was manager and catcher.

He went to the Topeka team in 1908 as a catcher and utility man and the next year played with Kansas City as a catcher and utility man. During that season he played every position on the team but center field.

In the early part of 1910 he played for Kansas City and later on went to the Topeka team and in the latter part of the season caught for the St. Joe club. Last year he was a holdout for more money than he had been getting and this spring Henry Berry bought him from St. Joseph.

Berry says he may give Boles a chance to pitch a game before the season is over.

CLASSY NAGS ENTERED IN SACRAMENTO RACES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—The reopened purses, 2:11 pace and the 2:12 trot, which heretofore were $5000 and cut to $2500 owing to a lack of entry closed on July 25 with an entry list of nineteen horses named in the 2:11 pace and twenty horses named in the 2:12 trot.

The most prominent among these are Auto Zombro, Helenes, Jr., Manitoba, Star Brino, Colusa and June Pointer, which are entries in the 2:11 pace. Manitoba, Star Brino and Auto Zombro are in the stable of A. C. McKenzie, a cousin of R. C. McKenzie, who recently purchased the Pleasanton track. These horses are racing in far-off Canada at the present time, but will wind up their season's campaign by racing through the Pacific Northwest, California and Arizona, thence back to Pleasanton for a pleasant sojourn. Helenes, Jr., has raced several good races in Eastern Canada, this year and will be a feature at the coming meeting here.

Those most prominent in the 2:12 trot are the gray gelding Henry Gray by McKinney's greatest son, the dead Zombro. This horse's history reads like a romance, but it is almost too detailed to go into. He has raced year after year in all kinds of weather over all kinds of race tracks in every town of the Northwest and British Columbia, but this will be his first appearance in California and all lovers of the horse who have any knowledge of this game trotter's career will take off their hats and wish him luck when he turns for the word.

Adam G., the double gaited horse owned by E. A. Bachant of Fresno, will be very much in the limelight as he is a game campaigner and finished second to the great mare, Bernice R., at Pleasanton in 2:11¼. Bernice R. will be here as well as several others of lesser prominence, but which are just as great prospects as she was at the time she was bought by the present owners. Oriena, by Ormand, out of Helena, one of the great brood mares of the world today, is another entry in this race and will have to be reckoned with. The following list gives the entry, the owner's name and the sire:

MOTORCYCLISTS MAKE FAST TIME AT BRIGHTON.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

BRIGHTON BEACH (N. Y.) Aug. 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Before the largest crowd that has been at the stadium motordrome at Brighton Beach, Arthur Chappie, the undefeated New York sensation, trounced Johnny Albright of Denver in straight heats in the feature event last night, traveling the four-mile distance in 3:53 1-4 and 3:54 1-5, respectively.

The first heat of the event was one of the greatest battles ever ridden between supposed kings. Albright got off to a good start and led Chappie for two miles, then the New Yorker began to crowd and forced Albright to give up the lead for one lap. In the final lap Chappie shot out and was the winner by twenty feet.

The second heat was neck and neck all the way. Chappie rode high on the track to avoid Albright's crowding. They rode wheel to wheel for three miles and Chapple kept holding the Denverite to the pole. In the last mile the New Yorker began to gain, winning by two feet in the most exciting finish that has been witnessed this season.

The final event, the ten-mile handicap, with Johnny Albright at scratch, went to Albright in 7:08 3-5. The Denver boy gave the field two laps and finished ahead of Mercer, who was second, and Wray third.

O. U." a satire by Judson , is not at all bad in plot, and me rattling lines. Unions and m, with its graft, its foolish e-delegate system, its inward s and its absurd rules and ex-ions are the mark shot at and resoundingly hit. In fact, I good many people in the house yesterday were surprised at the cleverness of the situations. As a rule tabloid drama is of very ghostly substance, and depends on specialties for its maintenance. Here, however, there are several high spots of mirth in the piece itself.

Rice and Cady vary but little, and their long and short, disjointed language went over as usual. I find Cady especially funny, with his piping vocalism and his Jupiterian equator.

Lucille Davis, the leading woman, has a pleasing way and an interesting voice, and certainly can be said to have made good with her new following.

Eugenie Le Blanc, the soubrette, was either off key or nervous, for her soubretting didn't seem to impress very much.

The chorus—prettily costumed, except for an atrociously-garbed bathing number—was in strong working and looking order. This chorus contains two people, who might be principals—Hallie Manners, an incipient soubrette, and Hazel Purdy, with class enough to be a comedienne or second woman.

Today and Tonight.

"The Taming of Alberta," a new play, will be seen at the Belasco Theater with Muriel Starr as the lady to be trimmed and tamed.

Motherhood

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

MAY TUNNEL THE BIG HILL.

Santa Monicans to Bring Country Closer to Sea Propose a Giant Engineering Scheme.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 4.—It was declared by members of the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce, in regular monthly session last evening, that the final solution of the problem of handling the vehicle traffic and of bringing the back country in closer touch with the beach was to tunnel through the hill at Marine street. The proposition was hailed with enthusiasm by the members present, and John Morton was made a committee of one to investigate the probable cost and other items in regard to the tunnel project. It is stated that the tunnel would add more than a million dollars to the value of the real estate in the country beyond the hill, which is difficult to climb back of the Ocean Park section.

FIGURES COMPLETE.

City Clerk Murray completed the assessment figures of Santa Monica today, and he finds that the total valuation of property is $11,944,815, or an increase of more than $1,600,000 over the total of last year, a fact which greatly pleases Santa Monicans, who point with pride to the building record. There is a big exemption of the property of Civil War veterans, the total of this class of property being $87,790. The real estate valuation is $6,788,385, while the improvements are valued at $2,466,065, the personal property at $750,000, and the moneys at $28,170.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Mode Wineman, artist and collector of amateur landscape photographs, gave a private view of his own landscape prints to a group of invited guests last night at Hotel Windermere. The photographs were obtained from years of effort, travel and expense, and constitute probably the most valuable and artistic series of landscape views in Southern California at the present time.

St. Clement's Catholic Church will hold a fair, beginning Tuesday evening, an event which the women of the congregation are busily engaged in planning for. It will continue throughout the week, and will be held in St. Clement's school.

Well Spent.

City School Budget for Next Year a Whopper.

Eighty Thousand Pupils the Estimated Enrollment.

Eight New Buildings to Be Ready for Business.

It will cost $4,000,000 to maintain the public school system of the city of Los Angeles next year, according to figures which will be submitted to the Board of Education when it meets to face the budget problem. The money needed to maintain the present progress and development will be at least $1,000,000 more than last year.

The marvelous growth of the city is accurately demonstrated in the added requirements of the public schools, which increase in enrollment and expense from 15 to 20 per cent. annually. The total enrollment for the year ending in June was about 68,000 and this figure is expected to reach at least 80,000 during the coming term, which begins on September 9.

It will take $1,000,000 to pay salaries, equip new buildings, complete improvements and additions to old buildings, and purchase additional land deemed necessary to provide adequate playgrounds for buildings occupying small lots, as well as to increase the regular playground work. At least three-quarters of this sum, or approximately $750,000, will go for salaries of teachers and employees, and to provide for their increased number made necessary by the opening of new buildings and the employment of necessary help incident to the normal growth of the school system.

"Three years ago," said Superintendent Francis, yesterday, "salaries were raised on a sliding scale amounting to about 20 per cent. This is based on length of service, and increases with every year, much of such increase coming into effect this year. It is also my hope that we make distinct advances during the year in the extension of school gardening, playgrounds and continuation schools.

The school year will open in September with an enrollment of about 2000 teachers and 50,000 pupils, which will gradually increase as the season advances. There will be 126 schools ready at the opening, including five new grade schools averaging twelve rooms each. One of the these new schools—all of them modern and fully equipped—is on Lorena street, Boyle Heights; another is at Malaba and Fresno streets, two are on Western avenue and one in the southeastern part of the city on Wadsworth street. In addition a school is building on East Forty-ninth street which will not be ready in time for occupancy at the beginning of the term.

The plan introduced last January by Superintendent Francis and which provides for an increase in the functions of the schools, a grouping of subjects tending to eliminate those which will be of no practical value to pupils who do not expect to pursue their education to college or university, and the establishment of intermediate schools is to be further worked out.

There are already five of these intermediate schools in successful operation between the graded courses and the High School curriculum, and four more are in process of building. Three of these on McKinley avenue, Sentous street and Virgil avenue, will be ready for use this fall. The fourth, which is located on Boyle Heights, may not be completed for another year.

These intermediate schools are designed to carry much of the High School work, cut the elementary period from eight to six years, and lengthen the High School course to five years and make it of a junior university character. They prepare the pupil by easy stages for the High School work and tend to do away with much of the discouragement incident to a radical change in method of study and system of teaching, which, it is found, prevents many from going on with the higher education. It bridges the gulf between the ninth grade and the first year in the High School, the most trying in the experience of the pupil. The erection and equipping of these intermediate schools will go on as fast as funds are provided for the purpose.

BOARD'S POLICY.

The need for new buildings to keep pace with the growth of the city is a condition almost constantly before the board and one which will be faced tonight when the budget for 1912-13 is up for consideration. The amount of money determined upon for the coming year, over the $1,000,000 absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the schools as they are, will be determined by the necessity of extension or retrenchment as seen by the committee.

Another problem facing the city educators is that of the night school. There is no argument against the desirability of this department, which has developed within a few years. The night school adjunct to the school system doubled last year over the year previous and will double again this year, if the board can see its way clear to shoulder the financial responsibility incident to the maintenance of these schools.

In view of a new State ordinance which provides that no funds may come to the commonwealth for such purpose the entire burden of the after-dark schools falls upon the city. This will be one of the questions which may be thrashed out at tonight's meeting.
